Grant of $10,000 has been made to the Northwest Service Cooperative by Thief River Falls Jobs Incorporated to permit acquisition of technology equipment for community training throughout northwestern Minnesota. At the 20th anniversary observance of the service cooperative Tuesday, March 4, Art Tranby (center) of Jobs Incorporated presented the check to Bob Larson (left), director and Art Tiff, technology coordinator. The cooperative will be able to take laptop computers acquired with the funds to virtually any location in the area to provide training for new users and basic training in use of spreadsheets, data bases or word processing programs.

Teen hotline to be expanding service that they would give depending on who the real problem is with.

The Adams are presently expanding the hotline down through the Twin Cities and over to Duluth along with North and South Dakota. They are hoping to reach as many teens as they can. With increased calls they will also have to increase their staff, but that doesn't bother them. Steve stated that as long as there are teens out there with problems, there will be people volunteering to help with listening and funding.

Steve and Darla are also available to speak to target groups about issues such as alcohol, teen pregnancy and STD's. "Teens in this area have been very responsive," he commented. He said that the teens really enjoy listening to them. Most of them really aren't aware of what is out there, or else they think it will never happen to them.

That is also part of the reason for the hotline. Whenever a teen has a question, they have a person to call for answers and advice. And if the teen is troubled, they have a person who will sit and listen to them and not judge or criticize.

Steve added that suicide seems to be a large issue in the area. When a local Warroad teen committed suicide recently, the lines were flooded with calls. Some just wanted to talk about what happened and how they were feeling, but some were sharing feelings of wanting to do the same thing.

When an incident like this occurs, Steve tries to refer them to a professional to seek help. But not every teen wants help, and Steve will not push them into getting it. All he will do is listen and try to help them.

The teen hotline is a toll-free number and any teen from any town or state can feel free to call. They can call at any time of the day and know that someone is always there to listen.

Not only can teens call, but also the parents. If the parents would like advice on what to do with their teen, or if they just need someone to listen to their problems relating to their teens, they can also feel free to call.

Steve and Darla try to stress to the teens that they need to talk to their parents about their problem, sometimes they just need the encouragement. That's the first step to get the family support they need commented Darla.

Steve and Darla are not trying to take the place of the parent in the listening process, they are trying to get them together with their parents. If the teen wishes, they will call the parents for them, or be there in person while the teen tells his or her parents. The same is available in the reverse situation where the parent is trying to reach the teen.

Anyone interested in calling the hotline may do so at the following number: 1-800-330-TEEN (8336). 888 is a toll-free number, it is the new extension of the 800 numbers.

Legion birthday dinner scheduled Friday, March 14

On the department level Dennis served as vice commander in 1992-93 and membership director in 1993-94. In addition, he has served as chairman of the Legionnaire insurance trust committee since 1991.

On the national level, Henkemeyer has served on the distinguished guests committee and the defense civil preparedness committee. Presently he serves on The American Legion magazine commission.

Commander Henkemeyer is also a member of the ANAVICUS, Sons of The American Legion, Voiture 415 of the 40 et 8 and Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 6992.

In the community of Sauk Rapids, Dennis is a retired volunteer firefighter, a past president of the Jaycees, past president of the Chamber of Commerce, a former city councilman and member of the Sauk Rapids Lions club.

The department commander and his wife Linda, who is a member of the American Legion Auxiliary, have three sons who are all members of the Sons of The American Legion and a daughter who is a Legion Auxiliary Junior member. They are members of Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Sauk Rapids.

Issue alert for snowmobiling, other river use

Snowmobilers and others using the Thief River in Pennington and Marshall counties are being alerted to expected increased water flow in the river from now until spring breakup.

Water is being released from Thief Lake, Agassiz, Elm Lake and Lost River reservoirs to make room for spring runoff.

River ice users are urged to use extra caution when traveling on or across frozen rivers and to be alert for changing ice conditions as spring approaches, temperatures rise and natural and controlled flows increase.

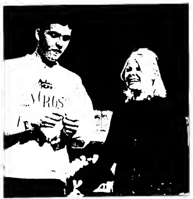
"Guys and Dolls" is Lincoln high musical

Music department will present performances Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 7 p.m.



Lead roles in the Lincoln high school music department's production of "Guys and Dolls" include those played by Matt Bitzegaio and Lana Rodahl. During rehearsal Thursday evening, Bitzegaio—in the role of crapshooter Nathan Detroit—reads a note from his fiancee of 14 years, portrayed by Rodahl.

Principal characters Katie Christensen and Kyle Rokke share a scene in the Lincoln high school musical "Guys and Dolls" to be presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 20-22, at the Lincoln high school auditorium. Tickets are sold at the door only at $6 each and doors will open at 6 p.m. Curtain time is 7 p.m.

Lincoln high school music department will present the popular musical "Guys and Dolls" in three evening performances Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 20, 21 and 22, with curtain time at 7 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium.

Darcy Reese, vocal music instructor at Lincoln, is directing the musical with Cori Walseth as stage manager. There are 67 choir students involved in the cast and other phases of production.

Orchestra accompaniment provides the instrumental music for the show with Derek Druse, orchestra instructor in School District 564, conducting the 20 orchestra and band members.

Cathy Hagen is pianist with Scott Bornholdt as lighting technician. Set design is by Darcy Reese and Lyle Walseth and a number of set changes are required during the course of the musical.

Students have been preparing for the production since January 9, Mrs. Reese said, rehearsing before and after school, in the evening and on weekends.

"They are very excited about performing this major Broadway show for audiences from Thief River Falls and the surrounding area," Mrs. Reese said.

"These performers will take their audience to New York City and even to Cuba. Choreography is a major part of this musical with Havana dancers, Hot Box dancers, dancing crapshooters. Wow! What a dancing lineup!"

The musical gives Lincoln vocal students an opportunity to display their acting and singing versatility. Leading roles are played by Lana Rodahl, Matt Bitzegaio, Katie Christensen and Kyle Rokke, but they have an ample and able supporting cast of talented performers.

"The students truly make 'Guys and Dolls' come alive with neon colored sets and building marquees adding to the atmosphere," Mrs. Reese said. "The cast invites one and all to come and enjoy this spirited musical. It will truly be an evening of fine entertainment."

Regional Job Fair at armory on Wednesday

Northwest Regional Job Fair '97 will bring job seekers and regional employers together from 10:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Wednesday, March 19, at the National Guard armory in Thief River Falls.

"This event offers a great opportunity for regional employers to promote their businesses and for job seekers to promote themselves," said Pat Ueland, area manager of the Minnesota Department of Economic Security, who is headquartered at the Job Service office located at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls.

"We hope any and all job seekers in the region, as well as those wanting to relocate to this area, will take advantage of the interviewing and networking opportunities available at the regional job fair."

Representatives from many of the region's largest employers will attend the fair. Registered to participate are Solvay Pharmaceuticals, Baudette, Central Boiler, Greenbush, Karlstad Health Centers, Karlstad, and Homark Company, Red Lake Falls.

Also Arctic Cat Inc., Dakota Clinic Ltd., Occupational Development Center, Northern Woodwork, Independent Machine Service, Northwest Medical Center, Northwest Airlink, Excel Dairy, Digi-Key, Hydra-Mac International and Northwest Grain, Thief River Falls.

Also Polaris Industries, Roseau; Bergstrom Electric, Grand Forks, ND, and the U.S. Air Force, Army, Marines and Navy.

Presentations on the Internet, regional labor market information and the Minnesota career information system will also be featured. Job seekers may bring their resumes with them for scanning into Minnesota SkillsNet, a resume-matching service that uses state-of-the-art technology to fill managerial, professional, technical and clerical jobs.

In addition, mini-sessions will be held on interviewing, writing job applications, resumes and cover letters, and social security concerns of job seekers.

Job Service representatives will be on hand to discuss the services available at Minnesota Workforce Centers—"one stop" offices where the employment needs of employers and job seekers are met. Workforce centers are currently being developed in locations throughout Minnesota.

Joining in sponsorship of Northwest Regional Job Fair '97 are Minnesota Workforce Centers, Northland Community and Technical College, Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce, Army National Guard, Midwest Farmworker Employment and Training, Jobs Incorporated and Northwest Service Cooperative.

"Mr. Buttons" has collection of 3,500

by Amy Branscomb
Northern Watch reporter

It's something that he started when he was in high school. At the time he didn't think it would turn into a hobby, but now David Stromlund of Thief River Falls has 3,500 pin-back buttons in his collection.

When he was attending Lincoln High school back in 1948, he started collecting Prowler homecoming buttons. Since then, he has collected numerous buttons ranging from Prowler high school to political campaigns to Disney Land.

He keeps all of his buttons in albums like those used by baseball card collectors. He has all the buttons in plastic sheets made for baseball cards and coins. David has them organized into 34 albums with an index telling him which buttons are in which album.

He has them separated into categories including sayings, Disney Land, high school sports, professional sports, places, events, country music stars, cartoons and Diamond Jubilee.

When David was a sophomore in high school he moved to Cook with his family and graduated from high school there in 1953. He attended Mayville State University, graduating in 1964 with a major in elementary education and a minor in social sciences. He taught for several years in North Dakota and Minnesota before moving back to Thief River Falls to teach at the elementary school. He taught in Thief River Falls for 26 years and also coached junior and senior high school basketball.

While in college, he became active in politics and campaigns. He began collecting campaign buttons, and currently has several original campaign buttons that are valued around $40.

After college he began collecting pins whenever he traveled. He has buttons from all of the places he has visited, which is something very special to him. It is his way of remembering the places he's been.

After he became a coach for basketball, he became interested in collecting sports buttons as well.

He aquires his buttons from garage sales, flea markets, swap meets in California and auctions. His wife and children also buy him buttons for presents.

He has never sold any of his buttons, but he will occasionaly trade a double or give one away to someone.

Since his retirement four years ago he has added about 1,500 buttons to his collection. His hobby gives him something to do with his time during the long winter months when he is not substitute teaching. He will spend hours in his "Button Room" and sit at his desk arranging and re-arranging his buttons.

Most of David's pins are just for fun, but some of them do have value. If he were to estimate the monetary value of his collection he would guess around $2,000. He has about four to six political pins worth around $40 and several Threshing Bee pins that are valued around $25.

While some of his pins are

Pat Gaffaney receives Silver Beaver award

by Marvin Lundin
Northern Watch Editor

For distinguished service to youth, Patrick Gaffaney of Thief River Falls was presented with the Silver Beaver Award by the Northern Lights Council of the Boy Scouts of America February 15 at the council's annual recognition dinner in Bismarck, ND.

The award itself—the highest honor the National Council, Boy Scouts of America can bestow upon local council volunteer Scouters—was presented by North Dakota Governor Ed Schafer.

While Gaffaney is symbolic of volunteerism on several levels, he began his service in the scout organization 19 years ago and has continued active at various levels since that time.

"We had just moved to Thief River Falls in 1978 and we hadn't made many contacts in the community," Pat recalls. "We made it a New Year's resolution to become more active and to meet more people in the community during the coming year.

"That Sunday in the church bulletin there was an invitation for people who would like to assist with the Boy Scout troop. I went to a meeting with the idea that I could work with a few kids at my wood shop, and I left the meeting as Assistant Cubmaster. Now I'm back to being an Assistant Cubmaster again."

In between these two terms of service as Assistant Cubmaster, Pat has served the Boy Scouts in a number of offices, but it is the time he has spent and the work he has done that distinguishes his effort moreso than the offices he has held.

The summary listed in the recognition dinner awards program cites some of his accomplishments:

"Assistant Cubmaster, Committee Chairman, Scouting Coordinator, Unit Commissioner, District Camping Chairman, Council Camping Committee—Patrick Gaffaney ...has experienced all these titles in his 19 years of adult scouting in the Voyageur Trails District #12 and in Pack 57 and Troop 57, sponsored by St. Bernard's Catholic Church," the program states.

"He has reorganized Troop 57 and Law Enforcement Center Explorer Post, teaches youth protection at summer camp, assisted at

Cyr TW Hardware fire

Oklee – The Oklee and Plummer Fire Departments were called to the scene at Cyr TW Hardware Store in Oklee early Monday (March 10) morning.

Deputy Mitch Bernstein was making his rounds when he noticed the windows were unusually dark in the store. He quickly went to the Harold Cyr residence and they returned to the site. The building was full of smoke.

The fire's origin is thought to have been in the desk area. No confirmation can be made at this time, according to Fire Marshall Dale Volstad. Also according to Volstad and the Oklee Fire Chief Mike Dessellier, it is thought at this time that much of the contents are salvageable as is the building itself.

Most of the damage occurred due to intense heat and smoke. The fire is considered accidental but more investigation may be done to determine the exact cause of the fire.

Internet program

Plummer – The Plummer School is about to participate in a program that will open many doors for its students.

It might take until April or May to actually get the program going, but at that point it would mean students would have access to about 150 different curriculum areas through the Internet, said Superintendent Rick Lorenson. The curriculum was developed by Nova-Net.

Plummer School was chosen to participate in the program because of its well established technology program. Some other schools in the the program include Fertile, East Grand Forks and Crookston.

Through the pilot program students will be allowed to take courses and proceed at a rate that works for them, Lorenson said. And if they are able to finish a two-semester class in one semester they can.

Students will have a direct link to Nova-Net, which is interactive, meaning they can also talk to people.

No camping at river access points

Baudette – Anglers planning a spring camping trip at Koochiching County parks accessing the Rainy River may want to find alternate lodging.

Koochiching commissioners voted Tuesday to close the parks to overnight camping for 30 days prior to the close of walleye season, which ends April 14 this year.

Overnight camping will only be allowed at Nelson Park in Birchdale, where campsites are designated. The ban on overnight use of the parks is part of a plan to try to control the growing number of anglers fishing Rainy River during the spring.

Other changes include future development at accesses in an effort to redistribute anglers along the river as well as a proposed reduction in the limit of walleye from the current possession of six to two, with no walleye over 19.5 inches allowed in possession from March 1 through April 14.

Bar and grill proposals

Grygla – Three different parties who are interested in the construction of a bar and grill in Grygla were in attendance at the regular meeting of the Grygla city council Monday to present their proposals.

Shannon and Denise Ostby and Tammy and Denise Ostby presented a plan for building a 50x80 foot building on the former Diamonds lots. Ostby's proposal was for a log building, which he said was the most economical in his estimates.

Larry Sigerud distributed copies of a plan he had drawn out by a lumber company for a 40x60 building with stud walls and log siding. His proposal was for a bar and short-order restaurant, with off-sale. He said he had finances arranged, but did not, at the present time, have a construction site.

Ronnie Byklum, representing the American Legion and VFW clubs, presented a proposal for a 40x60 building to be constructed on lots owned by the veterans clubs between the Hartz Store and the Co-op Store.

The council has stated at earlier meetings that it will issue only one (yearly) liquor license, besides the one already issued to the Steak Knife. For that reason, only one of the above proposals would be considered.

Mayor Olson told the prospective builders that the council will ask for more complete plans and proof of financing before a decision is made to approve a liquor license and building permit. They hope to have a decision made by the next board meeting so that contractors and suppliers can prepare for a spring construction.

Bar and grill proposals

Grygla – Three different parties who are interested in the construction of a bar and grill in Grygla were in attendance at the regular meeting of the Grygla city council Monday to present their proposals.

Shannon and Denise Ostby and Tammy and Denise Ostby presented a plan for building a 50x80 foot building on the former Diamonds lots. Ostby's proposal was for a log building, which he said was the most economical in his estimates.

Larry Sigerud distributed copies of a plan he had drawn out by a lumber company for a 40x60 building with stud walls and log siding. His proposal was for a bar and short-order restaurant, with off-sale. He said he had finances arranged, but did not, at the present time, have a construction site.

Ronnie Byklum, representing the American Legion and VFW clubs, presented a proposal for a 40x60 building to be constructed on lots owned by the veterans clubs between the Hartz Store and the Co-op Store.

The council has stated at earlier meetings that it will issue only one (yearly) liquor license, besides the one already issued to the Steak Knife. For that reason, only one of the above proposals would be considered.

Mayor Olson told the prospective builders that the council will ask for more complete plans and proof of financing before a decision is made to approve a liquor license and building permit. They hope to have a decision made by the next board meeting so that contractors and suppliers can prepare for a spring construction.

Farmers Invest In The Land
Banks Invest In The Farmers.
Every year farmers invest a lot of hard work in their land, and Minnesota banks invest a lot of money in those farmers.
Three out of four farmers went to their local bank before they went to their fields. Minnesota's agricultural industry is the envy of the world. We're one of many Minnesota banks working to keep it that way.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Here's a delicious Lenten dish you might want to try:

SEAFOOD ALMOND CASSEROLE

2 cups cooked rice
2 (6 ounce) cans shrimp, drained and rinsed
1 cup fresh or frozen cooked imitation crab meat, shredded
1 (8 ounce) can sliced water chestnuts, drained
1/2 cup chopped green bell pepper
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 cup mayonnaise
1 cup tomato juice
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
1/2 cup toasted slivered almonds

Heat oven to 350 degrees. In ungreased 2 quart casserole, combine all ingredients except cheese and almonds, mixing well. Sprinkle cheese and almonds over top and bake at 350 degrees for 35 to 45 minutes, until hot and bubbly.

Instead of corned beef for St. Paddy's day, try this cabbage and ham dish:

HARVEST HAM SKILLET

1 tablespoon oil
1 cup finely chopped onions
2 cups shredded green cabbage
2 cups shredded red cabbage
1 cup shredded carrots
1/4 cup unsweetened apple juice
1/2 teaspoon fennel seed
1/2 pound (1 1/2 cups) cooked ham, cubed or cut into thin strips

Heat oil in large skillet over medium high heat until hot.

Add onions - cook and stir 1-2 minutes until crisp tender. Add cabbage, carrots, apple juice and fennel. Bring to a boil and then simmer, covered, 5 minutes or until cabbage is crisp tender, stirring occasionally.

Stir in ham, cook an additional 3-5 minutes until thoroughly heated. Season to taste.

Pop this all-in-one dish into the crock pot for a simple supper tonight without any bother:

AU GRATIN POTATOES AND HAM

6 cups (6 medium) sliced, peeled potatoes
1 medium onion, coarsely chopped
1 1/2 cups cubed cooked ham
1 cup (4 ounces) shredded American cheese
1 (10 3/4 ounce) can condensed cream of mushroom soup
1/2 cup milk
1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon dried thyme leaves

In slow cooker, layer half of the potatoes, onions, ham and cheese. Repeat layers.

In small bowl, combine soup, milk and thyme. Pour over ingredients in cooker. Cover and cook on high setting for 1 hour. Reduce to low setting and cook 6-8 hours until potatoes are tender.

This fun dish will surely make the family happy:

UPSIDE DOWN PIZZA CASSEROLE

1 pound ground beef
1 cup chopped onions
1 cup chopped green pepper
1 (15 ounce) can pizza sauce
1/4 pound pepperoni, coarsely chopped
1/2 teaspoon dried Italian seasoning
1 (2.5 ounce) jar mushrooms, drained
6 ounces thinly sliced mozzarella cheese

Heat oven to 400 degrees. In large skillet, brown beef, onions and peppers. Drain.

Stir in pizza sauce, pepperoni, seasoning and mushrooms. Bring to a boil and then simmer, uncovered, 10 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Topping

1 cup milk
1 tablespoon oil
2 eggs
1 cup flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese

In small bowl, combine milk, oil and eggs. Beat 1 minute at medium speed.

Add flour and salt to milk mixture and beat 2 minutes at medium speed or until smooth.

Spoon meat mixture evenly in an ungreased 9x13 inch baking dish. Place mozzarella cheese slices over hot meat mixture and pour topping evenly over cheese, covering completely. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese.

Bake at 400 degrees for 20 to 30 minutes or until puffed and deep golden brown.

And this one is simple-y delicious too:

STOVE TOP TACO CASSEROLE

1/2 cup chopped onion
1 1/2 cups uncooked quick-cook rice
1 cup mild picante sauce
1/2 cup water
1 (14 1/2 or 16 ounce) can whole tomatoes, undrained and cut up
1 (11 ounce) can Mexicorn (with red and green peppers), undrained
1 (6 ounce) can tomato sauce

In 12 inch skillet or Dutch oven, brown beef and onion. Drain well.

Stir in remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil and then boil 2 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Remove from heat and cover. Let stand 5 minutes.

Casa Do Minho Portuguese Folk Dancers will be among the performers at the 5th Annual All Nations Cultural Festival in St. Hilaire July 12 and 13. The name "Casa Do Minho" means Home of the Minho, the first province of Portugal. Their repertoire primarily reflects the province of Minho but the dances of other regions are also incorporated to present the traditions of Portugal. Their performance includes not only the dancers, but their own Portuguese band which consists of accordions, guitars and percussionists. Also appearing will be the Spanish Folk Dancers, a five piece band from Norway, a German group, a hoop dancer, caribbean band, South American Salsa band, Scottish group and a group from Ireland. Ethnic food demonstrators, arts and crafters, are urged to sign up early by contacting the city clerk at 218-964-5257. A flea market is also planned. Traditional encampments, clowns, and a kid's carnival are also expected to be a part of the 5th Annual All Nations Cultural Festival in St. Hilaire.

To The Editor:

On October 26, 1996, in my letter to the editor I quoted the Public Power Weekly, October 21, 1996, Page 2: "A new energy tax proposal will be put on the table during Clinton's second term." My question then was, "Does the leopard change its spots?" Sure enough, it doesn't.

A CARBON TAX

The Minnesota Legislature House File 1190 and Senate File 1110 are proposed bills that would impose a substantial new tax on gasoline, coal based electricity, natural gas, fuel oil and diesel fuels. This would be phased in over a four-year period to make it easier for us to swallow.

House File 1190 was scheduled to be heard March 14, about noon.

(1) Any tax on the carbon content of any fuel will be a substantial increase on utility bills for all of us, but especially for low and fixed income people, elderly, farmers and manufacturers.

(2) Increasingly, the price of electricity and other energy will adversely affect Minnesota's ability to compete for jobs, business expansion and product competition in the marketplace.

(3) Two-thirds of Minnesota's electricity is produced from coal. Any additional tax means sharply higher electric rates. If you are concerned, call the legislators listed below and let them know your feelings. Maybe you could tell them, "Just say no!"

Sincerely,
Donald Baron

Three go online with The Times as changes made

Three businesses have joined The Times and Northern Watch online — Genereux Realty, Quicor, and Westside Motors. More businesses are in the process of joining us. Once our site is accessed, browsers simply have to click on the company icon to gain more information about the business. Clicking on Quicor, for example, will access information about the company's line of home gardening products.

News stories were added to the site in mid February. The number of hits recorded during the month of February totaled 226. Staff are looking forward to seeing the numbers at the end of March.

One addition to the site is an archive for obituaries. All obituaries recorded in The Times since the newspaper went online will be recorded and kept in the archive.

Marnie Berglund, who is responsible for The Times' internet site, will be available for questions and demonstrations at The Times' Home Show April 5-6. The show will be held at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center in Thief River Falls. Anyone interested in learning more about the internet and its applications are encouraged to visit with Marnie.

Political Fund Raising Done Without Apology

Average wage earners can do little but wonder at the huge amounts of money spent by political candidates at the national and even the state level in campaigns to hold or gain public office. The dollars spent are hundreds of times the salary the office pays. Millions of dollars are spent by the campaigns of individual candidates to sway the opinions of voters that those candidates are better—or at least not as bad—as their opponents.

Who or what provides all that money for candidates to spend? Are there that many supporters convinced of the candidate's abilities to support them with donations? Do the candidates have personal reserves that they can tap to pay the campaign bills? Why would anyone be willing to spend that much to be elected—or, for that matter, to help accumulate the campaign war chests apparently needed in today's political climate?

Unfortunately, too much of the money comes from individuals and organizations which are purchasing access. After a state legislator or a national Congressman or Senator takes office, he or she has precious little direct contact with the vast majority of his or her constituents. Most of the people who seek contact with these elected officials are looking for something that will benefit them or their cause. What will attract an elected official's attention? Familiarity will, and that could mean a recognized face or even a mailing address from the official's home district. But you can bet officials and their staffs also are familiar with the groups, organizations and their lobbyists who butter their bread.

Recently going through some papers which had collected in a remote corner of our desk, we found a "Think Piece" written several years ago by Bob Shaw, former manager of the Minnesota Newspaper Association (MNA). His comments from that time would have been appropriate today in regard to fund-raising conducted at the Presidential level.

Shaw recalled that in the mid '70s he had been contacted by phone at the MNA office by a young man working for the Minnesota DFL party.

"How about those tickets we sent you?" the young man asked.

"I sent them back," Shaw replied. "We don't buy tickets to fund-raisers."

"Well, you better," the caller said, "or maybe you won't get the nod in the legislature."

Shaw said that while the words were fresh in his mind he copied them down and wrote a letter to Attorney General Warren Spannaus. The next day he received a call from Spannaus who advised Shaw not to do anything until he heard from him. In quick succession Shaw received three or four more calls—one from a very contrite young man and the others from DFL party people, all with apologies and indicating that the young man was inexperienced at what he was doing.

Shaw mentioned the experience to some friends who were lobbyists in St. Paul. They told him that he wouldn't have been so brave if he hadn't represented the press. They viewed buying tickets to fund-raisers as simply a cost of doing business. The young man's statement was clearly understood by them: Buy the tickets or you might not "get the nod."

The same shake-down applies in Washington, only worse. The ticket selling there is just as blatant but the prices are higher. Staff members of elected officials routinely inform lobbyists that "we have you down for" so many tickets—at $100, $250 or $500 each.

While Shaw's personal experience involved a worker for the DFL party, the practice of selling access through tickets to fund-raisers is by no means exclusive for Democrats. It is just as common among Republicans.

"All this corruption," Shaw wrote, "is accomplished with smiles, courtesy and hand shakes by educated people with BAs in political science who speak grammatically, chat knowledgeably about the weather back in Minnesota, and dress for success."

Shaw agrees that lobbyists perform a useful function in providing information to lawmakers. He performed that service himself in representing the interests of the state's newspapers. But lobbyists are not paid to help the opposition, and the information they provide—while it may be accurate—is one-sided.

"Over and over and over," he wrote, "it works like this. The committee chairman calls the bill and the chief author presents it. The chairman then calls for testimony from proponents. If special interests want the bill, the skilled and honeyed voice of the lobbyist gives reasons why. The lobbyist—a person, after all, whom legislators know—calls witnesses: perhaps the president of the trade association, maybe a former legislator.

"As testimony drones on, lawmakers silently massage their gentle consciences with thoughts about the size of campaign contributions they have received from the industry represented by the lobbyist now urging passage of the bill. They reflect upon the number of letters and phone calls—most of which have probably been generated by the special interest—which have come in concerning the bill in question.

"The chairman then invites opponents to speak. More often than not, nobody rises simply because the 'other side' represents the general public. Unless somebody from Common Cause, the League of Women Voters or the Citizen's League goes to the lectern, the bill—whatever its merits—has a pretty good chance of passing out of committee. The impression is left that if they don't testify they don't care.

"But 'they' don't come to the capitol to testify because they're working for a living and they don't have a lobbyist. Their side of things doesn't get heard."

Shaw contended at that time that if nothing is done about it, special interests will continue to have their extraordinary hold on government through the use of Political Action Committees (PACs). He was, and is, right. The cost of buying office keeps going up and those who purchase the tickets and increase the donations to pay the fare continue to expect and receive a return on their investment through privilege. They get the action. The average citizens who write or call get a letter from a staff member thanking them for their interest and assuring them that the official will consider their comments.

It's not a healthy way to run a republic, but it will continue as long as the people permit it. There is a commonly heard saying that you usually get what you pay for. In government, however, the people usually get what the special interests pay for. And that's not always a bargain.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in the Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer, so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals, or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

Flood fight operations course set

Minnesota Department of Public Safety, division of Emergency Management, will be conducting a two and one-half day course March 18-20 in Thief River Falls on flood fight operations.

The target audience of this course includes emergency managers, public works officials, firefighters, levee board and watershed district officials, volunteer agencies and other governmental officials who may be called upon to deal with a flood crisis. The course is designed to give local planners and responders a background in the unique planning and response elements in dealing with flood emergency. There is no tuition charge for this course.

council camporees, as a roundtable staff helper, Order of the Arrow Conclave cook, helped with Council and District Friends of Scouting campaigns and Council and District Training events.

"Pat holds the Scouter's Key, Commissioner of the Year Award, St. George Religious Award, Scouter of the Year Award from Voyageur Trails District 12, (is) a District Award of Merit recipient and received a plaque for raising more than $10,000 for Camp Wilderness."

In addition to scouting efforts, Pat has been active in his church and especially in the Knights of Columbus organization, with which he has been involved on the local, state and national levels. He has been named Knight of the Year, his family has been Family of the Year and he has received international recognition for his work and that of the council in camping activities.

He has served on the Parish Council and Youth Activities Committee and been a member of the St. Bernard's school board.

A community Santa Claus for 15 years and frequent chairman of local blood collection drives, he also chaired the community Christmas Eve dinner for several years. He also received the Hats Off Award for special service to youth and community.

A railroad employee for many years, he is now a full-time student in the electronics program at Northland Community and Technical College and president of the NCTC student senate. He was also recently notified that he was a national runner-up in the National Transportation Union as Volunteer of the Year.

Patrick's wife Elaine has also been active in both Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts as the four Gaffaney daughters have all held Girl Scout membership. Rebecca, 20 and Jeniffer, 19, both earned their Silver Awards. Theresa, 16 was a member for several years and Patricia, 11, is in the program now.

Patrick remembers how Elaine became involved in scout work.

"I went home from a scout meeting one night and said, "Honey, we need a district camping chairman. And I don't know quite how to tell you this, but it's you."

Now the Gaffneys' youngest child, seven-year-old Timothy, is starting the Boy Scout program as a Tiger Cub.

The recognition dinner program concludes Pat's profile as follows:

"Patrick Gaffaney's true form as a Scouter continues to show in the fact that as a youth he was a member of the Boy Scouts of America for eight years, as an adult for 19 years, and now his only son is a Tiger Cub—which means he will continue his commitment to the Scouting program—today, tomorrow and for years to come. Pat gets the job done! He is a dedicated Scouter!"

The Northern Lights Council serves scouting in all of North Dakota, 18 counties in northwest Minnesota, two counties in northeast Montana and two counties in north central South Dakota. It has field offices in Minot, Bismarck and Grand Forks, ND, with the main office located in Fargo, ND. This year there were nine Silver Beaver Award winners in the council.

Alten graduates at Northland

Caron Alten graduated from the Sales, Marketing and Management major at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls following completion of winter quarter classes.

Caron is a 1990 graduate of Lincoln high school and the daughter of Art and Carole Cloutier of Holt and Thief River Falls and Ron and Pat Braaten of Thief River Falls.

Toy, doll and train show at E. Grand Forks

East Grand Forks Lions Club is sponsoring its ninth annual toy, doll and train show Saturday and Sunday, March 22 and 23, at East Grand Forks senior high school. The show is open to the public and proceeds are used for Lions Club projects.

Hours will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday. Exhibitor awards will be announced at 3:30 p.m. Sunday. Last year Gary Anderson of Stephen had the best display of trains and Lori Thompson of Grand Forks, ND, the best display of both dolls and toys.

For information on display space contact Wayne Dietrich at 775-0257 or Lew Schaper at 773-1735 after 5 p.m. or on weekends.

Pat Gaffaney received his Boy Scouts of America Silver Beaver Award from North Dakota Governor Ed Schafer in Bismarck, ND.

Co-op Creamery in Goodridge has increase in sales

Patrons attending the annual meeting of Farmers Cooperative Creamery Association of Goodridge Monday, March 17, will hear of a growth in sales of more than a quarter of a million dollars but an increase in margin before distribution of only $4,797.

The annual meeting will take place at the Goodridge community center with about $9,500 in patronage dividends to be paid, lunch served and door prizes awarded.

Election of directors will be held with the terms of Kevin Tharaldson, Bruce Solberg and Robert Miller expiring. Tharaldson is president of the board while Solberg and Miller are directors. Tim Race is vice president and Lowell Sneby is secretary-treasurer. Dale Hanson is manager of the association with Orlin Hanson as office manager.

Sales of the cooperative totaled $1,836,407 in the 1996 fiscal year ending September 30 compared with $1,564,906 in 1995 sales—an increase of $271,501. The total included creamery division sales of $1,401,627 and ag service sales of $434,779.

Cost of sales also increased substantially—from $1,500,628 in 1995 to $1,770,595 in 1996, a rise of $269,967. Gross margin of $65,811 in 1996 was up only $1,534 from $64,277 in 1995.

Management of the cooperative noted that the increase in sales volume was impacted significantly by relatively high milk prices for a time in 1996 as well as increased volume. Since then, milk prices have declined and remain several dollars per hundredweight lower. This price drop will be reflected in fiscal 1997 sales.

In 1996 the cooperative received 9,797,173 pounds of milk—an increase from 9,105,972 pounds in fiscal 1995. Average butterfat test of 3.55 percent was up from 3.54 percent. Total pounds of butterfat received was 347,951—up from the 1995 total of 322,211.

Average price received for milk in 1996 was $14.27 per hundredweight, compared with $12.31 in 1995. Average net price paid was $14.20 compared with $12.12.

Total operating expenses for the cooperative in 1996 were $61,965, up only $335 from 1995. Major operating expense items were salaries and wages of $23,868, employee fringe benefits of $8,186, car allowance of $8,400, insurance of $2,957, depreciation of $3,675, administrative salaries of $1,800, professional services of $2,815 and miscellaneous expense of $2,640.

Net operating margin of $3,845 was up $1,198 from $2,647. The ag service area had net operating margin of $16,399 while the creamery division showed an operating loss of $12,553. Margin before distribution of $48,482 in 1996 was up $4,797 from $43,685 in 1995.

Total assets of the cooperative grew to $650,737 from $608,494 during the year, primarily as a result of cash increasing from $187,468 to $222,406 and investments growing from $158,971 to $172,676.

Current liabilities increased from $64,517 in 1995 to $81,341 in 1996, mostly in accounts payable to patrons of $48,836—an increase from $32,494. Patronage payable in cash dropped from $8,445 to $4,391.

Allocated member and patron equities grew to $485,887 from $462,025 while patronage payable in equities dropped from $33,782 to $17,564. Total liabilities and member and patron equities of $650,737 at the end of fiscal 1996 compare with $608,494 at the end of fiscal 1995.

Spring state Holstein sale

Minnesota Holstein Association Spring Special sale will take place Saturday, March 22, beginning at 11:30 a.m. at the Olmsted County Fairgrounds in Rochester with 120 milking cows, springing heifers, yearlings and young calves consigned.

Among consignors from the northwestern part of the state are Bruce and Tammy Winter of Waubun, Chuck Will of Underwood, Charles and Doug Arvidson of Vergas and David and Janice Huwe of New York Mills.

For catalogs and additional information call the sale manager, Pete's Auction and Photo, Inc., at 507-352-4162 or the MHA office at 320-259-0637.

Meeting planned to form 'Friends' organization at Old Mill State Park

Organization of a "Friends of Old Mill" will be discussed at a meeting scheduled for 5 p.m. on Saturday, March 22, in the shop building at Old Mill State Park west of Newfolden.

In addition to organization, special events coming up at the park, park projects and office construction plans will be discussed.

Last fall the contact station/office was sold and moved from the entrance to the park, according to Mary Broten, park manager. She encourages all interested persons to attend the March 22 meeting to find out more about the future of Old Mill State Park.

Officer Olson receives medal

Navy petty officer 2nd Class Jerod C. Olson, son of Charles and Sherry Olson of rural Newfolden, recently received the Navy and Marine Corps Achievement Medal.

Olson was recognized for his achievement while serving as radar system controller aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Cape St. George, homeported in Norfolk, VA. He was singled out for the award because of his "superb initiative and contribution in helping the command fulfill its mission."

Petty Officer Olson is a 1992 graduate of Marshall County Central high school in Newfolden and joined the navy in July of 1992.

Candlelight ski set March 22 at Old Mill park

From 7 to 10 p.m. Saturday, March 22, a candlelight/moonlight ski will be offered at Old Mill State Park west of Newfolden. Hot apple cider will be provided and skiers are invited to bring a snack to share. If dangerously low temperatures or wind chill occurs, the event will be canceled.

Great Minnesota Ski Passes are required for all participants 16 through 65 years of age and may be purchased at the park. Daily passes for the ski trails are $1 and one-year and three-year passes are also available.

Approximately 20 sets of skis, boots and poles in a variety of sizes for children through adults is now available for rent at the park office. Fee is $6.50 and reservations may be made by calling or writing the park office.

The picnic shelter serves as the winter warming house at the park and snowmobiles may be ridden down to the shelter.

"Please do not snowmobile on the ski trails; it destroys the skiers' track," advises Mary Broten, park manager.

Vehicle permits are also required for vehicles to enter the park. The 1997 annual permits available at the park provide entry to 64 Minnesota state parks from now to Dec. 31, 1997.

For more information contact Broten at 218-437-8174 or write to Old Mill State Park, Route 1, Box 43, Argyle, MN 56713.

Summer youth employment programs open

Eligible young people ages 14 to 21 are encouraged by the Inter-County Community Council at Oklee to make application for summer youth employment positions.

Forms are available at all high schools, Job Training offices, Social Services offices or at the Inter-County Community Council office in Oklee.

Young people returning the applications will be notified of an appointment to complete the necessary forms.

According to Betty Halvorson of the Inter-County office, various training opportunities exist in the region under federal and state funded youth employment programs. Some of the training situations include secretarial, library assistants, lawn mowing, painting, janitorial and maintenance work.

Questions regarding the program or the application process can be directed to Betty Halvorson at the Inter-County office in Oklee at 218-796-5144.

Deer feeders to get double allotment Sat.

People participating in the deer feeding program sponsored by the local chapter of the Minnesota Deer Hunters Association will receive a double allotment when they call for their feed today (Saturday, March 15).

The doubling of allotment is being done to assist the Northwest Grain elevator in Thief River Falls with cleaning out its warehouse. Persons picking up deer feed have been advised to have a suitable vehicle for transport of the extra feed.

Deer Hunters Association officials said that the distribution procedure remains the same as before for members and non-members except that the number of bags of free feed will be doubled.

The chapter has contracted with Oklee Farmers Cooperative Elevator Association to make feed for next week. Location for distribution of that feed has not yet been determined.

Five students receive 4-H scholarships

Pennington county 4-H scholarships of $150 each have been awarded to five recipients with funds provided by Post 2793 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the family of Clarence L. and Emma Peterson.

Recipients of scholarships provided by the VFW are Myndy Olson, daughter of Myles and Susie Olson; Cami Sorenson, daughter of Clyde and Barb Sorenson; Ryan Swanson, son of Van and DeDe Swanson; and Andrea Vigen, daughter of Leroy and Madelyn Vigen.

Recipient of the Peterson scholarship was Daren Nelson, son of Leslie and Margaret Nelson. Clarence Peterson was one of the adults who started the Silverton 4-H club of which Daren was a member.

Pennington county 4-H scholarships are given to past 4-H members who are in their freshman year of college. The recipients must maintain at least a 2.0 grade point average. Usually only two scholarships are awarded, but five could be awarded this year because of the assistance provided by the VFW and Peterson family.

Pennington county extension educator Van Swanson said the 4-H program appreciates the extra funding to help these young people in continuing their education.

Students spend spring break on six work sites

Dannhoff hands in resignation...

NCTC announces coaching change

Mark Dannhoff has resigned from his position as head men's basketball coach at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls.

Dannhoff, who coached the Pioneers the past five years, said he is leaving to "pursue professional goals."

Before taking over the Northland program, Dannhoff served as an assistant coach for two years at the University of Wisconsin-LaCrosse, his alma mater. The head coaching experience offered at Northland was a stepping stone, he said, in a process that he hopes will eventually land him a head coaching job at a four-year school.

"When I came here, I had no idea how long I would be at Northland," offered Dannhoff. "I had worked as an assistant coach, and when the opportunity came up to be a head coach, I took it for the experience. Now, somewhere down the road people can't say that I don't have that head coaching experience."

Dannhoff said he will likely return to a four-year program in 1997-98 as an assistant.

"For sure, I will be coaching someplace next year," he said. "In my scheme of accomplishing what I want to do professionally – being a head coach at a four-year program – I'm looking at returning to that level, first as an assistant coach. Being at Northland offered me the opportunity to be a head coach. Now I want to get back to a four-year school with that experience under my belt."

Northland, coming off a state championship season under Chet Engelman, struggling through a 4-18 campaign in Dannhoff's first year with the Pioneers in 1992-93. His appointment came late in the year, well after prime recruiting time, which made the job of fielding a competitive team difficult, at best.

The team doubled its win total to 8-14 in 1993-94, went 7-15 the following year, then won a Northern Division title in 1995-96 when a 15-10 record produced a fourth place finish in the Minnesota Community College Conference state tournament.

Northland slipped to 10-12 this year and did not land a state tournament berth.

"I leave with the utmost respect and love for every young man who has passed through my program," said Dannhoff. "I measure myself and my program in the effort that was given and the way in which the effort was made. In that respect, our program was very successful because everyone always gave their best effort. We learned from the results, whatever they were, and always moved forward."

The LaCrosse native, expressed thanks to the school for giving him the opportunity to be a head coach, but it was a bittersweet experience, he acknowledged, with his basketball duties supplemented by few classroom hours. "I was never given an opportunity to be a full-time instructor," he said.

"Mark worked hard to rebuild the men's basketball program and to make it competitive again," said Northland Athletic Director Rick Nelson. "Mark handled things very professionally. I think in regards to Mark's ambition to move up the ladder in coaching, this (move) is probably in his best interest, professionally."

Before leaving, Dannhoff said his primary concern is to help place the sophomores on this year's team into four-year programs.

Gators rally, but lose 49-48

■ Fertile-Beltrami tops B/G-MR in Section 8A semifinal

Badger/Greenbush-Middle could only sit and watch the efforts of a fourth quarter comeback slip away in the final seconds Thursday as the Gators lost a 49-48 Section 8A boys high school basketball tournament semifinal decision to Fertile-Beltrami at the University of Minnesota Crookston.

Down 35-20 in the third quarter, and still facing a 42-29 deficit when the final period began, the Gators rallied behind Andy Schenkey, who hit three fourth quarter 3-pointers, and Matt Kujava, who hit three 2-point shots.

It was a Schenkey basket with 25 seconds left that put Badger/Greenbush-Middle River ahead 48-47. But Fertile-Beltrami, after going through a four-minute scoreless stretch, pulled it out at the end.

The Falcons' D.J. Motteberg missed twice at the free throw line with 13 seconds remaining, but Fertile-Beltrami controlled the long rebound, and after a frantic shot sequence around the basket, Ryan Solie drew a foul and went to the free throw line with two seconds on the clock. His first shot tied it, the second won it.

"That was a freak rebound (on the second Motteberg miss at the line)," noted Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "That thing came out long, and they happened to have a kid standing there. We didn't have any luck on that one."

It was a tough way to lose, acknowledged Sparby, but it was the Gators' poor start that put them in that position, he explained. "We were playing miserable offensive basketball," Sparby said. "We had no offensive performance for three quarters. Everybody played tight. We let them (Falcons) control the game. I finally told the kids in the fourth quarter to just forget everything else and just take the ball to the basket. Things started clicking offensively, and we started playing better defense, too."

Solie finished with 29 points. Motteberg had 11. The balanced Badger/Greenbush-Middle River attack included Schenkey with 13 points, Kujava and Daryl Wockenfuss with 10 each, and Jed Geer with 8. Wockenfuss hit double figures despite limited playing time due to a mid-season foot injury suffered in a snowmobile accident.

The win put the Sub-Section 30A champion Falcons at 22-3 and into the Friday finals against Red Lake, a 52-41 winner over Grygla-Gatzke in Thursday's first semifinal match-up.

The loss dropped the Sub-Section 32A champion Gators to 15-11 and into the season ending third place game.

"It was a good comeback effort by the kids," said Sparby. "They worked hard to get back in it."

Neither team shot very well, with the Gators going 21-for-60 from the field (35 percent) and the Falcons hitting 17 of 52 (33 percent). Fertile-Beltrami had an 11-for-27 free throw night, compared to a quiet 1-for-4 showing at the line for Badger/Greenbush-Middle River. The Gators had a 37-33 rebound edge and also had more turnovers, 11-7.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River, making its first sectional appearance in the five years of the consolidation/co-op, beat Fertile-Beltrami, last year's state runner-up, 66-62 in a December meeting during the Thief River Falls Russ Smith Northwest Holiday Classic.

Eagles fall in 8A opener 52-41

Sophomore tandem of Gerald Kingbird and Delwyn Holthusen led Red Lake past Grygla-Gatzke 52-41 Thursday in the Section 8A boys high school basketball tournament opener at the University of Minnesota-Crookston.

The 6-1 Kingbird scored a game-high 21 points, including a game-clinching 11-point third quarter outburst that cut short a Grygla-Gatzke rally. The 6-6 Holthusen finished with 11 points while dominating play defensively on the inside.

With the win, Red Lake improved to 24-1 and moved into the state tournament-qualifying Friday title game against Fertile-Beltrami, a 49-48 winner over Badger/Greenbush-Middle River in the second half of the semifinal twinbill. Grygla-Gatzke headed into the third place game at 17-7.

Sub-Section 29A champion Red Lake gained the upper hand at the outset with an 11-3 first quarter lead. Sub-Section 31A champion Grygla-Gatzke recovered, pulling with 18-17 at halftime, and after falling behind again by seven, managed to chop the difference to 28-25.

But that's when Kingbird took the spotlight, netting all of his team's points in an 11-2 quarter-ending run – finishing with three straight 3-pointers.

"Kingbird really took over in the third quarter," acknowledged Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson.

A 31 percent 16-for-51 shooting performance, which included a number of misses on uncontested close-in shots or lay-ups, was the Eagles' biggest downfall, noted Johnson. "It was a case of not putting the ball in the basket," he said. "We had some chances, but we didn't capitalize. We just couldn't get into any offensive rhythm."

Holthusen had something to do with that, admitted Johnson. "He affected us with his defense," he explained. "We altered our shots because of him."

While Grygla-Gatzke was having trouble hitting shots, Red Lake was turning in a 50 percent 20-for-40 shooting night. The winners were 7-for-15 at the free throw line, where the Eagles went 8-for-12 – all in the first half.

Red Lake out-rebounded Grygla-Gatzke 32-23, but the Eagles did come up with a 13-8 edge on the offensive boards. Red Lake topped the turnover charts 19-15.

"Our defense was very good," offered Johnson. "I had no problems with our defense. We just had to do a better job offensively."

The Eagles, making their second sectional tournament appearance in three years, were led by 6-1 senior Shaun Verbout, whose 13 points boosted his career scoring total to 1,006 – tops on the Grygla-Gatzke boys scoring list. Jeremy Engelstad, who currently plays basketball at the University of Minnesota-Crookston had the old record of 1,003.

David Stromlund stands in front of the bookcase where he keeps about half of his "button albums". He has over 30 albums filled with his bottons he has collected over the years.

David Stromlund, also known as "Mr. Buttons" to some, proudly displays some of his buttons. He has over 3,500 buttons in his collection and over 30 albums full of buttons.

"Mr. Buttons" has collection of 3,500

worth money, David is not in it for the money. He collects the buttons for enjoyment and to give him a way to remember special occassions or events.

He has corresponded with several other collectors in the country, including a man who collects thermometers. He has people send him letters not knowing his name or address and have addressed the letter to "Mr. Button, Thief River Falls, MN". He had one man write to him and tried to get him into Ripley's Believe It Or Not. He also had a letter he wrote on his collection published in a magazine called Grit.

The mayor of Dollywood, TN sent him a button of the Dollywood Showcase, and in return David sent him a button from the Thief River Falls Save the Depot. So the collection has proved to be interesting to David in many ways.

David lives at home in Thief River Falls with his wife Nana. He has two daughters who live in California and one grandson. When asked how his wife feels about his collection he responded, "She wonders how I know which ones I have. She says we'll have to build on to the house to store all of the buttons!"

Warroad summer theatre to present Love, Sex and the IRS

"Love, Sex and the I.R.S.", a comedy, begins the season for Warroad Summer Theatre. The story revolves around a "couple" saving money on their taxes by filing as married and you guessed it, the I.R.S. man knocks on their door to investigate them.

Newcomers to the WST stage are Christine Johnson, Randy Syverson and Zachary Waseen. Adding sparkle to the show are Brent Arntzen, Chaess Anderz and Ray DeGarme. Veterans Wendy Fellows and Christina Myers round out the cast of talented players that are annual favorites.

Troy Brewster returns as artistic director with Jill Anderson as assistant director.

Reservations for the dinner theatre at the Warroad American Legion will be accepted at 218-386-3692. Performance dates are March 20-23, with dinner served at 6:30 p.m. and curtain at 8 p.m. Please note the March 23 performance is a 2 p.m. matinee show only.

If comedy is your favorite, don't miss this play.

Auditions for the summer season are scheduled for April 19 at Zion Lutheran Church in Warroad, from noon to 5 p.m. All youngsters auditioning for the Popcorn Players "The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe" will tryout from 10 a.m. to noon only.

Checkout coupon will help hungry

Area shoppers can assist with programs for the hungry in Thief River Falls, East Grand Forks, Crookston and Grand Forks, ND, areas through a coupon applied to their grocery receipts at Hugo's food stores in those four cities.

Customers can tear off a coupon for a $2.47 donation at the checkout and hand it to the clerk, who will scan it in as an addition to the grocery order on the receipt.

The voluntary donation program in Thief River Falls will assist the Thief River Falls Area Food Shelf. In Crookston it will be used for the Care and Share Shelter meals and in Grand Forks for the Grand Forks Mission.

The $2.47 donation represents the amount that will feed a needy person at the Grand Forks Mission a day's breakfast, lunch and dinner.

Last year the Scan-Away-Hunger program in March, July and November/December resulted in $11,702 for the area charities.

Crop walk will raise funds to feed hungry

Come rain or shine, people from Holt, Viking, Thief River Falls, St. Hilaire and elsewhere will walk for the hungry everywhere. Funds raised by people obtaining sponsors for a three mile walk called Crop Walk, can be designated to one of 17 hunger fighting agencies or to the Church World Services. Twenty-five per cent of all of the funds raised by this even will be donated to the Area Foodshelf in Thief River Falls.

Crop Walk will be held Sunday, April 20, at 3 p.m. It will begin and end at United Methodist Church on Horace Avenue in Thief River Falls. Organizers of the event hope to have over 100 walkers and raised over $2,500.

Every step counts. In the past 10 years Crop Walks have raised more than $124,000,000 to help stop hunger in neighborhoods and communities throughout the world.

Local churches and organizations have been contacted to help recruit walkers. Anyone interested in participating in Crop Walk is asked to contact an area church or call Rev. Skildum of the St. Hilaire Parish at 964-5750.

Organizers believe Crop Walks are important events that not only put convictions to stop hunger into action, but is good for the soul.

Artificial insemination course started at UMC

The course, Artificial Insemination of Cattle, will be held at the University of Minnesota, Crookston (UMC) on Tuesdays, March 11, 18, 25 and April 1 from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in the University Teaching and Outreach Center, Room 30.

There will be an additional two-day trip to West Fargo in late April or early May to complete the practical training. The classroom portion will cover anatomy and physiology, heat detection, hormone function and synchronization, semen storage and handling, proper Artificial Insemination technique, record keeping, and sire selection.

The practical portion of the course will allow students to develop the technical skills necessary to implement a successful Artificial Insemination program on their farm or ranch.

Instructor for the course is Lyle Westrom, UMC associate professor of dairy.

The cost of the one credit course is $90 plus approximately $100 for the two-day trip to Fargo. Students will receive an Artificial Insemination certificate upon successful completion of the course. This certificate entitles students to a refresher course at no charge when the course is offered again.

Disability accommodations will be provided upon request. For more information or to register, call UMC's Office of Outreach and Continuing Education at 218-281-8681.

Minnesota commodity elections being held

Minnesota Department of Agriculture Commissioner Gene Hugoson encourages every producer that receives a mail ballot to vote in commodity council elections and to return the ballots by the appropriate dates.

"Voting is just one way producers can have a say in how their check-off dollars are spent," said Hugoson. The upcoming elections conducted by the Minnesota Department of Agriculture are for dairy, barley, beef, corn, soybean and wheat producers.

Dairy election ballots were sent out March 1 and must be returned postmarked by March 15. They are sent to all Grade A and B licensed dairy producers.

Barley, beef, corn, soybean and wheat ballots were sent out March 5 to all producers who requested a ballot. These ballots must be returned postmarked by March 18.

Dairy Candidates in Region 1 include Norma Hanson of Goodridge (Marshall County); Roger Schaefer of Frazee (Becker County) and Tim Kivi of Ponsford (Becker County).

Barley candidates in District 1 include James Thompson of Hallock (Kittson County).

Beef candidates in District 1 include Gary Purath, Red Lake Falls, (Red Lake County).

10 helpful suggestions to weather cash flow crisis

Cash flow is always a concern for farmers. Even on farms with healthy balance sheets, there will be times when debt obligations are difficult to meet.

Harold Stanislawski, dairy development specialist at the Minnesota Department of Agriculture, has condensed an article by John Blanchfield, associate director of agricultural banking of the American BAnkers Association, into the following 10 tips that farmers may want to consider when facing cash flow problems:

(1) Carefully examine every capital purchase that will require additional debt. Ask yourself if the expenditure will generate enough additional cash to pay for itself.

(2) Make a farm budget and think of it as your road map. If your finances are tight, it is especially important to stick to your budget. Without a road map, you could lose your way financially.

(3) Take an objective look at your farm's financial position. Are you getting the maximum return on your investment. If not, why not? Is it possible to sell an asset that is not contributing to the business?

(4) Examine your debt structure. Is it possible to increase your long term (real estate) debt to pay down your short-term debt? Spreading out your debt over a longer period of time can significantly improve your cash flow.

(5) Treat your banker's time as a valuable commodity. Be prepared with up-to-date figures and projections when you meet with your banker. Lack of preparation is the number one reason that loan applications are denied. If you and your banker spend your appointment time trying to reconstruct your finances, you may never get around to resolving the important issues.

(6) Look into the USDA's Guaranteed Loan Program. You may be able to put together new financing that spreads your debt over a longer period of time and/or lowers your interest rate. Currently, the USDA provides nearly $6 billion in credit guarantees to farm borrowers through their local banks.

(7) Review your hazard and fire insurance coverage with your agent. Increasing your deductibles can save you money and improve your cash flow immediately. Buildings in poor repair may not warrant the cost of any type of insurance coverage.

(8) Examine your life insurance policy. Most whole life policies contain a provision that allows the policyowner to borrow money against the policy's cash value. These loans often have attractive interest rates and can be repaid when the cash flow improves.

(9) If you are beginning to have financial difficulties, deal with them immediately. Talk to your creditors early and often. Many serious financial problems might have been avoided if they had been identified and resolved earlier. Your county extension educator can help you form a diagnostic team that will visit your farm and provide you with a fresh financial perspective. This group of experts usually meets on a monthly basis to review your operation and suggests ways to work through your cash flow problems.

(10) Try to keep your situation in the proper perspective. Take a weekend off from time to time and treat your family to a special event. It's important for you to put your concerns aside temporarily and shift your focus to other activities. The money you spend will be worth it because your family will be a stronger team when you get back home.

Harold Stanislawski is available to answer questions on dairy profitability. He can be contacted at the Minnesota Department of Agriculture's Fergus Falls office (218-739-7632) or the St. Paul office (612-296-8170).

Grains dominate fast-growing foods

Grains dominate the list of fastest-growing foods over the past decade, and are gradually gaining a greater share of the food plate in America, according to a national food-and-beverage consumption study, and a Gallup survey of U.S. household eating habits.

Findings of the consumption study and the consumer survey were released recently by the Wheat Foods Council, a national wheat consumption promotion group that is funded in part by wheat checkoff dollars administered by the Minnesota Wheat Research and Promotion Council.

Pasta, bagels, pretzels, sandwiches, cereal, and pizza crust grabbed six of the top 10 slots for fastest-growing foods and beverages over the past 10 years, according to the NPD Group, a Port Washington, N.Y.-based national market research company that has tracked eating habits for 16 years.

"In a quest for convenient, value-driven foods, people are turning to quick, one-dish meals like pasta, cereal and sandwiches," says Harry Balzer, vice president of the NPD Group. "It's beneficial that the foundation of these dishes - grains - are the foundation of the Food Guide Pyramid."

However, although Americans are slowly shifting their eating patterns toward the foundation of the USDA Food Guide Pyramid, fat and empty calories remain top dietary problems.

"While in-home consumption of grain foods has shown a slight increase over the last 10 years, we're still only meeting about three-quarters of our daily grain food needs - even though we get an extra half of a serving from meals eaten away from home," says Balzer. "The bottom line is that we're still consuming way too much dietary fat. Add to that the fact that carbonated soft drinks topped the list of fastest-growing food and beverages since 1987 and we've created a really lopsided consumption pyramid."

A Gallup survey conducted in conjunction with the consumption study supports NPD findings. In the survey of more than 1,000 primary household shoppers, Americans told Gallup they average 3.2 servings of grain foods a day, an increase from 2.8 in 1993, but still well below the six-to-11 range recommended by the Food Guide Pyramid. Gallup found only 12 per cent of consumers said they eat six or more servings each day.

Judi Adams, a registered dietician who heads the non-profit Wheat Foods Council, attributes some of the daily grains deficit to the 38 per cent of misinformed Americans who told Gallup they think bread and other grain foods are fattening.

"With the recent resurrection of fad diets that bash bread, pasta and other complex carbohydrate-rich foods as being fattening, we're not surprised that nearly two in five consumers still swallow this myth," says Adams. "Unfortunately, this type of nutrition confusion is steering people away from the foods they need most."

Balzer agrees, adding that his study found most people would need a couple of more servings a day to meet 100 per cent of the six-to-11 range — a goal nutritionists say is certainly attainable.

The versatility and portability of most grain foods makes it all the more easy for Americans to meet their recommended daily grain servings. "We're not talking about complicated nutrition science," says Dr. Barbara Levine, R.D., director of the Nutrition Information Center at Cornell Medical Center, NY. "Simply add a dinner roll to your meal, enjoy lower-fat crackers as an afternoon snack or have an extra slice of toast at breakfast and you will be well on your way to meeting your daily grains needs."

Levine says the evidence that supports the need for grain foods isn't hard to digest, either: pasta, bread, tortillas and other grain-based foods are naturally low in fat and high in complex carbohydrates. One gram of complex carbohydrates contains a mere four calories to fat's nine, and the body burns carbohydrates first before looking to fat for fuel, she points out.

But Levine does add one caution: "As virtuous as these foods are, we won't do them or our bodies one bit of good if we drench them with creamy sauces, slabs of butter and vats of oil. This doesn't mean we're urging people to eat a bowl of plain pasta; we're just saying 'lighten up.'"

To some degree, Americans seem to be getting that message. Margarine, butter, oil, shortening, added sugars, mayonnaise and salad dressings all made NPD's list of the decade's fastest declining foods and beverages.

Colorado wheat growers purchase wholesale bakery

Wheat growers in Colorado are purchasing a wholesale bakery of fresh and frozen products in Longmont, near Denver. The grower group is Mountain View Harvest Cooperative.

The cooperative will purchase 400 shares in Oerard's French Bakery at $12,500 per share, and for each share purchased a member will deliver 1,000 bushels of wheat for the baking operation.

The cooperative also purchased an elevator with 10 storage bins which will provide wheat to a nearby mill that will produce flour for the bakery.

Non-Farmers Guide to Agriculture helps bridge rural urban gap

What do farmers and urbanites really think about each other? How can they form partnerships to achieve their common goals?

Working to answer these questions is the "Non-farmers' Guide to Agriculture," an educational program in the Iowa City area that is collecting residents' thoughts on improving urban-rural relationships and acting on their suggestions. The program is sponsored by the Leopold Center for Sustainable Agriculture at Iowa State University.

Last year, six focus groups explored agricultural topics. Among the 37 participants were farmers, Iowa City and Coralville residents, people who live on rural acreages but work in urban areas, and small-town residents. Project leaders were Wayne Petersen, an urban conservationist with the USDA's National Resources Conservation Service, and Rich Pirog, the Leopold Center's education coordinator.

Farmers in the group said the true story about farming was not being clearly conveyed to urban and other non-farm residents. They said urban dwellers had little idea of the financial risks and heavy workloads farmers face. They believed farming had been singled out for blame in local environmental problems linked to nitrate and herbicides.

The farmers said they felt strong pressure from the increased growth and urban sprawl that have fueled rising land prices and potential conflicts with non-farm neighbors. Farmers said they sought common ground, although they viewed urban residents as being unconcerned about agriculture.

The non-farm participants said they wanted to learn more about the move toward industrialized agriculture, the use of agricultural chemicals, soil conservation, farm business and finance issues and crop rotations. They did not say farming was the primary cause of local environmental woes. The non-farm dwellers said they had a clear, positive picture of the realities of farm life, though they said they would not choose farming as a career because of the risks and uncertainty.

The focus groups agreed that increased growth and development in the county posed the greatest concern. Participants wondered how growth would affect quality of life.

The participants had several ideas for bridging the gap between the agricultural and non-agricultural sectors, including: inviting urban residents to the Farm Progress Show and Johnson County Fair; placing farmers on urban committees and urban residents on farm committees; developing an exchange program in which urban residents could work on a farm; and organizing a community-sponsored agriculture project so that urban dwellers could contract with farmers to produce vegetables and other foods.

"The focus-group information gave us ideas and insights we hope to use to build an even more effective educational program," said Petersen. In 1997, the Non-farmers' Guide will increase its promotional efforts to attract more Johnson County residents.

Dozen trends noted in state dairy industry

No single facet of Minnesota agriculture is changing faster than the dairy industry, according to Harold Stanislawski, dairy development specialist with the Minnesota Department of Agriculture.

Faced with a dwindling number of dairy farms and the prospect of losing its infrastructure, the dairy industry is taking a hard look at itself, Stanislawski said. He has identified 12 trends that are changing the way dairy farmers operate.

(1) Limiting capital investment per cow. Dairy farmers have found that increasing the number of cows but keeping overhead low is the key to profit. Well ventilated, comfortable barns that are full of cows will weather many "price storms" if the cows are healthy and milking well. Dave Galton of Cornel University has found that three-row barns are the least expensive at $600-$850 per stall. Six-row barns cost $800-$1,200 per stall and four-row barns cost $1,200-$1,500 per stall. Insulation under the truss adds another $80 to $100 per stall. Over low-overhead systems are bedded paks and rotational grazing.

(2) Maximizing use of milking centers. Depending on the original investment, new parlors may be justified if they are used more than 16 hours per day. Farmers are finding excellent facilities that will milk more than 50 cows per hour that are available for less than $25,000.

(3) Extracting the most milk for the feed dollar invested. On many farms, feed costs average less than $5 per hundredweight. Even with economical feeds, these cows continue to exhibit high milk productivity and reproduction performance.

(4) Ensuring quality roughage. Farmers have found that the quality and quantity of roughage must take priority over grain crops. Total feed costs are highly correlated with the quality of roughage.

(5) Focusing on the cows and purchasing the feed. Forming arrangements with neighbors to provide the feed is a common practice on larger dairy farms. A good business plan will help to determine if it makes financial sense to add more cows and let someone else grow the feed.

(6) Using bunker silos for efficiency. Traditional tower silos are being replaced by bunker silos on farms with more than 150 cows. Filling and feeding are more efficient with bunkers.

(7) Becoming familiar with financing options for expansion. Using the SBA's 504 Loan Program, Minnesota dairy farmers have added well over 10,000 cows in Minnesota. Other financial sources include Farmer Mac (Federal Agricultural Mortgage Corporation), the Minnesota Department of Agriculture's Rural Finance Authority and traditional lenders.

(8) Purchasing healthy cattle at reasonable prices. Farmers look for cattle with good health and body condition that are disease free. They maintain herd health with vaccination programs and by forming close working relationships with local veterinarians.

(9) Finding farm workers through federal/state training programs. Government is beginning to train workers for careers on dairy farms. Farmers are finding suitable, well trained help through their local private industry councils.

(10) Exploring milk marketing clubs. With the advent of milk futures, marketing clubs are starting to spring up around the state. Although futures contracts can be profitable, dairy farmers will want to seek advice and become thoroughly familiar with the way these contracts work before they get involved.

(11) Exchanging information through discussion groups. Dairy farmers are meeting to exchange information and form alliances in areas such as labor, equipment purchases and input acquisitions.

(12) Moving cautiously on new technology. Farmers are cautious about adopting "bells and whistles" technology unless they can predict a return on their investment using a written plan.

More information on these trends is available from Harold Stanislawski, 127 Mill Street, Fergus Falls, MN 56537, phone 218-739-7632.

CRP expiration impact to be felt in 1998

Expiration of many hundreds of CRP contracts will take place in the fall of 1997 in northwestern Minnesota counties and much of the land presently enrolled will not qualify for the new CRP program.

Impact of the thousands of acres once again becoming available for agricultural production will likely not be felt until the 1998 crop year, although the concerns of how to deal with the future of those lands will be prevalent this summer. The CRP contracts officially expire on September 30.

Kittson cow/calf producers ask exemption from feedlot permits

Cow/calf producers in Kittson county have recommended in a letter to the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA) that they and others in northwestern Minnesota not be required to apply for feedlot permits. The basis for their request is the opinion that they do not operate feedlots.

The recommendation, along with other suggested changes in MPCA feedlot regulations, was the result of a meeting conducted at Lancaster in January with more than 30 livestock producers in attendance. The letter was prepared by Curtis W. Nyegaard, Kittson county extension educator, following a meeting he held three days later with two Kittson county commissioners, two beef cow/calf operators and Soil and Water Conservation district staff.

The letter sent to Don Hauge of the MPCA feedlot unit in St. Paul, also included the signatures of 31 beef cow/calf operators who were in attendance at the Lancaster meeting.

According to the letter, beef cow/calf operators in northwestern Minnesota utilize grazing pastures and/or range lands and the cattle are normally not restricted to limited areas except when calving is taking place. As such, the operations would not meet the 50 animal units which require a permit.

The contention is made for operations located in, but not limited to, the counties of Kittson, Roseau, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Beltrami, Polk, Pennington, Red Lake, Clearwater, Hubbard, Mahnomen, Norman, Clay, Becker, Otter Tail, Wilkin, Traverse, Grant, Pope, Douglas and Stevens.

The group submitting the recommended changes propose a 50 animal unit calculated by using the following formula.

A slaughter steer or heifer (1,000 pounds) would constitute one animal unit. A calf up to six months old would be one-half animal unit. One animal unit would be divided by 12 for conversion to a monthly basis: one month would equal .0833, two months equal .1666, three months equal .2499, etc.

For example, this conversion would yield the following numbers: 100 cows would equal 8.33 units for one month and 200 cows would equal 16.67 units for one month, 33.34 units for two months and 49.98 units for three months.

The proposal also requests that an allowance be made for 100 animal units per five acres and 200 animal units per 10 acres during calving.

A local review board comprised of a Soil and Water Conservation District staff person, a county commissioner, the county extension educator and two livestock producers is proposed to accept reports on any major change in animal units and would report to the county board of commissioners.

"It also needs to be understood," the letter states, "that waste from a cow/calf operation usually includes large amounts of straw and hay which absorb nutrients and increase organic breakdown which lessens the pollution potential.

"In support of exempting the cow/calf operations from the permitting procedure," the letter further states, "the Kittson County Local Water Plan Testing Program, which has been ongoing since 1991, indicates that state waters in Kittson county do not exceed the allowable limits for fecal coliform bacteria (Escherichia coli) parameters, nitrogen, P, K, as defined by the EPA and M.D.H. Any private or public ditch/coulee that does not have a base flow should not be included as a state waterway."

The group also would like to see a representative from the cow/calf operations of northwest Minnesota become a member of the MPCA advisory committee.

Signing the letter in addition to Nyegaard were Kelly Bengtson, Soil and Water District manager, Jeff Tineson, county zoning administrator, Randy Swenson and Bev Hewitt, county commissioners, and Clifford Davis and Gordon Bernstrom, cow/calf operators.

A look at the new CRC program for spring wheat

Crop Revenue Coverage (CRC) is being considered by many wheat producers as an alternative to multi-peril crop insurance (MPCI), now that spring wheat grown in Minnesota has been announced as eligible for CRC by the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation board of directors.

Developed by a private crop insurance company, CRC is a new crop insurance plan which protects against lost revenue caused by low prices, low yields or any combination of the two. It is similar to MPCI in that it is based on a grower's actual production history (APH).

CRC has been proven to return lower cost ratios than MPCI. And despite a premium cost that is higher than MPCI, the product has proven popular with farmers because they see it as an insurance product that may offer better coverage and a better revenue guarantee. It has been tested in Iowa and Nebraska in a corn/soybean pilot program.

Price And Yield Protection

According to the Minnesota Association of Wheat Growers, CRC sets a market-based guarantee before planting and guarantees this revenue in dollars per acre at a harvest-time replacement cost. It is always based on the value of the crop. Since CRC guarantees price as well as yield, the final guarantee under the program will be the greater of either: (1) a minimum guarantee set at planting; or (2) a guarantee based on price and yield at harvest.

The minimum guarantee is calculated from a grower's coverage level, APH and a base price, which is 95 percent of the February, 1997, average closing prices of the September, 1997 Minneapolis Grain Exchange (MGE) wheat futures contract.

The harvest guarantee is based on a grower's coverage level, APH and a harvest price, which is 95 percent of the average closing prices of the September, 1997 MGE wheat futures contract during the month of August, 1997.

Some counties in Minnesota have been involved in a similar pilot program called Income Protection (IP). There are key differences among CRC and IP coverage, however: IP is based on single-unit coverage, versus optional multi-unit or sectional coverage offered through CRC. Although both IP and CRC establish a minimum revenue floor, CRC provides upward price protection, based upon market-determined prices.

"In the new Freedom to Farm era, risk management is becoming increasingly important for all crop producers in the United States," says Jerry Nordick, past president of the Minnesota Association of Wheat Growers. "We're thrilled that all of Minnesota will qualify for this new crop risk management tool on spring wheat in the 1997 growing season."

Advantages, Disadvantages

CRC is available at 5% election increments beginning at a 50% level continuing through 75%. Durum wheat is not included in the CRC pilot program. CRC is not available to producers farming non-standard classification system (NCS) land. There is no hail and fire exclusion available for CRC, and any discounts for good experience available for MPCI are not available for CRC.

Art Barnaby, a Kansas State University extension economist, sees several possible benefits of CRC to farmers:

- The program guarantees a minimum amount of revenue by insuring both yield and price risks.
- The program addresses the price determination problem that often causes MPCI to pay less than the market value of the lost crop.
- The program provides replacement cost coverage and peace of mind to insurers when they use forward contracting to price their crops.

However, there are several possible disadvantages. The CRC premium may be 30% to 60% higher than the current MPCI program, Barnaby says.

In one scenario the producer could receive less of an indemnity payment than under the current MPCI program. That would happen only if the MPCI price election (determined by the federal government) was set higher than the CRC base price (determined by market futures).

This could be a possibility because the price used to set the CRC guarantee is not the equivalent of the MPCI price election. The 1997 MPCI price election for spring wheat and durum is $3.85. The CRC minimum guarantee is based in part by the February, 1997, average closing prices of the September, 1997, Minneapolis wheat futures contract—which has been trading below $3.85.

The Wheat Growers group suggests not being too quick to jump into or dismiss any of the available risk management options. Growers are encouraged to discuss the new CRC program with their private crop insurance agents. The signup deadline for all risk management products is today, March 15, 1997.

Best Management loan program funded

Minnesota Department of Agriculture (MDA) has announced that the Agricultural Best Management Practices Loan Program has allocated approximately $9.5 million to 55 counties, Soil and Water Conservation Districts (SWCD's) and Joint Power Boards (JPB's) to make three per cent interest loans to farmers, agriculture supply businesses and rural landowners for projects that prevent or reduce non-point source pollution.

This is the third year of the Agricultural Best Management Practices Loan Program administered by the MDA. With this year's allocation, the program has distributed a total of $27 million since it began. This money is available to local governments for up to 20 years, providing a local revolving fund to implement agriculture related conservation practices.

MDA Commissioner Gene Hugoson, said "We received requests from 55 applicants covering 75 counties, asking for more than $22 million for water quality improvement projects identified in local water plans. Unfortunately, we have just $9.5 million to allocate for 1997. After a thorough review by a multi-agency panel, we decided to award all applicants funds, although in smaller amounts than requested." With this allocation in place, the Agricultural Best Management Practices Loans will be available in 81 of 87 Minnesota counties.

The loan allocations enable counties, SWCD's and Joint Power boards through private local lenders and banks, to make loans to individual farmers for conservation practices that improve water quality. Eligible practices include upgrading or repairing animal waste management equipment and structures, erosion control practices, conservation tillage equipment, sealing abandoned wells, upgrading septic systems and other agriculturally related best management practices that prevent or mitigate non-point source pollution.

Counties, SWCD's and Joint Powers Boards receiving allocations include: Benton, Big Stone, Blue Earth, Carver, Chippewa, Cottonwood, Dakota, Dodge, Douglas, Faribault, Fillmore, Freeborn, Hennepin, Houston, Hubbard, IMPACK-6 (including Isanti, Mille Lacs, Pine, Aitkin, Chisago and Kanabec), Jackson, Kandiyohi, Kittson, Lac Que Parle, Le Sueur, Lincoln, Lyon, Marshall, McLeod, Meeker, Morrison, Mower, Martin, Murray, Nobles, Northwest Joint Powers Board (including Pennington, Polk, Red Lake, Roseau), Olmsted, Pipestone, Pope, Redwood, Renville, Rice, Rock, Scott, Sibley, Steele, St. Louis, Stearns, Stevens, Swift, Todd, Wabasha, Watonwan, West Central Joint Powers Board (including Mahnomen, Becker, Norman, Otter Tail, Traverse, Grant, Clay and Wilkin), Winona, Wright, Waseca, Washington and Yellow Medicine.

To date a total of 763 practices have been implemented involving loans totaling $8.9 million, including 156 manure management systems, 127 structural erosion control practices, 243 conservation tillage practices, and 229 septic system upgrades. Another 1,400 projects are planned or in progress.

Good time now to assess grain drying systems

This is a good time of the year to evaluate a grain drying system's performance during the past season and to start thinking about possible changes for the coming crop year, according to Bill Wilcke, extension agricultural engineer for the University of Minnesota extension service.

Wilcke says farmers are likely to get better prices and have more options now than if they wait until fall. County extension offices have information available on assessing grain drying systems.

Price projections can be ordered

Free publications of North Dakota's price expectations for 1997 crop production are available from the NDSU extension service by calling 701-231-7882 or writing to NDSU Agriculture Communication, Distribution Center, Box 5655, 10 Morrill Hall, Fargo, ND 58105.

According to Ron Haugen, NDSU farm management specialist, farmers can use short-term ag planning prices as a guide in planning annual budgets and cash flow projections.

Seed treatment helps crops off to good start

Research clearly shows that seed treatments get crops off to a better start with betters stands, according to Jochum Wiersma, small grains specialist at the University of Minnesota.

Treatments are especially important for: seed stressed by disease, weather, or soil conditions; seed with germination that's lower than 90 per cent, and fields with a history of disease and a narrow rotation. Seed treatments will not prevent scab infection or revive very poor seed, he says.

"A yield response of as little as one bushel per acre will recover wheat seed treatment costs. There's a good selection of products on the market, and your county extension office is an objective source for performance information," says Wiersma.

But don't over treat. Wiersma says seed treatments over recommended levels may actually reduce germination and injure a crop. Further, crop scientists and industry representatives generally do not recommend the storage of treated see, which has the risks of reduced germination; people or animals coming in contact with the treated seed; and sanitation and contamination concerns in the storage area. Treat what you need to, Wiersma advises, and any treated seed left over from planting may be used for cover crop seeking later in the year.

The variety of choice for many in the Red River Valley in recent years has been 2375, which rates the best for scab tolerance among current varieties. However, 2375 can be prone to other problems such as shattering lodging, and competitiveness with weeds. It is also susceptible to some leaf diseases such as Septoria and tan spot.

Growing at least three different varieties with different heading times and genetic backgrounds is good insurance against potential problems in 1997. "No variety will be best every year and under all conditions. It is suggested to include ones that do better under stress conditions along with others that will produce best in ideal conditions," says Wiersma.

To increase the likelihood of achieving the best stand possible for wheat in the next growing season, Wiersma says to shoot for these planting guidelines: A plant population of about 1.2 million to 1.3 million plants per acre, or 27 to 30 plants per square foot.

Calculate your seeding rate on the basis of the number of seeds per pound, the germination rate of the seed, and adjust for historic stand losses in the field. An example for calculating the planting rate for wheat:

Desired population is 1,125,000 stems per acre at harvest. 2) Historic field stand loss is 10 per cent. 3) Seed lot germination is 95 per cent. 4) Seed lot has a seed count of 15,000 seeds per pound.

Then: 15,000 x 0.95=14,250 viable seeds per pound.

1,125,000 seeds x 110 per cent = 1,237,500 viable seeds needed per acre.

1,237,500 seeds / 14,250 seeds/lb-87 pounds per acre seeding rate or 28 total seeds per square foot.

Planting too deep is often a problem, says Wiersma. Planting close to the soil surface, at a planting depth between 1 and 1 and one-half inches, is desirable for quick emergence and helps establish a quick stand to compete against weeds. Planting too deep is often a problem. A firmer seedbed, depth control measures (such as depth gauge bands) on seeding equipment, and a planting speed of about three to four miles per hour will help.

Wiersma will discuss tips on starting the growing season properly, at the Small Grains Institute, 11:30 a.m., March 6 at the Red River Valley Shows Building, Crookston.

Efforts to repeal dairy compact applauded

Minnesota Department of Agriculture (MDA) Commissioner Gene Hugoson said Congressional efforts to repeal the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact have his full support.

Earlier this month U.S. Senators Rod Grands, Russ Feingold (D-WI) and Herb Kohl (D-WI) introduced the "Dairy Fairness Act" to repeal the compact. Commissioner Hugoson noted, "I applaud these efforts. We expect the Northeast Compact to result in overproduction of milk in New England, further depressing milk prices for farmers in Minnesota and throughout the Midwest. It's a step backwards."

The 1996 Farm Bill gave US Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman the discretion to authorize the compact if he found a "compelling public interest" in the New England area in doing so. The compact is currently being challenged in federal court, where a judge granted a 45-day delay for the United States Department of Agriculture to reconsider authorization of the compact.

Commissioner Hugoson added, "Regional compacts are simply the wrong direction to go in as we enter the 21st Century. We believe the greatest prosperity for the dairy industry lies in a less regulated, more market-driven system. A Northeast Compact can only balkanize the national market further and discourage meaningful reform of the outdated federal order system, which sets the minimum prices dairy farmers receive for their milk."

Research being done to cut manure storage odor

What do bubbles, Norwegian lava rock and chopped straw have in common? All may block odors from manure storage tanks at hog production facilities.

Iowa State University agricultural engineers are testing these and other materials as floating covers for liquid manure storage tanks. Their research is among 13 odor and waste management issue projects funded by a three-year, $1.6 million grant from the Iowa Soybean Promotion Board, the Iowa Corn Promotion Board and the Iowa Pork Producers Association.

Manure storage is a major source of odor complaints from neighbors of large hog production facilities, said Dwaine Bundy, who heads the manure storage cover project. If storage odors can be reduced or eliminated, about half the entire odor problem may be solved, which could spur growth in the livestock industry.

That's good news for Iowa soybean and corn growers because they supply a major portion of the feed used for hog production, said Bruce Babcock, an economist who leads the ISU issue team of 21 scientists.

"Our No. 1 goal is to keep Iowa's livestock industry viable and competitive, while protecting the environment," he added.

Bundy's project uses crop residue. He covered test tanks with a 10-inch layer of chopped wheat straw and baled cornstalks. The thicker layers of material floated for 12 weeks or longer and blocked up to 80 per cent of the odor.

He said next year he hopes to test oat straw, which is more readily available in Iowa, and possibly soybean straw.

One of the best odor blockers is Leka rock, a volcanic material mined off the coast of Norway. Commonly used in European hog facilities, it is expensive to ship, so Bundy's group is experimenting with American-made substitutes.

Another material was discovered two years ago on a visit to an Illinois hog facility that was testing a total aeration system. The system failed, but two weeks later a layer of rigid bubbles remained on the surface of the manure storage tanks. "We can create similar bubbles on our test tanks by running a 1/2-horsepower pump five minutes a week," Bundy explained. "The results are as good as anything else we've tried. This system would be low in cost and it doesn't take other materials, but it needs more study."

Other projects include small-scale model farms, lagoons and windbreaks set up in a 22-foot wind tunnel to study the effect of atmospheric conditions on odor; computer modeling to predict how odors affect nearby areas; development of an odor index with an ISU-designed olfactometer; crop residue filters to reduce dust and gas emissions from swine buildings; and ways to detect and trap odor-causing chemical compounds.

The team approach used in this project already is producing useful results. "By the end of the second year of this project, we should be ready to demonstrate several new cost-effective management practices to reduce odor," noted Babcock.

WATCH AROUND THE REGION

Amy Branscomb

14-year-old hero

Baudette – Hank McDonough, five, almost certainly owes the fact that he is alive today to the actions of a 14-year-old Baudette lad, Adam Stewart, an eighth grader at Lake of the Woods High School.

Hank happened to find one of those areas where the ice was anything but safe. It happened at Willie Walleye Park shortly after 3:30 p.m. Sunday afternoon.

"I just happened to look back. We really didn't hear anything – I just happened to look back to the Boy, and there was Hank in the water," said Adam.

Hank was up to his neck in water and Adam went down to help pull him out. He kept slipping back through and the ice kept breaking away, but he finally managed to pull him onto the ledge.

The rest of the children with him also helped by making a human chain to pull Hank out. When they got him to safety, one of the girls helped take off his wet clothes and put her coat around him while another went to get adult help.

Record broken

Roseau – Corey Michal and David Olson came up with the idea to break the Guiness Book of World Records for distance traveled on a snowmobile in a 24 hour period.

Olson and Michal, who both work for Polaris, were particularly interested in breaking the record of 912 miles since the current title-holder had accomplished it on an Arctic Cat out in Oregon.

Michal had tried to break the record two years ago but his machine broke down.

On March 4 they began their quest at 10 a.m. Olson ran a 600 HP Polaris with a domestic engine while Michal had a Fuji engine in his machine.

They followed an 80-mile course at Lake of the Woods, stopping for fuel at the Pine Creek Pub and then Springsteel.

In order to break a Guiness record, you have to carefully record the event and have witnesses. The event was video taped by Jim Endrizzi and there were several parties snapping photographs as well.

Michal's pistons went at the eight hour mark and he had no more parts to use. Olson's run came to a stop at the 16 1/2 hour mark when the carburetor froze up. He had traveled 1,216 miles at that point.

They have not received official status from Guiness as yet but have no doubt that it will be recognized.

Mathletes take first

Crookston – Teams from Crookston and Fisher were first place finishers in the Mathcounts competition held recently at the University of Minnesota, Crookston. Eighty seventh and eighth grade students from northwestern Minnesota participated in this year's Mathcounts.

The Crookston team placed first among the large schools and second overall. The Fisher team placed first among the small schools and first overall.

The teams from both schools advanced to state competition.

Road limits to go into effect next Thursday

Road restrictions on all Pennington County roads will be concurrent with the placements of restrictions on state trunk highways in the area.

Last week, the Pennington County Highway department issued its list of road restrictions. According to officials with the Minnesota Department of Transportation, restrictions on the northern district will go into effect on March 27. The northern district includes all highways north of 10 and 210 to the Canadian border. Restrictions south of that are already in effect.

Restriction limits are based on gross axle weight which include the weight of the vehicle and the load it is carrying.

The erection of signs on any highway governs the effective date of the restriction. As long as signs remain in place, restrictions are in effect.

No permits for overweight axle loads exceeding legal or posted axle weights will be issued, according to the county highway department.

During the period when signs are in place or road restrictions are in effect, any county or township road is restricted to five tons gross weight per axle except as otherwise signed. If no signs are erected, the five ton gross weight provisions shall apply.

All rural bituminous Pennington County State Aid Highways will be posted at seven tons gross weight per axle except as noted below.

Exceptions posted at (10) tons gross weight per axle are as follows: CSAH 17 from CSAH 3 to First Street in Thief River Falls; CSAH 3 from T.H. 32 to TH 59.

Exceptions posted at (9) tons gross weight per axle are as follows: CSAH 3 from US 59 to CSAH 25; CSAH 3 from Polk county line to TH 32; CSAH 20 from CSAH 3 to US 59; CSAH 7 from US 59 to CSAH 22; and CSAH 23 from CSAH 3 to Red Lake County line.

Snow's melting; Fourth of July plans underway

"Believe it or not, we are in the planning stages for the fourth American Festival," notes Paul Nelson, CEO at Hartz Foods and one of the organizers of the original An American Festival in Thief River Falls.

"This year it will take place on Friday and Saturday, July 4 and 5," Nelson stated. "The annual parade and fairgrounds activities are scheduled for July 4 with the fireworks and continuing fairgrounds activities on July 5."

Nelson and the committee for An American Festival encouraged any and all non-profit groups to make use of free space at the fairgrounds to conduct fund-raising efforts, from food concessions to Bingo and car washes.

"You are limited only by your imagination and willingness to work," Nelson said. "To reserve a spot or receive more details, call Julie Olson at the Chamber of Commerce office (681-3720) or call me at Hartz Foods (681-3450."

Managers attend area flood fighting course

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Emergency managers and public officials from throughout northwestern Minnesota attended a first-ever Flood Fight Operations Course in Thief River Falls last week. The three-day course, which is designed to provide local officials information in planning and responding to flood emergencies, was developed by the Federal Emergency Management Administration (FEMA).

Pete Jensen, FEMA, explained that this is the first year that FEMA has offered this course and only the third time in Minnesota. The first two courses were held in St. Paul and Marshall. It's a new training program released in August of 1996 and part of an overall plan to reach out to local government, he said.

The course consisted of self-directed work books, slides and videos. Jensen said it has been beneficial to get these local officials who are entrusted with responding to a flood crisis, to talk to each other. It's very valuable he said because they develop working relationships and contacts in group activities. They also work on response plans and learn the same terminology.

Jensen said it has been interesting for FEMA as well. Participants always seem to come up with different response plans during the sessions and there have been some concerns expressed which will help FEMA in the future.

FEMA has been taking a more pro-active position lately. In fact, they have encouraged residents of Northwestern Minnesota to purchase flood insurance, and provided information about what is covered by insurance. They have also been encouraging people to look at making individual emergency plans in case of a flood emergency, and encouraging them to reduce damage to their own homes by removing belongings from basements, developing escape routes and plans on what to take with them, and what to do with pets and farm animals. Jensen said they are also encouraging people to become involved in their community by volunteering.

There was no tuition charge for the course offered by FEMA. It was sponsored by the Minnesota Department of Public Safety, Division of Emergency Management. The target audience included emergency managers, public works officials, fire fighters, levee board and watershed district officials, volunteer agencies and other governmental officials who may be called upon to deal with a flood crisis.

About 38 area and local public officials, emergency response teams, and individuals responsible for flood preparedness plans attended a unique flood fight operations course in Thief River Falls last week. The course was conducted by representatives of the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), and sponsored by the Minnesota Department of Public Safety, division of emergency management. Flood plans are being made throughout the region.

Orange tree provides touch of spring at Scholin home

June Scholin proudly displays her orange tree. She has had the orange tree growing in her home for the past 20 years. She uses the tree as a reminder that spring is always just around the corner. The tree produces oranges (insert) all year round.

by, Amy Branscomb
Northern Watch reporter

So you wonder when spring will finally get here? Well June Scholin of Thief River Falls along with her husband Vernon have a little something that keeps them thinking "spring".

They have a 25-year-old orange tree that they grow in their living room. With the bright orange fruit and sweet smelling blossoms they always have a little bit of spring in their house all year round.

June has been taking care of the tree for about 23 years. Her daughter started the tree when she was in college. She had planted the seed from a Mandarin orange and never really expected it to grow. Now it's just about the same size as June, maybe even a little bigger.

June takes good care of the tree, although she says she doesn't do anything special for it. She just waters it and cleans its leaves every once in a while. The leaves get very dusty from being inside the house. And recently she has started giving it a little plant food.

"I look at my thumbs every once in awhile and they're not green," June said jokingly. The most oranges that the tree has produced at one time is 41. June and Vernon took 21 oranges to their daughter who was living in Florida one year as a little joke!

June says the tree grows oranges all year long. It takes about one full year for the orange to fully develop from the blossom stage. The oranges are edible, although they are a little on the bitter side. The way she can tell if the orange is ripe is by the depth of the dent near the branch. When they are ripe, the dent will get deeper. She also said that the ripe ones feel lighter than the rest.

Once June was all ready to make orange marmalade, she had the 5th Home, Sport, Family Show is April 5th & 6th

Exhibitors using 134 booths inside and additional displays and concessions outdoors will be features of the 5th Annual Home, Sport & Family Show Saturday and Sunday, April 5 and 6, at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center in Thief River Falls.

Show times will be from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. Admission prices at the door are $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children under 17. Children under age six are admitted free.

Tickets may be purchased in advance at $2 and $1 from March 24 through April 4 at the sponsoring Thief River Falls Times office, 324 Main Avenue North. Included in each ticket price is a 50-cent surcharge for the city's arena improvement fund.

Show visitors are also invited to stop at the Thief River Falls Times booth to register in a drawing for a free weekend in Minneapolis, co-sponsored by The Times and Bergan Travel. The prize includes two nights lodging at the Hampton Inn Mall of America location, meals and other amenities.

Show director Denise Laymon said that there will again be a wide variety of items on display of interest to everyone from the fisherman to the home decorator and craft enthusiast to Internet browsers.

"More than 20 crafters have rented exhibit space for this year's show and are coming to display from Roseau, Middle River, Brooks, Argyle, Karlstad, Warroad, Red Lake Falls, Viking, Newfolden, Oklee and other communities in addition to Thief River Falls," she said.

"With the capacity of the civic center taxed to overflowing, there will also be outdoor displays of boats, campers and a mobile home, as well as National Guard vehicles and equipment and food concessions," Laymon added.

New owners

Argyle – The Farmer Dell Steakhouse and Lounge of Argyle is now under new ownership as of March 1. Mark and Cara Hendrickson purchased the business from Bruce and Anita Anderson who owned and operated the business since it was built in 1977.

The Hendricksons have moved to Argyle from Webster, WI. In Webster, Mark worked with the Northwest Passage Program dealing with delinquents and youth. Cara also worked with the organization as business manager. The Hendricksons held that position for the past six years since they completed college at Moorhead state University.

Mark graduated from Warren high School and Moorhead University with a degree in criminal justice. Cara is a graduate of the Argyle High School and Moorhead State University and holds her degree in hotel and motel business management.

oranges and peels chopped up and ready to put together, when she realized she didn't know where the recipe was. So instead she made fresh homemade "pure Minnesotan orange juice".

In the summer June will put the tree out on her porch because it thrives on warm sunlight. When it's time to bring it in for the fall she has to prune branches to get it back in through the doorway.

She used to put the tree outside in the summer, but found that hornets would drill holes into the oranges. Hornets love the sweet smell and taste of the oranges and won't leave them alone. So now the tree has to settle for the porch.

"It's such a joy to have it in the middle of winter," June commented. It is one way of remembering that there is still life underneath all the snow outside. The orange tree has brought June and Vernon a different perspective on winter, because they always know that spring is just around the corner!

New owners

Argyle – The Farmer Dell Steakhouse and Lounge of Argyle is now under new ownership as of March 1. Mark and Cara Hendrickson purchased the business from Bruce and Anita Anderson who owned and operated the business since it was built in 1977.

The Hendricksons have moved to Argyle from Webster, WI. In Webster, Mark worked with the Northwest Passage Program dealing with delinquents and youth. Cara also worked with the organization as business manager. The Hendricksons held that position for the past six years since they completed college at Moorhead state University.

Mark graduated from Warren high School and Moorhead University with a degree in criminal justice. Cara is a graduate of the Argyle High School and Moorhead State University and holds her degree in hotel and motel business management.

Orange tree brightens Vernon Scholin home

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

While cleaning out my basement before the flood comes, I found some of my mother's recipes. I will share some of her special treats with you today.

I've been looking for this recipe for a long time - I remember having this bread often at home:

HOBO BREAD

1 1/2 cups raisins
2 teaspoons soda
1 cup boiling water
1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons shortening
1 egg
2 cups flour
Pinch of salt
1/2 cup nuts

Pour water over raisins and soda and let stand until cool.

Combine raisins and water with remaining ingredients.

Grease 3 clean vegetable cans well and pour mixture evenly into cans. Bake about 45 minutes at 350 degrees.

I don't remember eating these, but I'm sure I did - never could resist something like this - sounds like a good recipe for Easter - just add a jelly bean or two:

NO-BAKE ALMOND BARS

1/3 cup butter
1/2 pound (regular-sized) marshmallows (about 44)
1/2 cup chopped almonds, toasted
1/2 cup coconut, toasted
2 cups corn flakes
2 cups rice crispie cereal
1/2 of a very large milk chocolate bar (Mom's recipe said a "49 cent" bar - I think that price may have changed now)
6 ounces semi-sweet chocolate chips

Melt butter and marshmallows. Toast almonds and coconut in oven.

Mix marshmallow mixture, almonds, coconut and cereals and press in 9x13 inch pan.

Melt chocolate bar and chips and spread over top.

Cool and then cut.

Mom attributes this recipe to Ellnor C. - it sounds like something good to make for Easter:

WHITE FUDGE

2 cups sugar
2 tablespoons corn syrup
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup commercial sour cream (or 3/4 cup sour cream and 1/4 cup milk)
1 cup nuts
Vanilla

Combine syrup, butter and cream and boil to medium soft ball stage. Cool to room temperature and add vanilla. Beat thick. Add nuts.

Pour in thin layer on greased waxed paper-covered cookie sheet.

These cookies are attributed to Ethel L. and I haven't ever seen any quite like them - they sound very good and are full of good things too:

DATE FILLED OATMEAL COOKIES

1/2 cup shortening (part butter)
1/2 cup white sugar
1/2 cup brown sugar
1 cup quick oatmeal
1 cup flour
1 egg
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream shortening and sugar. Add egg.

Mix dry ingredients, except oatmeal, and add to above. Add oatmeal last.

Make into small balls and bake at 350 degrees until light brown. Flatten balls with finger and let cool. Then fill with date filling.

Filling
1 package dates
1 cup orange juice or water

Boil until thick and then spread between baked cookies.

Oh, I do remember this cake - it was my favorite birthday cake - it would be lovely for Easter:

SUNSHINE CAKE

8 egg whites
6 egg yolks
3/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
1/2 cup sugar
3/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup flour
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cold water
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon vanilla

Beat egg whites until foamy. Add cream of tartar and salt and mix well.

Add 1/2 cup sugar gradually, beating until stiff peaks form.

Beat egg yolks until thick and light colored. Add sugar and continue to beat until fluffy. Add flour alternately with water which has been mixed with flavorings. Fold in egg white mixture.

Place in ungreased angel food pan and bake at 325 degrees for 60 minutes.

Lincoln's "Guys and Dolls" Performance Is Top Drawer Stuff

Thief River Falls is many miles from New York City, but in terms of performance the Lincoln high school music department's production of the musical "Guys and Dolls" is just a short step off Broadway. The show concludes its three-night run tonight (Saturday) in the Lincoln auditorium.

Lincoln has consistently had excellent actors, actresses, vocalists and instrumentalists among its student body and this year is no exception to that situation. What is exceptional, however, is the number of students generously gifted with both singing and acting ability attending Lincoln at this time. "Guys and Dolls" is the perfect showcase for those talents, and director Darcy Reese has selected the cast as though the musical was written for her talent pool.

While the current of talent runs deep in the production, attention must be focused on the four major roles of Sky Masterson (Kyle Rokke), Sarah Brown (Katie Christensen), Nathan Detroit (Matt Bitzegaio) and Miss Adelaide (Lana Rodahl). None are strangers to people familiar with School District 564 stage and vocal productions. All have accumulated a considerable amount of performing experience, yet only Lana is a senior. Matt and Kyle are juniors and Katie, despite her poise, maturity and confidence on stage, is only a sophomore.

With her affected voice and mannerisms, Lana clearly steals the show. Her ability to remain totally in character throughout the production is little short of amazing and her stage presence must leave the audience wondering if the role is second nature for her. She has an excellent singing voice, and we marvel that the weeks of rehearsals and three nights of intense production in her character voice assumption didn't cause strain that would adversely affect her singing. If so, it isn't apparent in her solid performance.

Matt Bitzegaio, despite being a great kid in real life, looks like he could be a real Nathan Detroit, operator of the biggest crap game in the city. He could have used a little more accent exaggeration in our view, but his development of the role and the weight it carried in the total production attest to his obvious ability.

Kyle Rokke seems to enjoy playing to a crowd. The more responsive the audience, the more he turns up the performance. He also has acquired superlative stage presence—no doubt helped by his speech competition experience— and the ability to remain in character throughout the show from curtain to curtain.

For a display of sheer natural talent that has been carefully cultivated, Katie Christensen's performance is especially memorable. Her musical reputation has preceded her to Lincoln, as she has excelled in presentations from elementary through middle school, but we are not aware of any such previous opportunity for her to parade her ample acting abilities. Her first solo in this musical turned more than a few heads and her voice belies her years.

We will miss Lana Rodahl's presence after this school year is over, but we look forward to further development and other enjoyable performances by Matt, Kyle and Katie.

We certainly don't want to slight the rest of the cast, for there were excellent supporting performances and impressive small parts, but so much of the success of this particular show rests on the "big four" characters that they must be emphasized.

We would also be remiss if we didn't make note of the contribution the orchestra makes to the professionalism of the performance. Conductor Derek Druse and his musicians, several of whom are just youngsters (veteran virtuoso pianist Cathy Hagen excepted), deserve accolades for their efforts. Mrs. Hagen, whose artistry is called upon with great frequency in the community, is certainly not excepted from the accolades, just from the youngster category. Perfection is her norm, therefore expected, but none the less appreciated.

Although we have come to expect high quality performances whenever students of Mrs. Reese are involved, we think everything has come together especially well in this musical presentation. If you miss it, you are depriving yourself of an evening of entertainment you would not soon forget.

Stassen Proposed For Presidential Medal

One of the most long-standing names in the annals of Minnesota political history is being proposed for consideration to be awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom. Harold Stassen, who will be 90 years old April 13, has been proposed for the award in a letter of recommendation signed by all 18 members of the U. S. Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

A perpetual unsuccessful candidate for office over many campaigns in recent years, Stassen may have been considered by some as a bit of a political misfit. But the former Minnesota Governor has an illustrious past. He was elected Governor of Minnesota in 1938 at the age of 31, serving as the nation's youngest Governor until 1943. He then went into service in World War II and emerged as a decorated veteran.

He served as a key advisor in a variety of influential posts throughout the administration of President Dwight D. Eisenhower. In 1945 he served at the personal request of President Franklin D. Roosevelt as part of the U.S. delegation to the international conference that founded the United Nations. He is now the only living American who drafted, negotiated and signed the original U.N. charter.

The Presidential Medal of Freedom is the nation's highest civilian honor. For his illustrious past service, Harold E. Stassen would be a deserving recipient. We hope the effort launched by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee will move President Clinton to make the award.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

No feed, no fees

There is no reason that the DNR has to buy feed for the deer. With all the land they claim is theirs and with the manpower and equipment they have, they could raise all kinds of grain, hay, sunflowers and corn. They planted a few acres for the elk along the main highway to impress the people. They bought hay all winter for the elk, so where did all that money come from?

In 1995 they sold near 400,000 deer licenses. Take that times $23.50. When I started hunting, licenses were $6.50 and have been raised a dollar twice since then—if not more—for deer feed. That's $800,000 at $2 for just one year. How many million have we paid in for deer feed in the past 20 to 30 years? They have only fed two or three times that I know of, where did the rest of that money go?

Now they want to raise the license fees $2.50 more. That is not the answer. The ONR made the mistake of airing on the radio the other morning that their deer herd has decreased to less than half in one year on the refuge that they manage. What does that tell you? Good management?

They stressed that if you start to feed deer, you have to continue 'til spring. What did they do? They quit in the most critical time last spring. If it wasn't for the farmers, sportsman's clubs, etc., we would never have had the deer population we have.

ONR released a report on last year's deer feeding program that costs were $1.2 million (what percent of this was actually spent on feed?) and that they used 8,400 staff hours. For what? Feed was brought in by semi-load, unloaded and loaded again into pickups and trailers by sportsmen. DNR never touched a bag.

ONR stated that many deer died in spite of the feeding, so if they would have started a month earlier, like they should have, and fed a couple weeks later, there wouldn't have been as many losses either.

I propose that no one buy a license next year. I can get along one year, maybe even two, without hunting deer. You can still spend a week at camp hunting grouse, playing cards or even go out and shoot some wolves. That would help our deer herd tremendously.

Our friendly ONR doesn't seem to want anything to do with the deer. Their main concern is ducks, frogs and mosquitoes. Now they'll send out crews to look for deformed frogs. How many millions will that cost us for a worthless cause?

If something is not done with these wolves there won't be any big comeback of deer or moose.

What's the answer to all of this? Shoot the wolves, no doe permits for a couple of years in these northern counties, buy no licenses and starve out the ONR.

Sincerely,
Harold Schulz

Young Nordics take their lumps

Young and inexperienced. It was a 1-2 combination that floored the 1996-97 Marshall County Central girls high school basketball team.

It was a team that finished the year with three seniors, four sophomores, six freshmen and a 2-21 record.

"We were young for a B team, and they were playing varsity ball," pointed out Jerald Hagen, in his first year as Marshall County Central head basketball coach. "It was a learning year. When you have as much youth and inexperience as we had, you're going to wind up with bumps and bruises. But they say time heals all wounds, and I think that as we gained some experience, we improved as the year went along."

"We had trouble playing a full game," explained Hagen. "We had a lot of different things that would hurt us for two-to-five minutes, and we would wind up giving up 15-20 points in that stretch."

Brandi Olson, Misty Fick and Mindy Fick were the seniors on the team.

Junior Miki Waterworth was averaging 13.8 points per game before she went down with a season-ending knee injury in the sixth game – the first win over Kittson County North.

Hagen used a variety of line-ups this year – improving the Nordics' depth, but not without a price. "We played so many kids that developing continuity was tough," he explained. "We tried a lot of different combinations trying to see what would work."

A year's worth of experience will help, but will not guarantee instant success next season, acknowledged Hagen. "We do lose three seniors, and we're still going to be pretty young – playing a lot of sophomores against juniors and seniors. We look for improvement. We should be able to play with people longer, and the longer you can stay with somebody, the better chance you have of pulling off a win."

A key, as always, noted Hagen, is the amount of off-season work the players put into the sport.

Jenny Smith Northland MVP

Jenny Smith was named the most valuable player on the Northland Community and Technical College women's basketball team for the 1996-97 season, it was announced recently by Pioneers head coach Rick Nikunen.

Smith is a 5-10 sophomore from Stephen. Other post-season team awards went to 5-7 freshman Annie Pomplun (Warroad), who was named most improved, 5-11 freshman Naomi Wilebski (Kittson County North), selected Rookie of the Year, and 5-10 sophomore LaVonne Nelson, presented with the Pioneer Award.

Smith, was earlier named a Minnesota Community College Conference all-Northern Division First Team pick and an MCCC all-state Second Team selection.

Ali Hietala, a 5-6 sophomore from Badger/Greenbush-Middle River, was voted to the MCCC all-state tournament team following the Pioneers' consolation championship performance.

Hietala, Nelson and 5-11 freshman Adria Olson (Edmore, ND) were MCCC all-Northern Division Second Team picks.

Northland went 16-8 this year, finishing in a third place tie with Vermilion in the Northern Division to earn a state tournament berth – awarded to the top four teams in the MCCC Northern and Southern Divisions.

Central Lakes won the regular season Northern Division title with a 12-0 record, followed by Rainy River 8-4, Northland 7-5, Vermilion 7-5, Fergus Falls 6-6, Mesabi 1-11, and Itasca 1-11.

"I think the season went well," said Nikunen. "As a coach, every year going into the season you look at the schedule and pick out the games you think you should win, the games you think will be close, and the games you figure you're going to have trouble with. Looking back, I think things went about as well as I thought they would. Realistically, we finished where I expected we would."

Making the state tournament field was a season-long goal. The Pioneers lost to Worthington 73-56 in the opening round quarterfinals, beat Ridgewater 71-54 in the consolation semifinals and got by Rainy River 46-42 for the consolation title.

"I thought we really had a good state tournament," noted Nikunen. "We played well. The first game was a matter of making our free throws (the Pioneers were just 9-for-23 at the line that afternoon). After that, the kids settled down and played good basketball. The Ridgewater game was probably our best game of the season – we were clicking on all cylinders."

Anoka-Ramsey, a 93-68 winner over Worthington in the state tournament finals, went on to win the National Junior College Athletic Association Division III national title. It was the fourth time in the past five years the Minnesota champion has won the NJCAA title. It was the second national championship for Anoka-Ramsey, with Central Lakes and Rainy River also joining them in the Division III winners circle.

That's a good indicator how strong MCCC women's basketball is, pointed out Nikunen. "As coaches, we know that when you put together a state championship team in Minnesota, you have a good chance to do well at the national level."

Smith led the balanced Northland offense this winter by averaging 11.5 points per game. Only other Pioneer carrying a double figure average was Olson, who scored 10 points per game.

Northland used its balance and size to average 42.3 rebounds per game – led by Nelson with 8.1 per outing.

Hietala, the Pioneers' point guard, averaged 5.5 assists per game.

Tara Sugden, a 5-3 guard from Kittson Central, joined Hietala, Nelson, and Smith as the Pioneers' 1996-97 sophomores.

TRF youth volleyball to begin on March 31

Three-week youth volleyball program for girls in grades 3-6 will be offered at Challenger Elementary School in Thief River Falls March 31 through April 18.

Sessions will be held from 3:15 to 4:30 p.m. Third and fourth graders will meet Monday and Wednesday. Fifth and sixth graders will meet Tuesday and Thursday.

Cost of the program is $15 per participant. Checks should be made payable to the Spike Down Club. Bring or send registration fee and registration forms to Sally Wiltse at Challenger Elementary School.

Registration material is available at the Challenge Elementary School and Franklin Middle School offices. Registration deadline is March 24.

For additional information, call Wiltse at 681-2630 after 6 p.m.

IF TEARDROPS WERE ROSES
If teardrops were roses
We'd build a stairway from down here, toward heaven to walk up, someday.
When we reach the top who would greet us but those beloved ones who went before us.
So when we cry teardrops remember our mother that with today's sorrow
a new stairstep begins.
Sadly missed by the family

Farm for Sale
FARM SERVICE AGENCY

318 acre farm located 8 miles southwest of Red Lake Falls, MN in section 18 of Terrebonne Township of Red Lake County. This property contains 228 tillable acres, a 38 x 64 Quonset and older 28 x 32 granary. Priced to sell at $72,000.

This property is being offered for sale to those individuals who are considered to be qualified beginning farmers or ranchers by FSA. Qualified beginning farmers or ranchers must be in need of direct FSA financing, an FSA Guaranteed loan or a participation loan. For other requirements and information on how to qualify as a beginning farmer or rancher, you may contact your local FSA office.

The sale is subject to conservation easement deed restrictions which restricts the purchaser's use of the wetland areas on the property. Also, the purchaser may be required to comply with the conditions of a Natural Resources Conservation Service conservation plan. The property may also contain wetlands that are not protected with a conservation easement that will be subject to other environmental laws such as Section 404 of the Clean Water Act and highly erodible land and wetland provisions of the Federal Agricultural Improvement and Reform Act of 1996.

Financing may be available subject to the availability of funds. If financing is not available at the time of sale, the selected applicant will be given the opportunity to lease the property for up to 18 months or until such time the agency funds become available, whichever comes first.

Applications may be obtained at the FSA office in Red Lake Falls or McIntosh and must be completed and received by April 23, 1997. The Government reserves the right to cancel the sale at anytime and the right to reject any or all applications.

For additional information, contact the E. Polk FSA office at Box 100, McIntosh, MN, 56556, (218) 563-3615 or the Red Lake County FSA office at Rt. 1 Box 34, Red Lake Falls, MN, 56750, (218) 253-2181.

Pennington County Dive Rescue team holds breakfast fundraiser

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Pennington County Dive Rescue team will sponsor a pancake breakfast fund-raiser from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Sunday, March 23, at the Eagles Club in Thief River Falls.

The Pennington County Dive Rescue team was officially formed in 1988 with a grant from Northwest Minnesota EMS. Currently the team consists of 10 divers led by Pennington County Sheriff Gerald Moe.

It's a unique dive team among Minnesota teams because it consists strictly of law enforcement officers from several agencies, said Team Dive Leader Jim Hulteen. Dive team members include: Ray Kuznia, sheriff's deputy, James Jesme, sheriff's deputy; Craig Mattson and James Hulteen, Thief River Falls police officers; Calvin Michaels of the Minnesota State Patrol; Tony Arhart, Jeff Birchem, Tim Provost, and John Velsvaag, Minnesota Conservation Officers, and Stan Leach, Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension investigator.

Hulteen said the organization is fortunate that Sheriff Moe and the Pennington County Board are so supportive. Hulteen said that if they receive a request from a neighboring county for assistance, they go, he said.

While the team has been in existence officially since 1988, it has been around since 1973 unofficially. Hulteen said that since 1973 the team has been called out 58 times, 19 for bodies and 15 for vehicle recoveries. They have also been called out numerous times for investigations, other property recoveries and training sessions.

Most recently, the team received wide-spread attention for its participation in the search and recovery for a van-load of ice fishermen from a van that broke through the ice on Lake of the Woods. That experience and what happened during that search may have been the impetus for an effort to raise money.

During the dive and rescue mission one of the divers got into difficulty in the cold murky water. Because they didn't have a verbal communication link established with the diver they were unaware of the potentially life-threatening situation he was in. Now the organization is attempting to purchase communication equipment for two divers and a surface unit. That communication link would cost over $4,000.

In the last few years, the organization has seen some big changes. Most importantly, it has added five divers to the team. This helps the organization respond to emergency situations over protracted periods of time. Unfortunately, outfitting a diver with approved equipment is a costly venture, which no single department or individual can bear. Hulteen explained that 95 percent of the operating funds for the organization come from donations. Some of the divers are even volunteering their time.

The need for underwater communication equipment, equipment for five divers, and updated equipment for older equipment, has pushed the total cost to about $22,000.

Hulteen and members of the team are hoping many individuals will attend the pancake breakfast on Sunday. Proceeds from this event will help the organization raise the money it needs for the equipment. Tickets for the event are $3.50 for adults and $2.50 for children 10 and under.

Fifth annual Home, Sport and Family Show slated April 5 and 6 at Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center

Leisureland RV of East Grand Forks and Budget RV of Grand Forks, ND, will have camper units on display and boats will be shown by Westgate Marine of Grand Forks, ND, Warroad Estates Marina of Warroad and Grove Sports of Crookston. Northwestern Homes of Thief River Falls will have a manufactured home on display.

Two fishing tackle manufacturers will have their wares for sale. Willow Creek Furniture of Big Falls will display its line of furniture. Wolf Lake Resort and the Inn at Maple Crossing will have information on their businesses available and help in planning a summer or winter get-away will be available from Bergan Travel. River Road Casino will also be represented.

Other booths will feature building materials and services, home products, custom wood moldings, health and beauty aids, photography, jewelry, nursery and greenhouse products, taxidermy, television and cellular phone products.

Thief River Falls Kennel Club will have dogs on hand to demonstrate obedience training and the model railroad club will again have its display on the second level.

Marnie Berglund, Internet coordinator for the Thief River Falls Times, will conduct Internet seminars in six hourly sessions each day. Topics scheduled will be "Internet for Business" at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m., "Community and Business Sites—Surfing," 11 a.m., "Classified Ads Online," 12 noon, "Tour of www.trftimes.com and www.nwatch.com," 1 p.m., and "Questions About the Internet," 3 p.m.

Internet buffs who are interested in more information about the Home, Sport and Family Show can find it at www.trftimes.com/homeshow.

"It's been a long, long winter and the Home, Sport and Family Show should give residents of the area an opportunity to come out of hibernation and get back into the swing of things for spring," Laymon said.

LHS wind ensemble hits airwaves in fund-raiser

Lincoln high school wind ensemble took over the KKAQ-AM and KKDQ-FM radio stations today (Saturday, March 22) for seven hours of programming from 6 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The event was the final fundraiser for the wind ensemble's concert tour to Las Vegas, NV. Local businesses purchased ads to be read live on the air by the students, who were scheduled to provide all the programming and on-air personalities for the stations, including music from jazz and rock to classical.

Schedule included Jeremy Houske, 6-7 a.m.; Nate Keller and Kim Nelson, 7-8 a.m.; Matt Gustafson and William Packard, 8-9 a.m.; Anthony Kennedy and Ben Erickson, 9-10 a.m.; Stacy Narlock and Luke Torgerson, 10-11 a.m.; Kyle Rokke, 11 a.m.-12 noon; and Cody Hempel, Barry Belcher and Nathan LaRoque, 12 noon to 1 p.m.

"We really appreciate the support of the businesses in the area," noted Reid Froiland, wind ensemble president. "We especially thank KKAQ/KKDQ for donating the stations to use for this time."

NCTC sponsors Explorer Post in field of aviation

Northland Community and Technical College Aviation Department is sponsoring an Exploring Post to explore the Aviation field. Many aspects of aviation will be explored.

There will be guest speakers and fun and exciting projects to do at the event. The first meeting will be held on March 25 at 7 p.m. at the Aviation Center, which is located at the Thief River Falls Regional Airport.

Anyone from the age of 14 to 20 years of age and their parents are welcome to attend. For more information call 218-681-0829.

Semi roll-over

Baudette – A semi-trailer rig hauling meat apparently did a pirouette on Highway 72 south of Baudette Thursday, March 20 and ended up in the opposite ditch, headed back from the way it came.

The driver suffered only minor injuries. Robert Whitehead, 23, of St. Joseph, was treated at LakeWood Health Center and released.

The truck as headed north when Whitehead apparently swerved to avoid a deer. The driver over-corrected, according to a report from the State Patrol. The rig first went into the right or east ditch and then crossed the highway, ending up headed back south in the west ditch, on its side. Damage to the rig was very substantial.

County Fair

Clearwater County – Cheryl Grover and Sharon Scholl with the County Fair Board met with the County Board at their last meeting to request a donation of computers to the County Fair.

Scholl stated that the Bagley American Legion Irvin Elix Post #16 has donated $3,000 towards purchase of Fair Management Software and a main computer system to be used in the Fair Office. Bemidji Communications has also donated two computers. The goal is to have terminals at every location at the fair, information will be compiled at each terminal and put onto a disk which could then be brought to the main computer. A total of 11 or 12 computers are needed, and as long as they are IBM compatible they can be used.

Software Ok-ed

Red Lake Falls – Bids to purchase software for industrial technology and home economies were approved at last week's Red Lake Falls School Board meeting.

The ScanToch software for industrial technology will cost $41,156; furniture will cost another $5,700 and will be made by industrial arts instructor Ken Knutson.

Software for the synergistics lab in the home economics department will cost $57,000, which includes $17,000 for furniture.

The software purchase the board approved does not include any computer; the 20 that are needed for those two rooms will cost another $44,000, bringing the total cost of this project to about $150,000.

Warroad – Marvin Windows and Doors applied for admission to the MN SHARP (Minnesota Safety and Health Achievement Recognition Program) in November 1996.

MN SHARP is a new Minnesota OSHA program implemented in 1996 that recognized businesses who have exemplary safety programs. The application process involved receiving a comprehensive OSHA audit that includes an evaluation of 25 safety categories.

As a result of the audit, Marvin Windows and Doors received a score of 88.75 out of a possible 100. The score is the highest score ever received by a Minnesota employer since the program's introduction last year.

School of the Arts takes applications for next school year

Northern Expressions School of the Arts in Thief River Falls has sent brochures containing detailed information on offerings and enrollment for the 1997-98 school year to all school districts in the Seventh Congressional District, according to Glenn Chiodo, coordinator of educational services for School District 564.

Northern Expressions School of the Arts is a tuition-free magnet arts school for the Seventh District and its programs are presented through Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls. It is one of seven such arts schools in the state and is partially funded through the Minnesota Center for Arts Education in Golden Valley.

Students who will be entering the 11th or 12th grade in the 1997-98 school year and are residents of the Seventh Congressional District, are eligible to participate in the arts school.

Chiodo noted that the arts school has been in existence for five years and has offered focused art curricula in six art areas of visual, media, theater, music (instrumental, vocal and orchestral), dance and literary.

"The arts and academics are stressed equally and are integrated so that students come to understand the relationships among subject areas," Chiodo said. "Students elect to study one art area in depth."

The arts school also offers an "Expressive Connections" class where students are exposed to an integrated art and academic experience.

Chiodo said the school is designed for students whose interest in a particular art area is very high and whose ability in the arts has reached a point where they are ready for the accelerated challenge that the Northern Expressions School of the Arts has to offer.

Applications will be accepted through May 1 and application forms may be obtained at guidance offices of high schools throughout the Seventh District. They may also be received by calling Glenn Chiodo at 218-681-7034 or writing to him at SDSC, 230 South LaBree, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

For more information, call Bill Stock, Lincoln high school counselor, at 218-681-8672.

Sandbag supply available at Eighth Street landing

People who anticipate they will need sandbags to protect property against flooding were encouraged by the Pennington county sheriff's department to pick them up Friday and Saturday, March 28 and 29, at the boat landing area near the Eighth Street bridge in Thief River Falls. Personnel will be on hand to help in loading from about 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

No charge is being made for the bags and no restriction has been placed on quantity. People are encouraged to take only what they believe they will need.

Filled sandbags will continue to be stockpiled at three locations—the Eighth Street landing, Church on the Move parking lot near McDonald's restaurant on Highway 59 southeast and the city's maintenance building on Horace Avenue North. People needing them are encouraged to help themselves.

Sheriff Gerald Moe said about 10,000 filled sandbags have been picked up to date and filling is being done continuously under the Sentence to Service program. Empty bags are available at the law enforcement center.

The sheriff said that Friday morning the Red Lake River was flowing openly between the Neptune and River Valley bridges and beginning to flood into farm fields in that area.

He said that people needing flood assistance may call the law enforcement center at any time.

Women of Today Spring Showcase slated April 12

by Amy Branscomb
Northern Watch reporter

The Thief River Falls Women of Today will be hosting its first annual Spring Showcase on Saturday, April 12 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the National Guard Armory in Thief River Falls.

The day is designed to be similar to the Focus on Women show held in Fargo, ND and the Women's Expo held in the Twin Cities. It is a day for women to go out and enjoy themselves as well as receive educational information.

There are two style shows on the agenda as well as three speakers and over 35 exhibits. The day is designed to cater to the interests of women of all ages.

Fashions for the show will be provided by Maurices, JC Penny, Vanity, Dazzles Second Look, Twice But Nice, Magical Moments, Weekender Clothing and Purdy's Shoes. Style shows will be at 11:30 a.m. and 3:15 p.m.

There will be three speakers, each speaking on topics relating to women's issues. At 12:15 p.m. Craig Mattson will speak on Women's Safety and give a hands-on demonstration. At 1:15 p.m. Karen Wikstrom will be cookin' it up with a demonstration on Low-fat Cooking. Finally, at 3:15 Maureen Munson of the Violence Intervention Project will speak on Domestic Abuse.

Exhibits will be presented by the following businesses and organizations: Princess House, The Music Works, John G. Kinnard and Company, Pine to Prairie, Hospice of the Red River Valley, Zehlians, Osbourne Books, Planned Parenthood, Hook and Saw Crafts,

Rate stability touted at Red Lake Electric meet

Several hundred members attending the annual meeting of Red Lake Electric Cooperative were reminded by general manager Ron Kennedy that general service retail rates have not increased in the past seven years and off-peak electric heating rates have not increased since 1984—13 years ago.

"We hope you take comfort in our rate stability," Kennedy said, "especially in view of the high fuel oil and propane price increases of this past winter. Profit is not our motivator. We will continue to strive for quality service, competitive price."

"Quality Service, Competitive Price" was the theme of the annual meeting this year, conducted at the National Guard armory in Thief River Falls. Members of the cooperative were able to pick up their capital credit checks for 1976 and 1977 at the meeting, with a total of about $290,000 available in the distribution.

In a combined annual report to the membership published in the annual meeting program, Kennedy and board chairman Veral Mosbeck commented on the past year. Some of their comments were elaborated by Kennedy in his report to the annual meeting audience.

"The past year was a blockbuster for your cooperative," the general manager said. "New standards were set as record energy sales and margins occurred. Energy usage on the system was up five percent over 1995 as we purchased 116 million kilowatt hours. Some of the increase was weather related, but most was a result of additional customers and economic activity in the area. Electric usage normally mirrors the health of the local economy, which is relatively strong right now."

Kennedy said increased energy sales helped record a total margin of $759,660 and permitted the cooperative to make the large capital credit retirement. It is expected that approximately $60,000 will be paid throughout the year to estates of deceased members. One-time gains from the sale of service territory to the City of Thief River Falls and a gain on the disposition of two trucks made up $87,527 of the margin. Interest income on investments totaled $160,095.

Services were built to 45 new customers in 1996, 10 more than the average of the past 10 years but still behind the high growth rate recorded in the late 1970s. Line rebuilds due to road construction were the most numerous projects. Two miles of underground cable that had deteriorated were also replaced.

Kennedy reported that the cooperative has about 40,000 poles carrying transmission lines and that a pole inspection and treatment program was being carried out under contract. He said a $20 treatment to the poles at ground level can extend their life expectancy by 10 years. The inspection is done on the basis of about 10 per cent of the system (or 4,000 poles) being inspected each year.

Newest project of the cooperative is the installation of an automated meter reading system under the brand name "Turtle." Nearly 1,500 customers' meters were retrofitted with transmitters that communicate a meter reading back to the office daily. The system will be completely installed about four years from now, at which time customers will no longer be required to mail in their meter readings.

Preparations most advanced as area gets ready for flood

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Flood preparations in Northwestern Minnesota are well underway. Paul Jacobs, regional program coordinator for the Minnesota Department of Public Safety, division of emergency management, says its probably the most in-depth pre-flood preparations that he has ever seen.

Jacobs doesn't believe the media are blowing the situation out of proportion. All possible indicators suggest a strong possibility for flooding. In addition, such problems help educate the public and possibly prevent damage loss in the future. Jacobs noted that it has been a long year. The flood disaster last year, followed by this year's long winter, has greatly affected everyone's stress level.

Currently, local and regional emergency planners and public officials are making sure enough sandbags are on hand in case of a flood. In addition, plans are being made to handle situations when and if highways and bridges are closed due to flooding. Jacobs also said dusting, the process of putting non-treated sand on river ice to assist in the break-up of ice, will be taking place at a number of critical places such as along the Red River and Wild Rice river near Ada during the next couple of weeks. Army Corps of engineers are expected to begin raising the height of some levees in the region too.

Members of the 13th District Horticultural Society in attendance at the annual spring workshop March 22 in Warren learned about trees and the "Art of Bonsai" and received a number of district gardening awards.

Dirt Diggers Garden Club of Warren was host for the workshop with Diane Morkassel, president of the club, presiding over the day's activities.

"Trees are alive and living," emphasized Cristo Robberts of the University of Minnesota in Crookston, who was guest speaker for the meeting and showed slides as well as demonstrating the Oriental art of bonsai. This practice keeps a tree small by constant pruning and is intended to make a young tree look old.

In the practice of bonsai, growing trees are sculpted into caricatures of five basic shapes, the most familiar being a windswept appearance. Robberts used a juniper tree for his demonstration at the workshop.

For anyone interested in learning more about the technique of the art or trying their hand at practicing it, Robberts will conduct a workshop June 3-5 at Crookston. For more information on that workshop, call 218-281-8681.

District gardening awards were presented with judging of entries conducted by the Mesa Mountain View Garden Club in Mesa, AZ. The judges wrote that they were amazed at the amount of work done by 13th District gardeners and all the community service activities in which they were involved. They solved the difficulty of selecting winners from among the nominees by granting awards to all eight gardeners nominated.

Recipients of the outstanding district gardener awards were Norris and Arlene Thune of Thief River Falls, Tammy Wallace of Middle River, Betty Mohrbacher of Warroad, Dorothy Gehrke of

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Most of us have our special Easter menus, but here are some ideas you might like to try for those little extras that make our holiday meals special.

This little salad would be a great accompaniment to your Easter dinner:

EASY LEMON SALAD

1 (3 ounce) box lemon pudding (not instant)
1 (8 ounce) prepared whipped topping
20 marshmallows (large size)
2 (11 ounce) cans mandarin oranges, drained
1 (20 ounce) can pineapple tidbits

Prepare pudding as directed. Cool thoroughly.

Add remaining ingredients and chill.

Isn't glorified rice an Easter tradition? - this one is a little different:

GLORIFIED RICE

2 cups rice, cooked
1 small package lemon gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 cup cream, whipped or 2 cups prepared whipped topping
1 large can crushed pineapple (drain and reserve juice)
Chopped nuts
Maraschino cherries

Cook rice and let cool.

Mix jello with boiling water. Add reserved pineapple juice with enough water to make 1 cup and chill until syrupy.

Add pineapple and whipped cream to gelatin and then add to rice. Add nuts and cherries.

Now this would be a very pretty Easter cake - a nice light dessert after that big meal:

PINEAPPLE ANGEL FOOD CAKE

1 angel food cake, cut in 3 layers
1 cup hot pineapple syrup (drained from crushed pineapple)
1 box lemon gelatin
2 cups cream, whipped
1/4 cup powdered sugar
1 cup slivered almonds, toasted
1/2 cup or more crushed pineapple

Drain pineapple. Mix gelatin with boiling pineapple syrup (add water to make 1 cup). Chill then beat fluffy.

Whip cream, adding powdered sugar. Add gelatin mixture, pineapple and slivered almonds, reserving some almonds for decoration.

Spread pineapple mixture over and between layers of cake. Decorate with almonds, if desired. Chill.

Make this tasty drink ahead of time and have it on hand for Easter afternoon, when everyone starts to get very thirsty from the ham dinner.

SPRING TIME SLUSH

6 cups water
4 cups sugar
1 (12 ounce) frozen lemonade
2 (12 ounce) frozen orange juice
1 large can unsweetened pineapple juice

Bring water and sugar to a boil. Place juices in 5 quart pail and pour boiling water over them. Stir until dissolved.

Place in freezer. (If frozen solid, partially thaw before serving time.)

To serve, place slush in punch bowl and add fizzy soda pop until it tastes just right. To make one glass, place a scoop of slush in glass and add fizzy soda pop to taste.

This sounds like a wonderful accompaniment to that Easter ham - I would place it in a casserole so I could heat it a little before serving:

CRANBERRY YAMS

1 can yams
1/3 cup butter
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup raisins
1/2 cup whole cranberry sauce

Place raisins and cranberry sauce in serving dish. Cook yams, butter, brown sugar and salt in saucepan. Pour over raisins and cranberry sauce.

Operation RoundUp grants $8,065 to 15 area organizations

Fifteen nonprofit community organizations in the area benefited from the recent distribution of Operation Round Up program funds provided by more than 3,000 Red Lake Electric Cooperative customers, according to Ron Kennedy, general manager of the cooperative.

"Through their voluntary rounding up of their monthly electric bill to the next highest even dollar amount, customers donate pennies monthly which accumulate and allow for some significant grants to enhance area communities," Kennedy said.

"With the $8,065 granted by the Red Lake Electric Trust board on March 18, a total of $81,240 has been granted since the program began in 1993."

In the March distribution, Community Hospice of Crookston received $500 for its programs to the terminally ill and their families. Marshall County 4-H Federation was granted $500 to remove its food stand at the Marshall county fairgrounds. Children and families in Deer Park township received a $500 grant for playground improvement.

Spruce Valley community center in Middle River received $700 for improvements to the kitchen and the Agassiz Environmental Learning Center at Fertile received $500 to assist its environmental education programs for youth in the area.

A new Dial-A-Ride Transport (DART) service is being started in Red Lake Falls to provide rides for the elderly and received a $100 grant. Little Brother/Little Sister program headquartered in Thief River Falls received $500 to maintain its programs for youth in need.

Viking Area Fire Department was granted $700 for a new mobile radio for a recently purchased fire truck and a $1,000 grant was made to the Goodridge Area Fire Department to assist its fundraising drive for Jaws of Life equipment.

Tri-County EMS ambulance service headquartered in Karlstad provides emergency services to the northern part of the Red Lake Electric Cooperative service area and was given $465 to purchase portable oxygen units.

A $600 grant was made to the Thief River Falls Senior Nutrition Council for purchase of a new kitchen freezer. Goodridge Area Jaycees received $500 for bathroom remodeling at the community hall in Goodridge. A new veteran memorial park is planned for Plummer and that fund received a $500 grant.

Northwest Area Agency on Aging was awarded $500 for training materials for a new "Gatekeeper" program which will identify senior citizens living alone who are in need of assistance. A historical building in Goodridge, the "Country Store," will get a new roof through a grant of $500 to the Goodridge Area Historical Society.

Red Lake Electric Trust Fund board meets in March and in late fall to distribute Operation Round Up funds. Members of the board are Mark Naplin, Gene Nelson, Bev Perreault, Veral Mosbeck and Ron Kennedy. Grant applications for the fall distribution are available by calling the Red Lake Electric office at 1-800-245-6068.

Setesdal Laget sets jam session at Oklee hall

Setesdal Laget of America will host a country music jam session Saturday, April 5, at 2 p.m. in the Oklee community hall.

All musicians and singers, groups and individuals, in the community are encouraged to come and join in the music. An invitation is also extended to all who want to come and listen and/or dance.

A supper of escalloped potatoes, ham, vegetables, bars and coffee will be served at 5 p.m.

Counties' Push For Property Tax Change Worth Consideration

Members of the Association of Minnesota Counties (AMC) are making an active push during this legislative session to accomplish meaningful reform in the state's property tax system. County commissioners are concerned, and rightly so, with the State's past tendency to address its program problems by shifting the responsibility to the local level.

"A specific example," comments Peter McLaughlin, Hennepin county commissioner and president of the AMC, "is that the state mandates that any prisoner sentenced to less than one year must serve his or her time in a county jail or workhouse. Counties also assume the responsibility for people on parole and probation. As the State has gotten 'tough on crime,' local property taxes have gone up.

"Jail and correction costs for counties rose nearly 40 percent from 1990 to 1994 (most recent numbers available) and the costs will rise even more this year. Of the now nearly 105,000 people in Minnesota under some form of imprisonment, parole or probation, counties supervise over 95,000 of them. State funding of county-based community corrections has failed to keep up with the increases. The result: an increase in your property taxes. Spending on the county jailhouse should not send property taxpayers to the poorhouse."

McLaughlin adds that the recent history of school finance, transportation funding for roads and transit, and garbage and recycling are prime examples of local costs driven by state mandates and inadequate state funding.

"Unfortunately," he writes, "most of the property tax proposals merely shift tax burdens from one group of taxpayers to another, spend part of the state budget surplus to buy short-term tax relief and place arbitrary limits on local government revenues.

"The State needs to do more than this," the AMC president contends. "Classification changes threaten to raise property taxes for homeowners in the future. Using the surplus buys only short-term relief. And imposing local levy limits threatens the ability of local governments to do the jobs that are assigned to them.

"Welfare reform is a key issue for counties. Lack of adequate resources could lead to a significant loss of federal aid, hurting all taxpayers and threatening our ability to successfully make welfare recipients successful members of the workforce."

The AMC has proposed a three-pronged approach to solving the local government dilemma:

(1) Reduce the reliance on property taxes, which AMC says is "the unfairest tax of all."

(2) Reduce the cost of local government by eliminating state mandates.

(3) Encourage restructuring, innovation and collaboration among local governments.

AMC's McLaughlin says that because the state gas tax has not been increased since 1988, counties and municipalities have been forced to supplement this user revenue with property taxes to maintain essential road systems. Increased gas tax could reduce property taxes. He also says that school financing is another example of a growing reliance on property taxes that should be reversed.

"All too often it seems that the left hand doesn't know what the right hand is doing," McLaughlin says. "While mandating increases in county services without providing funding, the State also complains about county property taxes going up."

It is not difficult to understand the concerns of county and municipal government officials. There are more equitable means to raise revenue than property taxes, although we're not sure that such taxes are "the unfairest of all." User taxes, such as taxes on motor fuels, are appropriately targeted, although people who don't operate motor vehicles also benefit from a modern transportation system.

In our opinion, study of the problem and finding a means to more equitable taxation is a constant necessity, but it should be done exclusive of the State's projected budget surplus, since effective change would have to extend beyond that temporary situation.

"Counties are struggling to balance the conflicting demands to hold down property taxes and to increase services," McLaughlin states. "In the opinion of county commissioners all over the state, there must be a reduction in the reliance on property taxes as a source of revenue for state and local government activity."

LETTERS

To The Editor:

This has been a long winter and we seem to have more snow than we rightfully "deserve." As a business woman in the Thief River Falls community, I have seen many disheartened people, anxious for spring. This weather, adding depression to the daily struggles and responsibilities may cause us to feel some negativity.

I'd like to direct the readers' attention to a different perspective. Keep in mind, no matter how hard-pressed our times may seem, there are millions and billions less fortunate.

The following challenging thought was printed in a publication from a College of Human Education and Development:

"If we could, at this time, shrink the Earth's population to a village of precisely 100 people, with all existing human ratios remaining the same, it would look like this:

"The village would be made up of 57 Asians, 21 Europeans, 14 from North and South America and eight Africans.

"70 would be non-white; 30 white;

"70 would be non-Christian; 30 Christian;

"70 would be unable to read;

"50 would suffer from malnutrition;

"80 would live in sub-standard housing;

"Only one would have a college education;

"Six people would control 50% of the entire wealth, and all six would be from the United States!"

When we consider our world from such an incredibly compressed perspective, the need for understanding, compassion and a truly thankful heart becomes glaringly apparent."

Sincerely,
Nanci Kezar
Thief River Falls

To The Editor:

I read the letter from Harold Schulz to the editor of the Northern Watch and I think he has all his thoughts together. I like the way he said it all, and what he said about shooting wolves the best.

I read in Outdoor Life (March, 1997) that Minnesota has over 2,000 wolves in the northern third of the state. It said that fewer wolves meant more deer and that no wolves mean a hunter's paradise. With all the snow we get in Minnesota many deer are eaten by wolves. When deer have little ones many of them are eaten, too.

I love my hunting each year, but the deer are not there like in the years gone by.

I don't think that our DNR should put too much time in on ducks, frogs and mosquitoes.

Sincerely,
Larry Anenson

Addressing flooding in the Red River Basin

by Donald Ogaard
Executive Director
Red River Watershed Management Board and
Jim McLaughlin, Chair
Devils Lake, Cheyenne River,
Red River Basin
Advisory Committee

THE NATURE OF THE PROBLEM—IT GOES WITH THE FLOW

Once again we are at that time of the year in the Red River Basin (RRB) when conversations eventually get around to discussing the impending flood or floods. Invariably, this leads to assessing blame for the excessive water flows and the resulting damages.

Quite often, people who live outside this area believe that the only significant damage from flooding is in the northern portion of the RRB, and then only right next to the Red River. This image probably is caused by the extensive publicity given to the flooding there. Although that area has historically been subjected to frequent and severe flooding, the actual locations in the RRB that incur extensive damage are much more widespread. This misperception of the size of the area affected by flooding often causes those who are distanced from the problem to suggest a solution of vacating the area. In some instances this may be the only practical solution, but let's look at the big picture.

Flooding and its resulting damages can be divided into several distinct categories. First, water from melting snow and/or excessive rainfall, moving across the landscape toward a lower elevation outlet, whether it is in the upper, middle or lower portion of the individual watershed, causes erosion. Erosion is a documentable damage, even though currently it is not considered when calculating and reporting official financial damages.

The landowner bears the cost of necessary repairs, unless the damage occurs in a public drainage system and is extensive enough to qualify for a federal damage claim - and then only if the area falls within a county designated through a Presidential Disaster Declaration.

Frequently, a considerable amount of damages occur in this manner within the RRB. This movement of surface water is commonly called "sheet flooding". The primary cause of sheet flooding damages is the natural movement of water from higher elevations to those that are lower and can only be alleviated by retaining as much precipitation as possible on the land where it originates. The ability to retain enough water on the land to have an effect during a major flood event is questionable and probably not attainable.

When the runoff arrives at, and overburdens a drainage system, whether it is a man-made or natural waterway, the second phase of flooding begins. The potential for damages occurs at this stage because excessive flows within any drainage system increases the probability of erosion.

The recommended solution to this problem has been, and still is, to provide an adequately designed channel or provide for the retention of a percentage of the flow at a proper, effective location within the drainage pattern. Also, an adequate and properly vegetated drainage system accumulates and stores a very high percentage of the sediment cast into it from its watershed.

When the amount of water entering the system exceeds the capacity of that individual system to carry it in a controlled manner, bank overtopping occurs. This is the third phase of flooding, with the potential for additional damages. In many locations in the RRB, after escaping from the receiving channel, the water does not return to that same channel downstream but instead moves across the landscape to an adjoining watershed. It then usually overburdens the capacity of that watershed as well, increasing its flow volume and its potential for increased damages.

In this manner, all the excess water generated in the 39,200 square mile watershed of the RRB, not including the Devils Lake watershed, finds its way, after as long as a twenty-day journey, to the Manitoba border.

Many things have been accomplished, and many more suggestions have been made, to alleviate or lower the flood flows and their resulting damages. Some are practical and feasible, others are not. In some instances, solving a problem in one area could result in increasing the problem in another.

One area of agreement is that either the contributing flows need to be reduced or controlled, or the roads, buildings and other structures (and the people affected) need to be flood-proofed with dikes or raised pads, or relocated out of the waters' path. There is only one thing wrong with this. Most of the Red River Valley, below the historic Lake Agassiz beach ridge, is subject to sheet and stream flooding to some degree. The records of early settlers confirm that sheet flooding was a major problem in the 1800s, standing in the way of developing the land for optimum agricultural production.

The geophysical and hydrologic nature of the waterways in the RRB dictate that the contributing watersheds have the inherent ability to accumulate and move more surface water into their receiving channels than they have the capacity to convey downstream. (The only exception to this is the man-made public ditch systems which were designed and constructed to contain and manage water flowing into them.) This is true of nearly all the contributing watersheds of the RRB.

Four of the twenty-two watersheds (rivers) that are direct tributaries of the Red River have demonstrated their combined ability to furnish a greater water volume - than the Red's channel can accommodate. In the summer flood of 1975, the major portion of the rainfall event took place over the watersheds of the Wild Rice and Maple rivers in North Dakota, and the Buffalo and Wild Rice (South Branch) river in Minnesota. When these tributary in-flows exceeded the Red River's channel capacity north of Fargo-Moorhead, it flooded adjacent land and caused neighboring waterways to flow backwards against their natural flow all the way to the Manitoba border and beyond.

Flood Fighting From The Pioneers To The Present

In both North Dakota and Minnesota, initiatives to reduce flood damages have been in place for many years. Meetings of government officials and developers began in the 1870s to address water problems in the RRV. Major annual meetings, called a "Congress," were initiated in 1906 and continued until 1914, addressing the sheet flooding that made it nearly impossible to maintain settlements in many areas. It is estimated that over 85 percent of the Red River Valley was subject to sheet flooding at the time of settlement. One of the recommendations of the Congress was the construction of drainage ditches.

The majority of the public drainage ditches in place today in the RRB were constructed before 1920. The success of the public drainage ditches in encouraging and stabilizing settlement has been the primary factor in the development of the RRB into a recognized major agricultural production area. It has reduced sheet flooding in certain areas and eliminated it in others.

Authorized by the legislatures of Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota, a TriState Commission was organized in 1937 to identify water management issues and seek solutions to those problems. The major issues were water supply (low flows of the 1930s), pollution of streams (direct discharge of raw sewage into streams was common), and the constant threat of flooding (several severe flood events occurred even during the drought years). This commission functioned until 1948. Its studies, recommendations and initiatives resulted in the construction of over forty control structures, including the Corps of Engineers (COE) dams in North Dakota and Minnesota that continue to function today.

The Soil Conservation Service (SCS), recently renamed the NRCS, became very active during this period in history when federal funding for projects became available. It designed and constructed over fifty significant water control structures on tributaries in the RRB, plus many more on private land.

It is very important to recognize that starting in the late 1940s and continuing into the 1970s, a major emphasis was placed on increased agricultural production by the federal government, which included incentives to install on-farm drainage systems.

These on-farm drainage systems have done more to increase and stabilize agricultural production in the RRB than any other available production-influencing technique. However, it also must be recognized that the increased available runoff into the public and natural waterways has had a significant influence on the total water available for discharge downstream.

Initiatives were started during this period in history to control stream flows with on-channel dams, primarily designed by the SCS. Many road bridges scheduled for replacement were instead replaced with drive-over dams. Numerous farm ponds were constructed for individual needs.

In the 1970s the emphasis changed in both states toward local governmental involvement in reducing the damages of flooding by encouraging the construction of minor watershed impoundments to control excess flows. During this time period, the COE studied and recommended four major dams on tributaries and failed to get them constructed. (It is ironic to note that those who opposed construction of the large dams at that time, instead promoted the construction of many small dams.) The legislature in North Dakota authorized the establishment of water resource districts, and the legislature in Minnesota authorized the establishment of watershed districts. Today these entities in both states continue to work toward accomplishing water resource management goals.

In 1976 in Minnesota, and in 1978 in North Dakota, the state legislatures authorized the creation of joint powers agreement boards, and gave them taxing authority to fund projects for the reduction of flood damages. This resulted in the formation of Minnesota's Red River Watershed Management Board (RRWMB) and North Dakota's Red River Joint Water Resource Board (RRJWRB).

Since that time, these organizations have been instrumental in funding numerous flood damage reduction projects designed and constructed by member districts. The majority of these projects are multi-purpose, with recreation and wildlife enhancements incorporated into their design. Several have been built in cooperation with state agencies and other organizations. The projects have significantly reduced or eliminated the threat of flood damages within their area of influence. Approximately 30 projects currently are in various stages of development in the two states. This type of initiative has slowed in recent years, however, because of governmental regulations requiring extensive studies before construction.

Recently, some environmental organizations have taken an interest in the building of flood control projects. They generally are in opposition, and they sometimes initiate, or threaten to initiate, legal action. The alternatives suggested by these organizations are usually the same methods which have already been investigated by the districts prior to arriving at a decision to build a specific project. All alternatives are researched by technical experts and they are given full consideration. Quite often they are determined to be suitable enhancements to the project, but not a substitute for it.

One of the most frequently suggested alternatives is the restoration of previously drained wetlands. The potential exists, in specific areas, for this approach to increase surface water discharge. Furthermore, the ability to obtain enough acreage for restoration in any given watershed to have a significant positive effect for flood control is not probable.

When the restoration of wetlands can be accomplished by organizations or agencies that have wildlife enhancement as their principle goal, and when water storage is a compatible part of the intended activity, local government entities should cooperate and assist with implementation. The magnitude of the amount of surface water discharge within a given watershed, and the ability or inability to contain and convey that water within the receiving downstream channel, dictates whether the construction of a water controlling structure is appropriate.

The topography and hydrologic character of the watershed determines the type and location of the actual structure. In the RRB, the solution is usually found not in the extreme upper portion of the watershed - where wetlands are in place or the potential exists for restoration - but rather after the flows are consolidated in defined streams.

The major problem in evaluating water flows that create flooding in the RRB is that excess water is still on the flat valley land and/or still in its drainage systems, when discharge flows from the higher elevation lands, within the watershed, progress downstream. This overburdens the receiving channels. It is possible that improving the existing ditch systems, where feasible, would aid in discharging water from the flat valley land before upstream flows arrive, and could alleviate some of the existing problem. There is evidence that this may be possible. The information and knowledge is available, however, for the design and operation of water control structures based on the travel time of streams and the ability to release stored water in a manner that will not overburden downstream channels, cities and farms.

If, in the future, activities can be coordinated within the RRB to maximize available resources, a major positive move toward reducing damages could result. This can only be accomplished by an informed public, working together with their local, state/provincial and federal government representatives to get the job done in an orderly, environmentally sound manner.

The solution can be found within a framework of partnerships that involve citizen and governmental entities willing to agree that a problem exists, and that solutions to those problems are attainable. The responsibility rests with the citizens of the RRB to make this happen.

Partnerships And Planning— Moving Forward Together

Nearly everyone associated with water management in the RRB agrees that flooding will continue to some degree at various flood-prone locations. The possibility exists, however, that major corrective changes can be made, based on knowledge accumulated by past activity, current available capabilities and potentially new cooperative agreements.

It is very important to remember that the RRB is now, and always has been, an imperfect watershed in a hydrologic sense. It also is important to recognize that past activities and decisions of responsible government officials in addressing excess water flows have not been improper or incorrect. Decisions made in the past were based on the information, options and capabilities available at that point in time.

The options to be considered in trying to reduce the average annual flood damages of $ 41.8 million (1984 dollars) in the RRB are numerous and varied. The options must be viewed in a holistic sense, since no one method will solve the problem. In combination, initiated where applicable and feasible, they can have a significant effect. The known options are: restoring wetlands, land treatment (including changed land use such as CRP and tree planting), channelization, diversion, diking (including created floodways), relocation, raised building sites, constructed water retention sites (dams), stream/ditch improvements and flood plain zoning.

So where do we go from here? Questions asked by those involved in deciding on project permits include: What's next? On what do you base your decisions? Where is the available tax money spent and why? Has the most environmentally safe alternative been chosen? Has the proposed action been thoroughly proved to be effective? Has the area or any portion of it, developed a plan that can be analyzed for cause and effect?

Extensive activity has taken place in recent years in developing local governmental, or watershed-based plans. In most instances, requirements are in place to encourage cooperation in implementation. Major studies have been done on the RRB and numerous studies have been conducted on individual watersheds, but no current effort exists to coordinate the available information or to implement recommendations.

A "Red River Basin Plan" is needed to guide public officials into the next century. Decisions must be based on sound data, including total resource evaluation, rather than political expedience, professional judgement or personal beliefs. The plan development needs to include and utilize the capabilities of all governmental entities and special interest groups that have an interest in guiding activities in the RRB.

The formation of a new Red River Basin Board (RRBB) has been progressing during the past year. The Board will be composed of representatives from North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota and Manitoba. The primary purpose of the RRBB is to gather and evaluate all information and pertinent studies done to date in the RRB and, based on this data, recommend appropriate actions, seek resolution to disputes, influence and coordinate governmental actions and develop a comprehensive plan for the Red River Basin.

Preserving and enhancing our water resources through proper management has been, and will be, a predominant factor in providing future generations with a heritage that is sustainable and rewarding. Let us unite to get the job done NOW. The groundwork has been done, the opportunity is at hand, and working together will make it possible.

USDA gives tips for bringing CRP back in production

Some tips from the USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service, on managing land no longer enrolled in the Conservation Reserve Program:

- Contact the Extension Service for help in figuring economics.
- Consider hayland, pasture, wildlife habitat and leasing the land for hunting as alternatives to cropping.
- If you have concerns about cropping your CRP land, consider planting just a part of it this spring. This will give you the opportunity to experiment with your CRP land and find out what will work best for you.
- If you keep the land in grass, you'll want to consider pasture improvement. Rotational grazing or intensive grazing systems may be a better alternative than cropping.
- If you prepare the land for cropping remember that highly rodible land (HEL) released from CRP for cropping must have an approved conservation plan.
- Take advantage of existing grass by using it for water ways field borders, buffer strips, and contour strips these items can be incorporated into your conservation plan.
- When seeding into CRP sod, you will want to select a crop that is adaptable and hearty. Recent research shows that soybeans are a good choice in high residue conditions, but corn is not recommended in the conversion year due to its susceptibility to disease and insects.
- No-till may be your best option for controlling erosion and maintaining good soil tilth. However no-till will require some type of chemical application to kill the existing vegetation.
- Fall applications of herbicide burndown are most effective in treating cool-season grasses because they are activity growing in the fall and because you have a second chance to hit them in the spring. Spring applications only give you one chance and can often complicate seeding and tillage due to sod-bound soil. You may want to wait until the fall to bring your CRP land into production.
- Full width tillage can help level soil, kill vegetation, incorporate lime and herbicide, and speed mineralization of nitrogen from surface plants. However it also changes the soil tilth and increase the potential for soil erosion, which may require additional conservation practices to control soil loss. In effect, one year of full width tillage can undo the ten years of soil building.

Prices of farm land increase

Higher prices for Minnesota agricultural land be be temporary, according to Steve Taff, economist at the University of Minnesota.

Partially due to high crop prices at mid-year in 1996, land prices rose sharply to a state median price of $911 in September. That compares to only $787 in 1995.

Taff explains that the prices may not be representative of value since there are 20 million acres of farmland in the state and only about one percent or 200,000 acres are sold each year.

Soy-based biodiesel fuel use proposed for state vehicles

That soy-based biodiesel fuel is a viable, environmentally-friendly and renewable alternative fuel was the message brought by Gary Joachim, vice president of the Minnesota Soybean Growers Association, in testimony before the Ag Committee of the Minnesota House of Representatives March 3.

"The Minnesota Soybean Growers Association strongly supports the increased use of biodiesel in Minnesota," Joachim told the committee. "Increased use of safe and efficient biodiesel can improve the environment, enhance energy security, create economic development and provide new markets for Minnesota-produced soybeans."

He went on to explain that biodiesel is the generic term for clean-burning alternative fuels for diesel engines that are derived from renewable agricultural feedstocks, such as soybean oil.

"Biodiesel is registered with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency as a fuel and fuel additive," Joachim said. "It is also recognized by the U.S. Department of Energy as an alternative fuel under the Energy Policy Act of 1992 (EPACT) and the Clean Cities program."

When asked if biodiesel would compete with ethanol—also an alternative fuel derived from feedstocks, Joachim said the simple answer is "no." He said biodiesel and ethanol are not directly competitive fuels.

Ethanol is an alcohol, he explained, and compatible with gasoline-type, compression-ignition engines. Biodiesel is a methyl ester.

"Esters make superior fuels for diesel-type, compression ignition engines but are basically incompatible with gasoline or gasoline-type engines," he said. "With the commercialization of biodiesel, America's farmers now offer our nation a complete set of renewable, cleaner burning alternative fuels that are compatible with both of the dominant engine technologies in use today, gasoline and diesel."

Joachim noted that the neighboring states of Nebraska and Iowa already have begun programs which use low blends of biodiesel (10% and 5% respectively) in portions of their state vehicle fleets, based primarily on their commitment to provide economic return to the agriculture sectors.

"A similar commitment by our state government would clearly advance the interest of biodiesel in Minnesota," Joachim pointed out. "And the adoption of biodiesel for use in state-owned vehicle fleets would also offer the Minnesota state government an opportunity to comply with several regulatory requirements that various federal agencies impose on the state."

Joachim was joined in testimony by Kelly Strebvig of the Center for Biodiesel Research at the University of Minnesota and Max Norris, Agricultural Utilization Research Institute staff scientist.

House File 1068 was introduced, approved by the Agriculture Committee and moved on to the House Appropriations committee.

"HF 1068 directs the commissioners of agriculture and transportation to conduct a pilot project on the use of soy-based biodiesel in state highway maintenance vehicles that use diesel fuel," Joachim said.

"The Minnesota Soybean Growers Association, the Minnesota Soybean Research and Promotion Council and the National Biodiesel Board are ready and able to assist the state in using biodiesel as a means of regulatory compliance."

By the end of the century the National Biodiesel Board estimates 34 million gallons of biodiesel will be sold annually, which would require the soybean oil from about 32 million bushels of soybeans.

"It may be a small fuel market," Joachim said, "but it's potentially a huge market for soybean oil."

Corn following alfalfa may not need more nitrogen

Corn following alfalfa often does not need additional nitrogen fertilizer, advises Dr. Glenn Bathke, Novartis Seeds, Inc. product development agronomist for Minnesota. By taking full credit for the nitrogen available from the alfalfa, growers can reduce production costs without sacrificing yield.

Early in the season, nitrogen from alfalfa is slow to mineralize. As a result, Dr. Bathke advises growers to user starter fertilizer. However, as the season progresses, plant decomposition increases nitrogen availability, often eliminating the need for additional nitrogen fertilizer.

Dr. Bathke adds that because the alfalfa decomposes slowly, it releases nitrogen and other nutrients throughout the growing season. Experts speculate that these organic nutrients are available to the corn plant longer than commercial fertilizer applications.

University research shows nitrogen credits for legumes can be substantial. For example, 70- to 100-per cent alfalfa stands provide an average of 150- to 200- pounds of nitrogen. Growers can expect 120- to 160- pounds of nitrogen from a 30-to 70- per cent stand. Even poor alfalfa stands will still provide as much as 90- to 130- pounds of nitrogen for use by the rotational crop.

Growers show evaluate alfalfa stands in late spring. Dr. Bathke recommends growers count plants per square foot at several locations in each two-acre portion of the field. Producers should assess the health and viability of the crown and taproot, looking for healthy, white plant tissue. If there are less than five viable plants per square foot, Dr. Bathke advises growers to replace the alfalfa.

Chiodo named as TRF MVP

Wade Chiodo was named the most valuable player as Thief River Falls put the finishing touches on the 1996-97 high school hockey season at the Prowlers' annual awards banquet Tuesday.

Treavor Peterson was selected as the most improved player and Chris Bruggeman was presented with the Coaches Award.

Chad Nordhagen and Jared Sunsdahl received plaques as the Prowlers' 1996-97 captains.

Athletic letters went to seniors Josh Clark, Curt Edwards, Ben Furuseth, Nathan Jordet, Sunsdahl, Bruggeman, and Nordhagen; juniors Kyle Anderson, Tony Fletcher, Josh Holmes, Craig Lawrence, Trevor Lee, Adam Nordin, and Eric Rouland; sophomores Tom Fogarty, Jarod Reierson, Jeff Rislov, Chiodo, and Peterson; freshmen Brady Anderson, Mike Dowers and Brett Johnson; along with student managers Erika Altepeter, Danielle Goulet and Stacy Narlock.

Thief River Falls, 6-17-1 this winter, struggled with a young, inexperienced line-up that had trouble competing against top-of-the-line opponents. A 1-6 start included losses to Roseau, Warroad, Blake, Greenway, Hibbing, and Bemidji.

"We knew it was going to be difficult with the young squad we had and the tough schedule we were facing," acknowledged Thief River Falls head coach Pat Cullen. "You like to get your feet on the ground at the start of the season, and we never had that chance."

The finish was better than the start. In their final three regular season games the Prowlers beat Crookston 4-0, lost to East Grand Forks 3-2 in overtime and edged Fergus Falls 4-3 in overtime.

It was a season that included an unusually high number of storm-forced cancelled practices.

"It was a tough winter with so many days missed because of the weather," said Cullen. "We missed a lot of practice time, and with a young team like we had, that was critical. We never really got into a routine. We didn't have time to correct our mistakes."

Five of the Prowlers' top six scorers will return next year. They will also have experienced players back on defense, and Dowers got a taste of varsity duty in goal as the back-up to senior Brian Barry.

"We'll have some kids coming back, but those people need to become better all-around hockey players," noted Cullen. "They have to do a better job putting the puck in the net, and they have to do a better job in our end of the rink. They will have to work at it during the summer by shooting, lifting weights and finding ice time whenever and wherever they can."

Lorenson, Dulka lead Mustangs

Mark Lorenson, a 6-1 sophomore, and Jimmy Dulka, a 6-3 senior, were the scoring leaders on the 1996-97 Red Lake County Central boys high school basketball team.

Lorenson scored 15.3 points per game and Dulka carried a 13-point average. Lorenson also led the team in assists (4.4 per game), and Dulka was the Mustangs' top rebounder (8.2 per game).

First-year head coach Ryan Sedler inherited a team that faced a major rebuilding job this winter. The Mustangs had troubles, finishing 6-19, but Sedler was happy with the team's progress.

"We had our ups and downs," admitted Sedler. "The expectations were not super high," he acknowledged. "We lost some games, but I'm really happy with the way we improved. We played much better basketball as the year went along. We didn't always win, but we played a lot of good teams tough. By the end of the year we were playing some pretty good basketball."

It was a memorable season for the rookie head coach. "It was definitely a learning experience," noted Sedler. "I've been around basketball my whole life, but it's a lot different story as a coach."

TRF track teams run at Moorhead indoor Thursday

Second outing of the 1997 season for the Thief River Falls boys and girls high school track teams put the Prowlers at Concordia College Thursday for a quadrangular featuring host Moorhead, Fergus Falls, Detroit Lakes, and the Prowlers.

Thief River Falls efforts featured a pair of first place runs in the girls portion of the meet by Becky Mooney in the 800 and 1600 meter runs, along with a first place toss by Nicole Kopari in the shot.

"Some times came down a little," mentioned Thief River Falls coach Tim Olson, who said times by Mooney in the 1600, Rachel Mathson in the 400, and Kelly Fossum in the boys 1600 were all eye-openers for the Prowlers.

Team point totals were not available.

TRF Junior Olympic volleyball tryout set

Tryouts for the 1997 Thief River Falls Junior Olympic volleyball program will be held Saturday, April 5, from 1 to 4 p.m. in the Franklin Middle School gymnasium.

The program features three age-group teams – 18-under (including graduating seniors) for those born on or after Sept. 1, 1978, 16-under for those born on or after Sept. 1, 1980; and 14-under for those born on or after Sept. 1, 1982.

Those attending the tryout must bring along a check for $50, made out to TRF JO, along with a signed medical authorization and release form. Teams will be selected from the tryout results and all individuals will be notified.

Participation fee is $200, plus uniform and transportation costs. The $50 tryout check will be put toward the $200 participation fee when the individual makes the team. The $50 check will be returned if the individual is not selected for the team.

In addition to the participation fee, team members will also be responsible for their own meals during tournament weekends.

The teams will compete in four tournaments in June - in Thief River

Dahl Coach of the Year

Jeff Dahl has been named the 1996-97 Class A boys high school basketball Coach of the Year in Illinois.

The honor comes after Dahl, a 1982 Marshall County Central High School graduate, led Warsaw to the 1997 Class A Illinois state title (as reported in the March 26 Times).

In his three years as Warsaw head coach, Dahl has a 70-14 record, with the Wildcats putting together season finishes of 19-7, 22-4 and 29-3.

First printing of "Down on the Farm" sells out, second printing has just arrived.

New book costs "a penny per laugh"

Hailed as "the best little book of the year" by the Northern Watch of Thief River Falls, the first printing of Down on the Farm, a collection of essays about small-town life by Eric Bergeson of Fertile, MN quickly sold out during the Christmas rush.

Down on the Farm is a ninety-page paperback which contains over seventy-five short essays by Eric Bergeson. Sometimes comic, sometimes infuriating, always opinionated, Bergeson's perspective is that of a young person who not only grew up in a Minnesota small town, but continues to live and work there.

Down on the Farm includes nostalgic reminiscences of the author's grandparents, as well as accounts of adventures at Bible Camp, in the sugar beet field and at Sam's Club.

In his crankier essays, Bergeson takes off the gloves to condemn telemarketers, sniffers, plywood butts in flower gardens and the green Lutheran hymnal. Other essays discuss such time-worn local institutions as annual meetings, funerals, wedding dances and lutefisk.

According to the Grand Forks Herald, "If you take yourself too seriously, Bergeson will get you." The Northern Watch observed that, "like fine wine or daily devotions," Down on the Farm is best if read a little at a time.

Down on the Farm is available by mail or at the following stores: Ben Franklin and Falls Book Company in Thief River Falls, Pioneer Drug in Fertile, Good Things of Fosston, Thompson Hardware of Red Lake Falls, Eagle Drug of Crookston, Anderson Pharmacy of Hallock, Ben Franklin in Grafton and Wayne's Variety in Cavalier.

"I enjoyed Down on the Farm. The author has captured the mood and pace of life here on the plains. Thanks for the memories." —Boyd Christenson, KFGO radio

"Quite possible the best book to come out of Norman County this year." —Mark Aakhus, Rutgers University

"Down on the Farm musings are as barbed and well-formed as cockleburs." —Jay Meek, author and poet

"Quite good...a better than average collection." —The Grand Forks Herald

"...blunt and witty commentary." —The Fargo Forum

FARM SERVICE AGENCY

319 acre farm located 8 miles southwest of Red Lake Falls, MN in section 19 of Terrebonne Township of Red Lake County. This property contains 228 tillable acres, a 30 x 64 Quonset and older 28 x 32 granary. Priced to sell at $72,000.

This property is being offered for sale to those individuals who are considered to be qualified beginning farmers or ranchers by FSA. Qualified beginning farmers or ranchers must be in need of direct FSA financing, an FSA Guaranteed loan or a participation loan. For other requirements and information on how to qualify as a beginning farmer or rancher, you may contact your local FSA office.

The sale is subject to conservation easement deed restrictions which restricts the purchaser's use of the wetland areas on the property. Also, the purchaser may be required to comply with the conditions of a Natural Resources Conservation Service conservation plan. The property may also contain wetlands that are not protected with a conservation easement that will be subject to other environmental laws such as Section 404 of the Clean Water Act and highly erodible land and wetland provisions of the Federal Agricultural Improvement and Reform Act of 1996.

Financing may be available subject to the availability of funds. If financing is not available at the time of sale, the selected applicant will be given the opportunity to lease the property for up to 18 months or until such time the agency funds become available, whichever comes first.

Applications may be obtained at the FSA office in Red Lake Falls or McIntosh and must be completed and received by April 23, 1997. The Government reserves the right to cancel the sale at anytime and the right to reject any or all applications.

For additional information, contact the E. Polk FSA office at Box 100, McIntosh, MN, 56556, (218) 563-3615 or the Red Lake County FSA office at Rt. 1 Box 34, Red Lake Falls, MN, 56750, (218) 253-2181.

Miss TRF Scholarship Pageant information meeting Tuesday night

General information meeting on the 1997 Miss Thief River Falls Scholarship Pageant will be presented at a meeting to be conducted Tuesday, April 1, at Zion Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls, beginning at 7 p.m.

This meeting will provide potential candidates, their parents and/or friends with information on awards, scholarships, preparation, itinerary, pageant scoring, "Guardian Angels" program and other pageant details. Parents and/or friends are encouraged to attend with the possible candidates. Bars, punch and coffee will be served.

Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce and the 1997 Miss Thief River Falls Scholarship Committee are conducting the meeting in their quest for candidates for the 52nd annual Miss Thief River Falls competition.

The Miss Thief River Falls Scholarship Pageant is an official Miss America Preliminary Pageant and open to young women between the ages of 17 and 24 who live within a 60-mile radius of Thief River Falls. The winner will represent Thief River Falls in the Miss Minnesota Scholarsbip Pageant in June of 1998.

The local scholarship pageant committee has announced that each contestant will receive at least a $100 scholarship for participation in the 1997 pageant which will be conducted in the Lincoln high school auditorium on June 28.

"It is important for a young woman to be encouraged to pursue her aspirations," stated Nicole Carver, who is handling arrangements through the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce. "Our pageant program offers scholarship opportunities as well as training in interview skills, poise and appearance. We hope a number of the talented young women in the area will take advantage of the opportunities this pageant has to offer."

Reigning Miss Thief River Falls is Lisa Swanson, daughter of Curtis and Marilyn Swanson, who will be unable to attend the information meeting due to her attendance at Jamestown College in Jamestown, North Dakota.

The new Miss Thief River Falls will receive a $1,500 scholarship and a $1,000 expense allowance for representing Thief River Falls in the Miss Minnesota Scholarship Pageant in June of 1998. Additional scholarship dollars and prizes are awarded for the first runner-up, Miss Congeniality and division winners.

Persons who have questions but will be unable to attend the meeting to get them answered, are asked to contact Nicole Carver at the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce office at 218-681-3720.

Flood preparations are among most advanced

Jacobs said a number of meetings have been taking place and he's pleased with the response.

Jacobs said those meetings deal with some of the fine details. All counties in Minnesota have plans on file for evacuations, and shelters. A number of contacts have been made with schools, churches, The Salvation Army and several other groups and organizations to assist officials in the event of a flood.

Jacobs said he's very happy with the participation in a Flood Fight Operations course held in Thief River Falls recently. About 38 officials from throughout the region participated in the event.

Most of the advance measures taken by local communities will be covered by the state. Jacobs said about 75 to 100 per cent of the cost of approved advance measures will be covered by the state. The communities are expected, however, to obtain proper licenses and permits so that the Corps, for example, can raise a levee. Communities are also responsible for damage to roads caused by heavy equipment.

Local and area residents are being asked to take some precautions. They can move furniture or personal belongings from basements, plan escape routes, and what to do with pets and animals. Jacobs asked that residents not to drive around barricades. Barricades will be in place to protect the public from danger. It is also a violation of law.

Women of Today will host Spring Showcase

Avon, Tupperware, Annette's Fabrics, Home Interiors, American Cancer Society, Violence Intervention Project, Stamping Up, Job Service, Little Brother Little Sister, Midwest Vision Center, Partylite, Women of the Elks, Crossroads Displaced Homemakers, Pampered Chef, Kezar Designs-Home Sweet Home, Watkins, Tot's Studio For Hair, Magical Moments, Weekender Clothing, Backdraft and Chapter 11, Maurices, Vanity, Diamonds and Designs, Thoele Photography and Falls Bookstore.

There is sure to be something for everyone. With close to 40 booths, three speakers and two style shows the day will prove to be fun and informative as well as entertaining. Admission is $2, children under five are free. Participants may come and go throughout the day by obtaining a stamp on the hand at the front door. This will allow the freedom of seeing all of the speakers and style shows.

Concessions will also be available. On the menu are homemade BBQ's, chips, pop and homemade baked goodies. All proceeds will go towards the funding of future Women of Today events such as the Babysitting Clinic and Creative Crafts Festival.

With so much to choose from all in one convenient place, the Spring Showcase is sure to be a fun day for women.

Horticultural society makes gardener awards

Roseau, Celeste LaValla and Sylvia Anderson of Williams. Bonnie Schuh of Williams received the district gold medal award.

Jean Pederson, district historian to the Green Thumb Garden Club of the Warroad area, was awarded first place in the district program book competition. Moccasin Garden Club of the Thief River Falls and Goodridge area was awarded second place. There was a tie for third place between the Roseau Garden Club and Williams Garden Club.

In keeping with the theme of trees for the spring workshop, a poem on trees was read by Orpha Overlid and songs involving trees were sung by Ed Palmer, both of Warren.

During the business meeting, members decided to give ribbons instead of merchandise items at the annual horticultural show. The annual wildflower route tour was scheduled for June 14 with a bus coming from the state horticultural society office to participate in the tour.

Annual horticultural show will be August 9 at the Roseau school. The tour and show are the next two official events for the district organization.

business showed progress again in 1996," Kennedy said. "Various promotions and testimonials from satisfied DIRECTV customers prompted 210 new installations. We now serve nearly 700 residences with DIRECTV programming, which is 23 percent of the potential customer residences in our area."

Mosbeck and Kennedy both discussed the proposed deregulation of the electric industry. "We are open to these industry restructuring changes if our customers want them and if they are fair to all of our customers. If customer choice occurs, we want to be your energy supplier of choice, just as we strive to be now," Mosbeck said.

Reelected to the board of directors were Robert G. Olson of District 2, Kelly Lundeen of District 7 and Kermit Finstad of District 8.

Entertainment was provided by Vernon Rogalla and by the men's quartet "Resonance." Door prizes were awarded and a free lunch was provided at noon.

Work begins on Crookston backup levee

Crookston — Work began Thursday on a back-up clay levee on Hunter Street. The U.S. Corps of Engineers recommended the back-up levee, saying the present dike behind Hunter was unstable. Nine homes that are in line to be removed in the Corps' proposed flood plan control project in Crookston are essentially sealed off by the dike. Crookston Daily Times, April 3.

Parnell Impoundment being discussed

Crookston — Red Lake Watershed District in Thief River Falls and the Red Lake Watershed Management board have been studying some of the more water-threatened areas in Parnell township. A $2.3 million project for the Parnell Impoundment, located in Sections 3 and 4 of Parnell township in Polk County, has been proposed. Some of the farmers near the area are concerned. "If you do this, you can forget about me," said Donald Doda at a meeting at UMC's ARC Auditorium Wednesday. "You're going to drown me." Crookston Daily Times, April 3.

Polk county homeowners encouraged to build dikes

Fertile — Rural Polk County homeowners should build their dikes now, while help is available, Sheriff Doug Qualley said Monday. Rural homeowners need to take charge of protecting their own homes because the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers does not take responsibility for private property, Qualley said. Polk County officials expect extensive overland flooding along the Red River north and south of East Grand Forks. The Fertile Journal, April 2.

Disagreement slows cleaning of JD 20

Grygla — About 30 people turned out Monday at a hearing held at the Grygla community center on the subject of cleaning the Marshall County portion of the Moose River. The ditch committee has been holding meetings and hearings for over two years concerning the need to clean brush and beaver dams from JD 21. The project has been held up apparently because of a disagreement between the counties and DNR. The disagreements stem from the fact that the DNR has not approved easements on the state lands along the ditch to allow cleaning and repair of the embankment and access road. The Grygla Eagle, April 3.

Marvin Windows holds groundbreaking

Warroad — Marvin Windows & Doors held a formal groundbreaking ceremony Monday, March 31, for the new Grafton, ND, window plant. The event was attended by Warroad Mayor Bob Marvin, city officials and others. The plant will be finished in the first quarter of 1998 at which time they will begin hiring. Warroad Pioneer, April 2.

Home, Sport & Family Show Saturday, Sunday

"We believe there is something for everyone and we encourage all to check out the show," states Denise Laymon, director of the Home, Sport & Family Show this Saturday and Sunday at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center in Thief River Falls.

Sponsored by The Times, the fifth annual show will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. Admission at the door is $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children under 17 with those under age six admitted free. Included in each ticket price is a 50 cent surcharge imposed by the City of Thief River Falls for the arena improvement fund.

Exhibitors will fill the civic center with 134 booth spaces rented and additional displays and food concessions will be located outdoors. The outdoor displays include boats, campers, a mobile home and National Guard vehicles and equipment.

Show visitors are encouraged to register free of charge at The Times booth for a two-night stay for up to four people at the Hampton Inn Mall of America location in Minneapolis. The package is cosponsored by Bergan Travel of Thief River Falls and valued at $400.

Inside the arena will be booths and displays including more than 20 crafters, two fishing tackle manufacturers, custom furniture and custom wood moldings, resorts, travel, building materials and services, home products, photography, health and beauty aids, nursery and greenhouse products, jewelry, television and cellular phone products and taxidermy.

Thief River Falls Kennel Club will have a display including dogs and the model railroad club will have a model train display operating on the second level of the civic center.

The Times' Internet coordinator, Marnie Bergland, will conduct six Internet sessions each day at 10 and 11 a.m., 12 noon, 1, 2 and 3 p.m.

"The show should provide a fun time for all visitors and a great opportunity to get out of the house and back into circulation after a long, snow-bound winter," Laymon said.

Daylight Saving Time officially begins at 2 a.m. Sunday, April 6, and will continue until 2 a.m. October 26. To be in time with the rest of the country Sunday morning, set clocks and watches ahead one hour before retiring Saturday night.

Wheat variety named after former resident

"Lambert," a new variety of soft white wheat named to honor the late Lambert Erickson, is proving to be a popular choice by wheat farmers in the area of Idaho, Washington and Oregon.

Lambert Erickson, who died six years ago, was born and raised in Reiner township of Pennington county. He was a weed science faculty member in the University of Idaho's plant, soil and entomological sciences department and one of the university's scientists who developed 2-4-D weed killer.

Erickson's widow, Hazel, lives in Moscow, ID. His relatives in this area include nieces Marion Vaa in Reiner township and Adeline Hanson in Hickory township, nephew Stanley Erickson in Goodridge, and sister-in-law Emma Erickson of Thief River Falls.

According to information prepared by the University of Idaho, Lambert wheat has been a top yielding variety on trials held in the region. It has improved Cephalosporium stripe and Septoria leaf blotch resistance, is resistant to lodging and has been evaluated in yield trials in Idaho since 1987. Thousands of acres were planted in the region last fall and all of the foundation seed was sold out, indicating the popularity of the new variety.

Lambert is an awned, semi-dwarf, white chaffed common soft white winter wheat. The plant is blue-green in color with an erect to semi-erect flag leaf. The kernels are large, white and soft. In northern Idaho dryland farming it averaged 88 bushels per acre.

WELCOME TO:
L.B. HARTZ PARK

A sure sign of spring is the northern flights of Canada Geese. About 100 Canada Geese dropped in for a visit at L.B. Hartz Park in Thief River Falls Monday afternoon.

Unfortunately, sandbags are another sign of spring in northwestern Minnesota. Hundreds of sandbags are piled up at Centennial Park near the Eighth Street boat landing in Thief River Falls. Residents of Pennington county facing potential flooding are encouraged to obtain sandbags in advance of any potential flooding threat.

In Kevin Scott Skjerven case...

Arguments heard over use of jury pool survey by UND

by David Hill
Associate Editor

At a hearing Tuesday in a Marshall County courtroom a survey of Marshall County residents was the focus of a Change of Venue motion in the Kevin Scott Skjerven case.

Skjerven, 39, Newfolden, is being held on a $500,000 bond, and has pled innocent to a charge of first degree criminal sexual conduct. Because of the publicity surrounding the case and implications that Skjerven is connected to the October 27, 1996, disappearance of Veronica Safranski, his attorney, (originally Don Aandal, public defender, and now Steven Mottinger of Fargo), requested a change of venue.

Tuesday's hearing before Ninth District Judge Larry Jorgenson was to hear arguments on the motion. A unique aspect of this case is the use of a survey of Marshall County residents before being selected as jurors. The purpose of the survey was to determine whether Skjerven could get a fair trial in Marshall county.

The attorneys in the case both focused on the survey conducted by the University of North Dakota's Social Science Research Institute. Specifically, the attorneys focused on page 14 of the survey, which asked the 603 potential juors taking the survey whether they could be free of prejudice.

Mottinger said 52 percent of the respondents said yes, 30 percent no, and 16 percent were undecided. In our system of justice, he said, the defendant is presumed to be innocent. According to his interpretation of the survey, 16 percent of the respondents indicated they could not be free from prejudice. He also argued that social pressure to respond in a desirable manner, led him to believe that some of the 52 percent, who said yes, said yes because of that pressure. He concluded saying that the limited jury pool available to the court was significantly reduced.

Mottinger also pointed out that Skjerven had been named in connection with an uncharged case.

Mottinger was concerned about jury selection. Group "voir dire" (a preliminary examination to determine the competency of a witness or juror) could further taint the potential jury pool. He argued that criminal sexual conduct cases are sensitive and responses by one individual could "poison an entire panel". He suggested that they conduct individual "voir dire".

He also argued that Skjerven and individuals involved in the case are well known in the area and it would be difficult for potential jurors who know these people to be fair and impartial.

Mike Williams, Marshall County Attorney, said the process was started when it was alleged that there had been extensive media coverage of the case, but no evidence other than the survey had been presented.

Williams said he had prosecuted many DWI cases and that in many cases the jurors knew the individuals involved, yet they were able to listen to the evidence presented in the case and reach a fair and just conclusion based on the facts and evidence presented.

Williams said he also looked at page 14 of the survey, but reached the conclusion that they would have a fair trial. In his opinion it showed that 68 percent of the respondents could listen to the evidence presented without prejudice.

He did say he agreed with Mottinger that voir dire should be conducted individually.

He also raised the issue that moving witnesses to another jurisdiction would be expensive, and who is to say that the media in that jurisdiction would not also pick up the case.

Mottinger said it might be inconvenient and expense to move witnesses to another jurisdiction for the case, but it is paramount that Skjerven receive a fair trial.

Judge Jorgenson took the matter under advisement and said he would issue his order in writing.

The matter of bail was also addressed. Mottinger argued that Skjerven was well known to the court and had yet to miss a trial date. He also has family in the area and his father was willing to sign a $50,000 property bond to make sure he would appear. (Skjerven has been held in jail since November.)

Williams noted that they had gone over the matter before. He said the charge against Skjerven is a serious felony and he faces a significant sentence if convicted. His experience, he said, leaves him to conclude that there's a great chance of flight. He urged the court to keep the bond high.

Judge Jorgenson said he would also take this matter under advisement.

Landowner's Rights Ass'n. grades wetland plan "F"

Minnesota Landowner's Rights Association (MLRA) legislative director Dave Zavoral of Grygla says the second preliminary draft of the Wetland Plan prepared under the leadership of Elizabeth Carlson "would get an 'F' from most grade school teachers for the absence of logic and total lack of objectivity."

Carlson was employed by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to receive public input and develop a statewide wetland plan. She presided at several meetings scheduled throughout the state—including one in Thief River Falls—to obtain input and information regarding wetland concerns. Later two groups were formed with the expressed purpose of formulating the plan from the input received.

A preliminary draft was prepared and distributed to members of the groups for review. Following a time period for receipt of comments, a second draft was written.

"The Minnesota Landowner's Rights Association has reviewed the second draft," Zavoral said. "The manuscript is generally a summary of the opinions and beliefs of Minnesota State Agency personnel whose agenda is perpetuation and increase of wetlands. It is a junk-science approach to saving wetlands at almost any cost."

Zavoral said that "the bureaucratic agency people who wrote that their Wetland Plan is a 'product of science' are dead wrong. There was little or no science used to formulate this draft which is full of inconsistencies, false perceptions and preservationism."

The MLRA legislative director contends that the "voting pool" and "consulting pool" selected by Carlson to create a Minnesota Wetland Plan were "lopsided" and that formulation of an objective plan was doomed from the beginning." He said the voting pool was stacked with public agency people and that the consulting pool members were told they could attend the meetings but not ask questions or provide testimony.

In a prepared news release, Zavoral said, "The combined pools consisted of 33 non-agency people (15 preservationists, five interested in alternative uses of wetlands, one objective and 12 riding the fence) and 19 agency people (16 preservationists, one objective and two riding the fence). Almost 70 percent were preservationist-minded, and many of them were paid with taxpayer dollars to promote their own agency's empire building."

The MLRA has a number of concerns about the plan and what it does and does not do, Zavoral said.

"The plan does not differentiate between wetland values and wetland functions, but treats them as the same," he said. "It uses such terms as 'bio-diversity,' 'eco-system management' and 'sustainable development' to further promote preservationism. It uses words such as 'severe,' 'degraded' and 'destroyed' to support bias against any beneficial wetland conversions."

Zavoral says the plan "missed the boat" in many places and the two most important areas not addressed were:

(1) It needs a routine way to evaluate wetland functions. "This evaluation procedure has been mandated by law to the Board of Water and Soil Resources (BWSR) in the Minnesota Wetland Conservation Act (WCA) and is 16 months past deadline. BWSR only follows law when it is convenient to them, no matter who mandates them," Zavoral said.

(2) Data on economic impacts and implications of wetland conservation should be used.

According to Zavoral, preparation of the plan cost well over a million dollars from taxpayers and lost time and wages of some concerned citizens while its goal was to increase the quantity of wetlands.

"Strong pseudo-science bias is presented in this plan," Zavoral said, "although physical and biological sciences exist and do not support the policy recommendations made in the plan. Real science does not acknowledge good nor bad in the environment. People do. And when people carry on ridiculous causes based on emotion and not on science, we all lose in the end."

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

I'm giving you a few more of my mother's recipes today - these are for some interesting main dish meals - I can tell you she knew some pretty exciting recipes (I remember eating stuffed beef heart and brains with scrambled eggs - oh my - but she doesn't have those recipes in her recipe box).

This sounds like it would be a tasty main dish - just add a salad and some fresh bread and you're all set:

BEEF AND BEAN DINNER

1 pound hamburger, browned and drained
1/4 teaspoon tabasco sauce
2 - 3 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1/4 cup chopped onion
1 can (16-19 ounce) baked beans
6 ounce can tomato paste
1 to 1 1/2 cups shredded cheese

Mix all ingredients except cheese together and place in crust (below)

Crazy Crust

1/2 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup shortening
1/2 cup dairy sour cream
1 egg

Combine all ingredients in medium bowl and stir until blended (60-70 strokes).

Spread batter thinly in bottom and thickly up sides of pie pan. Fill with beef-bean mixture and bake at 425 for 18-28 minutes until bubbly and browned. Top with cheese and return to oven until cheese is melted.

Here is a dish that tastes like stuffed cabbage but without the peeling and stuffin' and fussin':

HAMBURGER - SAUERKRAUT CASSEROLE

1 cup uncooked rice
2 pounds hamburger
2 cups sauerkraut
2 teaspoons salt
3 cups tomato juice

Brown hamburger and drain. Place in casserole. Mix other ingredients together and add to hamburger. Toss and bake for 45 minutes at 350 degrees.

This is her delicious barbecue recipe - this is another favorite of mine that I had to have at my birthday parties:

BARBECUED HAMBURGER

1/2 cup onion, diced
1/4 cup celery, diced
1 green pepper, diced
1 can tomato sauce
1/4 cup ketchup
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 pound hamburger
1 1/2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
Tabasco sauce

Brown hamburger and drain. Mix hamburger with all other ingredients in saucepan. Simmer for at least one hour or longer (until you just have to try a taste). Don't forget to have plenty of hamburger buns on hand.

Doesn't this sound like a simple, tasty dish - not bland at all, as you can see:

TEXAS HASH

2 sliced onions
3 tablespoons green pepper, minced
3 tablespoons cooking oil
1 pound hamburger
2 cups tomatoes and juice
1/2 cup uncooked rice
1 teaspoon chili powder
2 teaspoons salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper

Cook onions and green pepper in oil. Add hamburger and fry until crumbly. Drain and place in greased casserole.

Stir in tomatoes, rice, chili powder, salt and pepper. Bake, covered, for 1 hour, removing cover for last 15 minutes.

At last - an exciting way to use up that leftover meat:

EGGS FOO YONG

Diced chicken, beef, pork or shrimp
Green onions
Mushrooms
Bean sprouts
Diced celery
Water chestnuts
6 eggs

Mix all ingredients together and add eggs. Form into patties and deep fry in 1 inch of fat.

Happy "40" On April 4th!!

Happy "Sweet" Sixteen Birthday Tracy!

Family, Friends support group meets April 7

Family and Friends Support Group will meet from 10 to 11:30 a.m. at Summerfield Apartments in Warren on April 7.

This meeting is for family members or friends who provide care and or support to elderly persons. Many of the members have a loved one diagnosed with Alzheimer's Disease or other related disorders. Individuals with a loved one in the nursing home or at home are encouraged to attend.

Marshall Manor now has a unit specializing in care for people with Alzheimer's or related disorders. It is their desire to provide a supportive environment for families of people with these disorders. We recognize that this disease has major impact on the family unit. The family will experience "loss" of the individual long before the individual physically dies. Providing education and support for families facing Alzheimer's Disease issues is a key goal.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

I would like to call to the public's attention the following from the book Environment Betrayed by Dr. Ed King:

"Today we believe that wet lands are nature's water purifier; we have come to equate wet lands with fresh, clean drinking (potable) water.

"And so we act to preserve wet lands in order to protect the quality of our surface and ground waters.

"Furthermore, we have come to believe that wet lands perform many other functions essential to the health of our planet.

"And so we demand that wet lands be protected. Indeed, we demand that the area of wet lands be increased to improve the quality of life on planet earth!

"Remarkably, today's beliefs are literally the reverse of those held just a generation ago when improving the quality of life was equated with the draining and filling of wet lands.

"But new beliefs are not always better beliefs; change does not always mean progress.

"Today's beliefs about wet lands are belied by the Three Truths about wet lands, which are:

"I. Wet lands are areas of decay and putrification. Wet lands poison water by releasing toxic chemicals including: metals, organic substances and toxic gases. Aeration, not decay, produces clean water.

"II. Wet lands are natural incubators of disease. The word malaria (bad air) was invented to describe the unhealthiness of wet land areas. Later, malaria became the name for a specific type of the many types of wet land diseases.

"Human activities have greatly reduced the wet land diseases of both wildlife and humans, i.e. people 'semi-tamed' the wet lands to make them safer for man and beast.

"However, thanks to a change in the belief about the nature of nature—undisturbed nature is inherently 'good' and the taming of nature is 'bad'—wet land diseases are on the rise again.

"III. Wet lands release the gas which scientists say attacks the atmosphere's ability to de-toxify itself.

Decay and putrification of wet lands not only poisons our water— wet lands also produce prodigious amounts of methane gas ('marsh gas'—the gas identified in Al Gore's book (1992, pp. 88-89) as the gas which attacks the atmosphere's ability to de-toxify itself!"

Another by-product of the decomposition of organic matter is hydrogen sulfide. This is the gas coming from the river at the dam in Thief River Falls as the water is being aerated and the gas released.

Properties of hydrogen sulfide are listed as follows in the book "Chemistry" by Dr. William Lemkin: "Physical: Hydrogen sulfide is a colorless gas having the extremely offensive odor of rotten eggs. It is heavier than air and slightly soluble in water. The gas is poisonous, and even when a small quantity of it is inhaled it produces headache and nausea."

Swamp water is putrid. Wetlands are not benign.

Sincerely,
Donald Barron

Local Health Care Consumers Should Weigh Community Benefit

On March 19, 1997, the Dakota Clinic announced a major expansion of health care facilities and services in Thief River Falls planned for 1998. To the extent that such expansion will give the people of our region more choices, it seems to be good news. However, looking into the future, the community should have some serious concerns about the implications of the Dakota Clinic's plans.

Patient choice is now more important than ever as health care service providers respond to changing funding formulas that are putting cost pressure on the health care delivery system. While expanding consumer choice is usually good, it means health care consumers need to become more sophisticated buyers of health care services. In small communities like ours, consumers need to use their power of choice to support the local health care providers that are important to their families and community.

Keeping Thief River Falls patients closer to home, family and community is one of Northwest Medical Center's key roles as your community hospital.

To maintain a strong local health care system in Thief River Falls, Northwest Medical Center (NWMC) provides unique and vital services (24 hour emergency room, 24 hour diagnostic services, mental health services and emergency surgery) and NWMC needs the continued support of the residents of Thief River Falls and its large employers. NWMC has demonstrated a long history of excellent health care with our sole focus being local community improvement rather than business profits. Even a non-profit organization like Northwest Medical Center, however, needs to maintain a sufficient volume of utilization that will support NWMC's continued role as a viable community health care asset.

NWMC is concerned that duplication of services could lead to higher health care costs which are not compatible with the community's best interests. We don't fault the Dakota Clinic physicians for creating a new package that allows them to keep a greater share of the health care dollars. Their decision to maximize their profit is not wrong...but it is simply Dakota Clinic's best interest they are watching out for. Residents of Thief River Falls have to watch out for their own personal interests and use their power of choice just as assertively.

Under their new plan, the Dakota Clinic physicians may have a greater personal financial incentive to refer patients, whenever possible, to their affiliated clinic or hospital in Fargo to maximize their profit. Local health care consumers need to use their power of choice to select the hospital and clinic option that best meets their need and best supports their local community...and we think that's Northwest Medical Center.

Since our main referral source, the Dakota Clinic physicians, may have financial incentives to refer many procedures away from Northwest Medical Center and the Thief River Falls area, that means local health care consumers will have to overrule their physician's financial interest in favor of consumer's preference for local hospitalization wherever possible and referral to the nearest hospital in Grand Forks when necessary.

During the coming months, the NWMC Board and management will study the potential impact of the Dakota Clinic's announcement and develop appropriate strategic plans. We remain committed to our responsibility to protect the community's best interest and ensure complete and affordable healthcare service in the community of Thief River Falls.

NWMC will continue to provide state-of-the-art health care services on a cost effective basis. We will maintain NWMC's historic focus on the community's best interest. It will be a challenging and difficult time as local consumers take more control of their purchasing decisions and weigh their personal and community benefit in the process.

Congratulations To Commissioner Brown

If young women with ambitions toward a career in public administration and/or politics would like a good role model, they might consider R. Jane Brown, Commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Economic Security.

We have had a couple of opportunities to meet with Commissioner Brown during her visits to Thief River Falls and have been impressed not only with her ability to talk about a complex department in layman's terms but with her vision for the department and her knowledge of how it operates. To be honest, not all commissioner appointees in any department have had the ability to exhibit that expertise. We have also been impressed because Commissioner Brown has actually visited Thief River Falls and many other cities where her department has offices.

Apparently we were not alone in our assessment of Brown's abilities. The National Employer Council (NEC) has named her as Outstanding State Administrator in the United States for 1996.

"Your work with employers and the leadership that you have demonstrated are important to us and both are greatly appreciated," stated Daniel Spencer, NEC president. "Your contributions are outstanding and they are exemplary in every respect. On behalf of all employers, we thank you."

We believe that a great deal of Commissioner Brown's success is due to another attribute not common to state administrators. She listens to the people her office was meant to serve; she understands what they say and why they are saying it; and she uses the resources available to her to implement the necessary changes.

She was probably the first person in her office as commissioner to understand that attention must be paid not only to the people who are without jobs but to the people who provide jobs. As a result, her department has made extensive efforts to work with the needs of employers, thereby serving the needs of work seekers. The Workforce Center concept adopted under her leadership has been extremely successful in serving the changing workforce needs of employers and job seekers.

Our congratulations to Commissioner Brown on her award and the recognition of her abilities and accomplishments. One would hope that any successor to Gov. Carlson of any political persuasion will recognize her value to the state and—if she wants to continue to serve—will reappoint her. Her service to the state transcends political partisanship and that dedication, as exemplified by the NEC award, should be rewarded.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

Franklin Middle School held its third annual eighth grade "Career Day" on March 14, 1997. Career Day affords students the opportunity to explore a variety of occupations in our community. Students visited a total of 88 different businesses or careers such as Home Sweet Home, Green Funeral Home, Digi-Key, Arctic Cat Inc., Hardee's, Best Western, Dr. Dimich's dental office, Challenger elementary school, Baker's Acres and the aviation mechanics program at the airport, to name just a few.

These guided tours by professionals in their fields gave students the opportunity to observe, listen and then ask questions about various careers. Exploring careers is mandated by the State of Minnesota because it prepares students to think about vocations and how they relate to their future place in the job market. Not only is the program educational, the students really seemed to enjoy the day!

Career Day was made possible only because of the cooperation the school received from the community. We would like to thank all of the participating Thief River Falls businesses, the numerous volunteers who gave of their time in the planning, registration and chaperoning of the career visits, and the FMS staff. Another thank you would have to go to The Times for their heightened coverage of the day.

Sincerely,
Bill Hahne, Principal

Tom Scheef, manager of the Country Store which opened recently at the corner of Eighth Street and Davis Avenue, has seen his employment come full circle. He began working for Farmers Co-op Grain and Seed Association while in high school, moved on to Peterson-Biddick, St. Hilaire Co-op Elevator and Northwest Grain and is now back with Farmers Co-op Grain and Seed in the new venture.

Country Store opens at Eighth and Davis

Opening of the Country Store at the corner of Eight Street and Davis Avenue in Thief River Falls is a case of a new business entity evolving from long-time Thief River Falls business properties.

The location is the building where Evans Seed, Wool and Fur operated for many years. The building and property was purchased from Richard "Bud" Evans by Farmers Co-Op Grain and Seed Association and has been refurbished for the new business.

White steel siding has been put on the exterior of the 30x70 building, the office has been remodeled into a retail sales area and the warehouse has been partially sheeted with plywood and painted white.

In addition, Farmers Co-Op Grain and Seed Association will start construction soon on a 60x150 steel building further north along the Soo Line tracks where its feed mill and warehouse were destroyed in a fire last year. That building will provide storage for product sold through the Country Store outlet.

Basic business of the Country story will be the feed product lines of Land O'Lakes Cooperative. These lines were previously handled by Peterson-Biddick Company and since 1987 by St. Hilaire Cooperative Elevator Association which purchased the Peterson-Biddick feed mill on Atlantic Avenue, north of the Soo Line depot.

Following its merger into Northwest Grain Company under Harvest States cooperative, the former St. Hilaire elevator opted to go out of the feed business. It closed its ag service operations on North Davis and consolidated feed operations at the former Peterson-Biddick feed mill site. It ceased operations at that site a few weeks ago.

For Tom Scheef, manager of the Country Store, it was a 20-year career full circle. He started working for Farmers Co-op Grain and Seed while in high school at Goodridge. He later took a position with Peterson-Biddick and then moved into the feed management area for St. Hilaire Co-op Elevator. Now he is back with his first employer. Hollie Scott and Wes Schroeder are the other employees at the Country Store.

As the only Thief River Falls handler of the full line of Land O'Lakes feed, the Country Store—a Land O'Lakes trademark operation—carries feed for all livestock from rabbits to horses, including special rations for dairy and beef cattle, swine, sheep and even emus and ostriches. It offers both bagged and bulk products and has liquid feed and a mobile grinder-mixer for rent.

Pet foods—including Science Diet, Big Red and Tuffy's are part of the product line along with Feathered Friends bird food and oil type sunflowers. Also carried are animal health products, salt and mineral, water softener salt, horse tack and livestock handling equipment including gates, head gates, panels and feeders.

Plans are to add a lawn and garden department in the future, including a seasonal hoop house for plants and nursery stock.

Vocalists to entertain at senior center

Participants in the Little Brother/Little Sister program will join Bev Dekkers and evening dinner participants at the Heritage Community Center for a program of song and fun Monday, April 7, at 6:30 p.m.

The project is part of a mentorship which Mrs. Dekkers has received to study voice with instructor Diane Johnson. It will involve both the youngsters and seniors in singing and other activity.

This activity is made possible in part by a grant provided by the Northwest Regional Development Commission through funding from the McKnight Foundation.

Home buyers workshop scheduled in T.R. Falls

Explore the possibilities of home ownership at a three-session "Home Stretch" home buyers workshop Tuesdays, April 22 and 29 and May 6 from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in the Pennington county courthouse meeting room in Thief River Falls.

Sponsored by the Minnesota Extension Service in Pennington county, the workshop is designed for first-time home buyers of low to moderate income; for homeowners ready to refinance a contract for deed; or for persons just interested in exploring the possibilities of home ownership.

Participants will be given a thorough explanation of the home buying process. They will find out how much home they can afford, what lenders look for in a buyer, how to eliminate the barriers to home ownership and what kinds of mortgage assistance programs are available.

Added in this year's program is information on buying manufactured homes.

Registration fee for the three-session workshop is $5 per household. Call the Pennington county extension office at 681-2116 or 1-800-681-2116 to receive a registration brochure for more information. Seating is limited and early registration is suggested.

Gators hit stride at end of year

■ Badger/Greenbush-Middle River boys basketball

It took time, but the 1996-97 Badger/Greenbush-Middle River boys high school basketball team did reach its potential down the stretch during a 16-11 Sub-Section 32A championship season.

Headed by a solid group of seniors, Badger/Greenbush-Middle River looked to be strong out of the blocks this winter. But it wasn't that easy. The Gators spent much of the year just trying to stay above .500. Sitting at 7-9 in early February, they finally jelled, winning five of their last six regular season starts, then picking up the first ever post-season title in the five-year history of the three-school combination.

"It was a good way to end the year," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "We were playing some pretty decent basketball at the end of the year. We were playing real good defense."

The finish compensated for the unexpected shaky start, according to Sparby. "We struggled until midseason," he admitted. "We were playing inconsistent basketball. I made some mistakes at the beginning. We took things for granted. You can't assume anything. Just because you have people coming back, that doesn't mean everything will automatically fall into place. Every year is different. It was two-thirds into the season when things finally started to click."

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River post-season dreams ended in a heart-breaking, down-to-the-wire 49-48 Section 8A tournament semifinal loss to Fertile-Beltrami. The Gators did come back the next night with a 73-52 third place game win over Grygla-Gatzke.

Graduation will take a bite out of the Gators' line-up. The seniors include top scorer Matt Kujava, No. 1 rebounder Aaron Rislov, assist leader Chris Haarstick, and sixth man Jed Geer, who overcame asthma problems that limited him to shorter stretches of playing time to become "instant offense" off the bench.

However, the cupboard won't be completely bare. The Gators lose four seniors, but four juniors – Adam Holmes, Jeremy Vacura, Andy Schenkey, Daryl Wockenfuss – played regularly this year.

"We'll have a good nucleus back," acknowledged Sparby. "We'll need some people to fill in some holes, but we'll be okay."

NCTC softball postponed

Weather forecast prompted Northland Community and Technical College officials to call off the Pioneers' planned preseason softball training trip to Iowa this week, and also produced the first official postponement of the 1997 Thief River Falls spring sports season – Monday's Northland softball games at North Hennepin.

Wrestlers receiving special recognition at the Prowlers' awards banquet Tuesday included, left to right, Luke Davis, most valuable, Irv Wilson Memorial Award, most wins, Coaches Senior Award, captain's plaque; Josh Hagen, 1997-98 co-captain; Adam Kuck, most improved, most falls, Coaches Senior Award; Kyle Nelson, Coaches Senior Award, captain's plaque; Josh Stinson, 1997-98 co-captain; and John Swanson, most valuable newcomer.

Thief River Falls award winners named...

Davis most valuable wrestler

High school wrestling awards were presented Tuesday during the Prowlers' annual post-season banquet.

Luke Davis was named the team's most valuable wrestler, was recipient of the Irv Wilson Memorial Award as the most dedicated wrestler, and was presented with a plaque for leading the Prowlers in wins (23).

Adam Kuck was selected as the team's most improved wrestler and earned an award for leading the Prowlers in falls (17).

John Swanson, a seventh grader, was named the Prowlers' most valuable newcomer.

Coaches Senior Awards went to Davis, Kuck and Kyle Nelson.

Captains plaques were presented to Davis and Nelson. Josh Hagen and Josh Stinson were selected to succeed them as captains for the 1997-98 season.

Athletic letters went to seniors Paul Kopari, Sam Lane, Chantry Folkedahl, Davis, Kuck, and Nelson; juniors Jeremy Houske, Ryan Olson, Robert Spry, Hagen and Stinson; eighth grader David Houske; seventh graders Beau Abrahamson, Philip Hermanson, Travis Hjelle, and Swanson; student manager Melanie Johnson; and student trainer Angie Judd.

The Prowlers went 3-11 in dual meet match-ups this winter.

"It was a tough season, team-wise," admitted Thief River Falls head coach John Belyea. "We had some good kids, but it's still not balanced out yet."

While the won-loss mark was less than spectacular, Belyea was quick to praise the Prowlers for their work habits. "The effort was definitely there," he noted. "The kids worked awfully hard. I was real proud of them."

It might not be an immediate climb to the top, but the future, fueled by a strong youth wrestling program, looks bright for the Prowlers, according to Belyea. "It's just going to take a couple more years," he said.

Pioneers return from Phoenix training trip

Lack of hitting proved the biggest problem for the 1996 Northland Community and Technical College baseball team. The Pioneers' pitching and defense was adequate, but a .244 team batting average was largely responsible for an 8-18 finish.

Head coach Terry Wiseth took a major step to solve the Pioneers' offensive woes when he re-recruited Mark St. Marie. The Red Lake Falls product was the leading hitter in NJCAA Division III baseball as a Northland freshman in 1995 with a .513 average. He sat out the 1996 season while attending school elsewhere, but is back in uniform this spring.

St. Marie and Aaron Stromlund, a sophomore from Roseau who was a Minnesota Community College Conference All-Northern Division pick last year when he hit .381 (24/63), will give the Pioneers two top quality hatters. Matt Malone of Wadena-Deer Creek has been the most impressive freshman hitter in preseason drills.

"Our hitting will definitely be better this year," said Wiseth. "Last year we couldn't put a .300 hitter in the third spot."

Sophomores Chris Vanyo (Thief River Falls) and Gary Hill (Park Rapids), along with Malone, are the Pioneers' top pitching prospects. Last year, Vanyo was 2-2 with a 2.86 earned run average in 24 innings, and Hill was 1-2 with a 7.39 ERA in 18 innings while battling arm trouble.

Stromlund and St. Marie are both listed as second basemen, although Stromlund has also played center field in the past. Vanyo will complement his pitching with time at shortstop, and Hill can play the outfield.

"We've played good defense the last four-five years, and I think we'll be as deep, defensively, this year as

Northland baseball

as we have been," said Wiseth. "Pitching was okay at times last year, and I think we'll be okay this year. We don't have pitchers who are going to throw the ball past people but they can throw strikes."

Other sophomores on the team include catcher Brent Eaton, Roseau, shortstop Luke Melquist, East Grand Forks, first baseman Sean Fogarty, Park Rapids, third baseman Scott Lorenson, Plummer, outfielder Gerry Hanson, Roseau, and second baseman/shortstop Wade Hamlin, Aneta, ND.

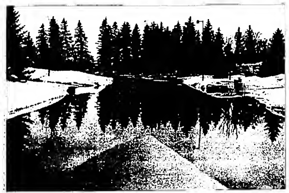
In addition to Malone, the freshman class includes Chris Efta, Chane Keefe, Steve Burslie, and Ryan Bendickson of Thief River Falls, Will Bement, Waubun, Cory Bowman, Park Rapids, Grant Skibicki, Fordville, ND, Chris Sorenson, Luverne, Mike Neuschwander, Grygla, Roy Larson, Middle River, and Jake Anderson, Red Lake Falls.

Wiseth took his team to Arizona for a week of preseason work in the Phoenix area. The Pioneers opened practice March 10 in the Northland gym. They flew south March 26 and returned April 1. The trip was financed by the players themselves, either through fund-raising efforts, or out-of-pocket expenses.

It was a productive venture, according to Wiseth. "It was great," he said. "We were able to practice everyday from 8 a.m. to whenever we got tired."

The Pioneers' 1997 schedule lists a Monday, April 7, season opener at Fergus Falls.

"I think we'll be competitive," said Wiseth. "It's all a matter of timing. I think we'll play okay defensively, and I think our pitching will be all right. We'll have to hit the ball. I used to think if you did two out of the three, you'd be in good shape. But that hasn't been the case for us lately. We'll going to have to do all three."



Scenic but certainly disconcerting to property owners along Oriole Avenue in Thief River Falls. Thursday afternoon, standing water in a nearby field made it to a ditch along Robin Hood Drive. Cardinal Avenue, one block east of Oriole, was closed to traffic because of the high water.

Warning about flood hazards issued in area

Jim Belles, warning and coordination meteorologist for the National Weather Service Eastern ND/Grand Forks has submitted the following article for publication to serve as a warning to area residents threatened by flooding.

Flooding along rivers is a natural and inevitable part of life. Each year during the early spring our region's cover of snow begins to melt, leading to our annual ritual of flooding. This year we are confronted with a heavy snow cover, therefore the runoff is expected to be noteworthy. In response to this spring's expected flood, preparation has already begun to protect property in many communities which border the Red River and its tributaries.

But saving property is not the only thing we must keep in mind during this spring's flood season. Personal safety is also a serious issue. In fact, more people die across the United States each year in flood-related weather disaster than are killed by lightning and tornadoes combined. That is a sobering thought, especially since floods don't develop as quickly as tornadoes or strike as rapidly as lightning.

Fortunately, flood-related fatalities can be avoided by taking several precautionary steps. First, never cross a flooded roadway in your car. Nearly half of all flood related deaths are auto related. Believe it or not, it only takes two feet of water to make your car buoyant, and four-wheel drive vehicles are not immune. Last year on April 19th at 7 p.m., a 19-year-old man drowned while attempting to cross the Robin Bridge over the Red River at Orayton, ND. Unfortunately, the man didn't heed a road closed sign, which clearly marked the flood hazard. Remember if your car becomes buoyant, you no longer have control and can easily be swept away by the river current.

Playing or walking in the water can also be dangerous. Not only is there a health hazard but whirlpools can develop around storm drains. Unsuspecting people, walking near these areas have been sucked into the water, unable to fight the isolated current caused by the drain. Even six inches of fast-moving flood water can knock you off your feet.

Before the flood there are several steps that you should take. Know your flood risk and elevation above the flood stage. Store drinking water in various containers in case water service is interrupted. Keep a stock of food that requires little cooking and no refrigeration in case electric power is interrupted. Install check valves in building sewer traps to prevent flood water from backing up into the drains of your home. Keep handing a battery operated radio for the latest information. Weather Radio, programmed by the National Weather Service, will provide 24-hour updates on river stages.

After the flood, throw out food that has come in contact with flood waters, it could be contaminated. Wells should be pumped out and the water tested for purity before drinking. If in doubt call your local public health authority. Do not visit disaster areas. Your presence might hamper rescue and other emergency operations. Flooded electrical equipment should be checked and dried before returned to service. When returning to examine a flooded building use flashlights, not lanterns, torches or matches. Flammables may be inside.

If you have any questions about flood safety please contact your local chapter of the American Red Cross, your county or city Emergency Manager, or the National Weather Service at 70-1772-0720.

Plan of action set for volunteers to fill sandbags

Individuals interested in volunteering to help fill sandbags are being asked to report to the Pennington County Law Enforcement Center in Thief River Falls. When law enforcement issues a statement that volunteers are needed, volunteers should report to the law enforcement center. Do not call the law enforcement center.

Due to the confusion last year, the accidents and parking problems, law enforcement officials have adopted a plan of action. Thief River Falls Police Chief Froschheiser explained that last year, people rushed to different sites, and as a result, some were understaffed and others overstaffed. Accidents and parking problems also happened when they rushed to the scenes. This year volunteers are being asked to report to the law enforcement center where they will be registered and sent to sites where they are needed most.

Transportation will be provided by School District 564. Chief Froschheiser said volunteers will be bused to and from the sites.

Problem solving course being offered at NCTC

Custom Training and Continuing Education, Northland Community and Technical College, Thief River Falls, is offering a four-hour class entitled Problem Solving on Tuesday, April 8 from 6 to 8 p.m. and Thursday, April 10 from 6 to 8 p.m. in room 134 at Northland Community and Technical College.

Whether they are simple or complex, minor or major, problems are everyday events in our lives, and we need techniques to help us solve them. This workshop will help participants look at everyday problems in a new light through a variety of hands-on activities and applications of a set of techniques developed by a team of Northland faculty.

The instructor is Avis Oyrud and the cost of the class is $20.

For more information and to preregister call 218-681-0793 or 1-800-959-6282.

Agassiz Audubon Sanctuary banquet held on April 8

The 15th Annual Wetlands, Pines, and Prairie Audubon Sanctuary Banquet will be held in the American Legion Clubrooms in Warren on Tuesday, April 8, at 6:30 p.m.

Tom Feiro of the University of Minnesota at Crookston will be the master of ceremonies and a special program about raptors will be presented by the University of Minnesota's Raptor Rehabilitation Clinic in St. Paul. See three of the big birds up close and learn about their plight in the wild.

Following a buffalo roast dinner, the North Country String Band of East Grand Forks will perform several selections.

Awards and prize drawings will complete the evenings festivities.

Tickets are available at Narverud Cleaners in Thief River Falls, the Ken Nelson Agency in Warren and from Terry Wolfe in Crookston. To reserve tickets call 218-745-5572.

Women's issue workshop held at NCTC April 8

Women's Issues, a series of informational workshops for women, will be held the second Tuesday of each month from 7 to 9 p.m. in room 131 at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls. These workshops are designed to focus on health, legal and financial issues.

The eighth workshop in this series is scheduled for April 8, and will take a look at Legal Issues: Workplace Rights, Discrimination, and Harassment. The workshop will include a discussion of at-will employees, sexual harassment and discrimination in the workplace. Gayle Borchert will be the presenter.

Gayle A. Borchert is employed as an Assistant Pennington County Attorney at the Olin Law Office in Thief River Falls. Ms. Borchert is a graduate of Concordia College and William Mitchell College of Law, St. Paul.

SWCD dinner is Tuesday night

Pennington County Soil and Water Conservation District will hold its annual dinner Tuesday, April 8, at 6:30 p.m. at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls. Ticket purchase is required in advance. For information call 681-3348.

Farm for Sale

318 acre farm located 8 miles southwest of Red Lake Falls, MN in section 16 of Terrebonne Township of Red Lake County. This property contains 229 tillable acres, a 38 x 64 Quonset and older 26 x 32 granary. Priced to sell at $72,000.

This property is being offered for sale to those individuals who are considered to be qualified beginning farmers or ranchers by FSA. Qualified beginning farmers or ranchers must be in need of direct FSA financing, an FSA Guaranteed loan or a participation loan. For other requirements and information on how to qualify as a beginning farmer or rancher, you may contact your local FSA office.

The sale is subject to conservation easement deed restrictions which restricts the purchaser's use of the wetland areas on the property. Also, the purchaser may be required to comply with the conditions of a Natural Resources Conservation Service conservation plan. The property may also contain wetlands that are not protected with a conservation easement that will be subject to other environmental laws such as Section 404 of the Clean Water Act and highly erodiable land and wetland provisions of the Federal Agricultural Improvement and Reform Act of 1996.

Financing may be available subject to the availability of funds. If financing is not available at the time of sale, the selected applicant will be given the opportunity to lease the property for up to 18 months or until such time the agency funds become available, whichever comes first.

Applications may be obtained at the FSA office in Red Lake Falls or McIntosh and must be completed and received by April 23, 1997. The Government reserves the right to cancel the sale at anytime and the right to reject any or all applications.

For additional information, contact the E. Polk FSA office at Box 100, McIntosh, MN, 56556, (218) 563-3615 or the Red Lake County FSA office at Rt. 1 Box 34, Red Lake Falls, MN 56756, (218) 253-2191.

WATCH AROUND THE REGION

Down, but not out, winter roars back

Every newspaper in the region has stories about the blizzard which struck the region last week leaving thousands of residents without power. There were some unique stories, but lots of pictures of buried cars and damaged power poles. Many people in the region volunteered their time to help others less fortunate. In all people in the region seemed to pull together to help each other through the crisis.

Many area newspapers also focused on flood preparations taking place in area communities.

Olson is Northwest Counselor of Year

Floyd Olson, a counselor at Tri-County and Marshall County Central Schools, has been awarded "Northwestern Minnesota Counselors Association Outstanding Secondary Counselor of the Year. New River Record, April 8

Sets of twin calves keep Leo's farm busy

There's a lot of activity at the Leo Anderson farm of rural Lake Bronson. Leo and others have been out to the barn every two hours. Along with single births, two bovine mothers are nursing twins. They are part of a herd of 130 beef cattle, mostly Charolais at the Anderson farm. About three years ago, they had seven sets of twins and have had quite a few twins over the years. North Star News, Karlstad, April 10.

Golf course and club house take shape in Fertile

Fertile's new golf course and clubhouse is really taking shape just south of town on Highway 32. The new nine hole course is located on just under 90 acres, and includes a driving range and club house. The Fertile Journal, April 9.

Drug arrests made in Roseau County

Roseau County Sheriff, Curt Hauger and the Roseau County Attorney, Michelle Moren, announced the arrest of a number of suspects involved in possession and distribution of controlled substances. Ten pounds of marijuana was confiscated in one search. Another search uncovered six and one-half pounds of marijuana and $7,353 cash. Subsequent searches uncovered more drugs and cash. The investigation was conducted by the Roseau County Sheriff's department and Paul Bunyan Drug Task Force. Warroad Pioneer, April 9.

Warroad school holds bone marrow drive

Warroad Senior High is holding a bone marrow drive April 28 from 1 to 5 p.m. Monday, April 28 at the Warroad Area Community Center. When taking part in the drive, the possible donor is asked some health history questions and a small amount of blood is drawn. This will determine the donor's tissue type which will be entered onto the National Marrow Donor Program Registry. Warroad Senior, Jenny Beisel, initiator of the drive, chose the drive as a community service project. Warroad Pioneer, April 9.

Price gouging rumors lack substantiation

by Marvin Lundin
Northern Watch Editor

Complaints in the wake of last weekend's electrical power outage that business places were taking advantage of the emergency to hike prices on merchandise appear to lack validity.

No sooner were the lights back on after the nearly two-day blackout than rumors of price gouging began to run rampant through the community. The complaints were that some business places selling such items as generators, fuel and food had inflated prices to unduly profit from people in need of these items.

Businesses Disappointed

The charges were met with disbelief and disappointment if not resentment by owners and employees of business places who put in extra time and effort to meet the needs of people in the emergency situation—often at personal and perhaps even financial sacrifice.

In Thief River Falls and much of the immediate surrounding area, electrical power went out about 1:30 a.m. Sunday, April 6. The outage left residents without a normal means to pump seepage from basements, heat their homes, cook food, water and/or milk cattle or conduct the myriad other tasks which electricity allows.

Caused by immense power transmission line damage in North Dakota and Minnesota—between the generating plants on the lignite coal fields and the substations receiving power in the immediate area—the outage continued for most people throughout Sunday and well into the afternoon or evening Monday. And there were no guarantees power would be restored then or hold once it was restored on a temporary basis.

People Were Desperate

Unprepared for any outage and especially for one of such duration, people turned in desperation for what help they could find. A number of business places, many of which were themselves without electric power, responded to meet the demand.

It is true that for the most part owners of these business places expected to profit from selling the products they had for sale. It is also true that for the most part those business people responded promptly and at personal inconvenience to help meet the needs of others.

And so far as this publication has been able to ascertain, it is untrue that business people artificially inflated prices to unduly profit from customers in desperate straits.

Generators In Question

Two businesses at which complaints of price hiking were directed were Arctic Cat Inc. and its local dealership, RV Sports. Arctic Cat handles seven models of gas powered generators which it sells through its local dealer network.

Within minutes after the power outage happened Sunday morning, RV Sports owner Randy Adamson received a call for a generator and responded, thinking it would be a simple trip to the store and back home. He didn't dress for cold weather. Neither did RV Sports employee Loren Lendobeja who was also called out about the same time. Then the calls for generators came fast and furious.

It was Sunday evening, about 18 or 20 hours later, when the last available generator had been rounded up and sold, that the two men realized they had not taken the time for food, a can of pop or even a drink of water throughout the day.

Arctic Workers Praised

"I can't say enough for the Arctic employees who responded to the need immediately and did everything they could to get as many generators out of local storage as quickly as possible," Adamson said.

He added that Arctic Cat had perhaps 300 units in scattered local storage sites—a fortunate situation for Thief River Falls and other nearby community residents. That will likely not be the case a year from now when such storage is likely to be in Arctic Cat's Ohio location.

"We were wading through snow drifts, breaking hasps on locks, stumbling around dark, unfamiliar storage areas with flashlights trying to find generators and pull them out," Adamson said. "I was wet up to my thighs.

"We knew people would need gas and oil to run the generators, so we arranged to distribute them out of Pennington Main where we could service them and the buyers could start and use them as soon as they got home. We also sold some units at the Arctic Cat parking lot, primarily to Arctic Cat employees."

Callers Complain

It was Tuesday morning when Adamson heard that callers to the Coffee Time program on KTRF radio had complained of high pricing of items, including generators, during the emergency. It almost made him wish he had told the first caller the business was closed and gone back to sleep.

Sales At A Discount

"Not only did we not raise prices," Adamson told the Northern Watch, "we sold all models at the discount prices we were offering as a show special at our display at the Home, Sport and Family Show." The show scheduled for Saturday and Sunday at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center was canceled after the first day due to the power outage.

Adamson showed us his catalog price list with dealer cost and suggested retail prices and the discount prices actually charged to purchasers. His margin ranged from about $40 on the smallest 750-watt unit which sold for $569 to about $200 on the largest 4,000 watt unit which sold for $1,849.

Generators Are Like Cars

"Generators are like cars," he explained. "You can buy a Chevette or a Cadillac and both will get you from here to there, but there is a lot of difference in how you travel. Arctic Cat has a very high quality

MPCA will enforce septic system law

Beginning in April, the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA) will step up enforcement of a state law regulating septic-system installers and other septic-system contractors. The crackdown is part of a four-year, phased plan to implement the statewide law on septic systems that went into effect in 1994, MPCA officials said.

The announcement was made despite efforts underway in the state legislature this session to make changes in the state's septic system law.

The MPCA officials said its enforcement project aims primarily at septic-system contractors who are working without a registration or license. Until now the MPCA has preferred to educate and assist contractors to comply with the law rather than assess penalties, but violators now will be subject to possible monetary penalties and other enforcement tools, including criminal prosecution in extreme cases.

"Since 1994 we've been working closely with septic-system contractors operating in Minnesota to implement the new law, and the vast majority of them are complying just fine," states Gretchen Sabel, MPCA septics program supervisor. "But there are still some who are not abiding by the law, and we're going to start getting tougher with them.

"It would be pretty hard to claim ignorance of the law by this point in the game," Sabel added. "For the most part, contractors who are not complying are choosing not to comply."

The only exceptions to the licensing requirements for septic-system contractors are for qualified state and local employees, employees of a licensed business who are under the licensee's direct supervision, and farmers who pump and dispose of their own sewage wastes on land they own or lease.

Sabel said the enforcement project also will tighten scrutiny of contractors who are licensed but are not performing quality work. Assistance and education will still be offered in such cases, she said.

"Improper septic systems can pollute ground and surface waters, causing disease and other health and environmental problems," Sabel said. "The licensing program protects consumers by assuring that contractors have proper training and meet insurance and bonding requirements."

For more information on the requirements of the law or the MPCA's contractor licensing program, contact the MPCA at 1-612-296-6300 or toll-free at 1-800-657-3864.

Northwest counties get disaster declaration

Twenty-one counties have been declared a major disaster area, following a request to President Clinton by Minnesota Governor Arne Carlson. The disaster declaration was signed by President Clinton Tuesday evening and makes the counties eligible for federal aid to cover damage caused since March 21 by flooding, severe storms, snow melt, high winds, rain and ice.

Counties included in the declaration are Benton, Big Stone, Brown, Chippewa, Clay, Kittson, Lac Qui Parle, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake, Roseau, Sherburne, Stearns, Swift, Traverse, Washington, Wilkin, Wright and Yellow Medicine. In his request to President Clinton, Gov. Carlson reserved the right to add counties to the declaration as conditions warrant.

FEMA Director James Lee Witt said the declaration covers damage from flooding, severe winter storms, snow melt, high winds, rain and ice starting March 21. Two previous major disasters were declared for the state earlier this year as a result of snow and ice storms last November and for this January's blizzard.

The aid, to be coordinated by FEMA, can include grants to help pay for temporary housing, minor home repairs and other serious disaster-related expenses. Low interest loans from the U.S. Small business Administration also will be available to cover residential and business losses not fully compensated by insurance.

Under the declaration, federal funds also will be provided for the state and affected local governments in the 21 designated counties to pay 75 percent of the eligible cost for debris removal and emergency services related to the disaster, and for approved projects that reduce future disaster risks. Witt said that more counties and other assistance for state and local government agencies may be designated later based on the results of ongoing damage assessments.

How to apply for Assistance

John McKay, of FEMA's national office in Washington, D.C., was named by Witt to coordinate the federal relief effort. McKay said that residents and business owners who sustained losses in the designated counties can begin the disaster application process by calling 1-800-462-9029, or 1-800-462-7585 (TDD) for the hearing and speech impaired. The toll-free telephone numbers will be available starting Wednesday, April 9, from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. (CT) seven days a week until further notice.

Assistance for affected individuals and families can include, as required:

- Rental payments for temporary housing for those whose homes are unlivable. Initial assistance is provided for up to three months for homeowners and at least one month for renters. Assistance may be extended if requested after the initial period based on a review of individual applicant requirements.
- Grants for minimal repairs not covered by insurance to make damaged homes habitable.
- Unemployment payments up to 26 weeks for workers who temporarily lost jobs because of the disaster and who do not qualify for state benefits, such as self-employed individuals.
- Low-interest loans to cover residential losses not fully compensated by insurance. Loans available up to $200,000 for primary residents, $40,000 for personal property, including renter losses. Loans available up to $1.5 million for business property losses not fully compensated by insurance.
- Loans up to $1.5 million for small businesses that have suffered disaster-related cash flow problems and need funds for working capital to recover from the disaster's adverse economic impact. This loan in combination with a property loss loan cannot exceed a total of $1.5 million.
- Loans up to $500,000 for farmers, ranchers and aquaculture operators to cover production and property losses, excluding primary residence.
- Other relief programs: Crisis counseling for those traumatized by the disaster, income tax assistance for filing casualty losses, advisory assistance for legal, veterans bene-

Dale Svendsgaard, driver for T.H.E. Bus in Thief River Falls, delivered dozens of people to safe havens in the April 6 blizzard and power outage. Svendsgaard, and dispatcher Shannon Olson, received a special commendation this week from the Tri-Valley Opportunity Council and a public "thank you" from Thief River Falls Mayor Robert Reeve.

Blizzard brings out Heartland Express bus

When a Sunday morning blizzard and power outage shut down transportation and communication across the region April 6, Shannon Olson and Dale Svendsgaard knew the had the key to safety and heat.

Olson, the dispatcher for the Tri-Valley Heartland Express, received special authorization from her supervisor, Kent Ehrenstrom, to put the 21 passenger bus in Thief River Falls into service, evacuating residents already suffering from a widespread power outage.

"I woke up and found my house frigid and all I could think of was a way to get other folks to a warm, safe, place," said Olson.

That place turned out to be Challenger Elementary School in Thief River Falls, which is powered independently by a diesel generator, a safe haven with heat and lights that would shelter nearly 100 people in a power crisis that lasted more than 36 hours.

Herself without heat or lights, Olson dispatched dozens of calls for rides from her home in Thief River Falls. "Dale took the bus out about 10 a.m. and we just ran non-stop. The cell phones on the bus failed, so he had to stop by my house after every run to pick up the roster for his next load. We took people out to Challenger, and also to St. Bernard's school and church, they had heat, and to the hospital and Oakland Park Nursing Home. It was quite a day."

Ehrenstrom says no one was charged for the service. "We asked the local radio station, KTRF, to broadcast the telephone number and they just took it from there. The calls poured in. I don't know how Shannon and Dale kept up, but, we are very, very proud of their effort." Ehrenstrom says, based on their experience in Thief River Falls, the Norman County bus is standing ready to serve the communities of Hendrum and Halstad.

Wednesday morning, Thief River Falls Mayor Robert Reeve broadcast a public thank you to Olson and Svendsgaard for service above and beyond the call of duty. "We had a lot of thank yous to hand out, the Tri-Valley bus included. Their effort was incredible and quite typical of the way the community pulled together in this crisis."

Solid Waste Integrated Systems
Of Pennington County L.P.

April 3, 1997

To Our Friends and Neighbors in Pennington County:

Please bear with us as we get into our spring cleanup.

We appreciate your patience as we struggle to recover from a very difficult winter and the after effects of the fire last year.

We have engaged the services of the Prowler Football Squad and others to assist in our community cleanup endeavors.

Please understand that we are also taking preventive measures to alleviate litter problems.

We are and will do our best to continue to earn the trust you have placed in us to bring you one of the highest recycling rates in the state.

Sincerely,

Bob Kruse

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Seems we had a mighty short summer and winter has returned. In this nasty winter weather, with floods approaching, it is a good time to have some hot, nourishing soup recipes on hand, just in case one has to feed a bunch of workers. Here are some new ones I just got from my cousin and they would be perfect for those tired, cold flood fighters. Buy the ingredients to have on hand for emergencies next week or make up some batches ahead of time and freeze. To all of you, good luck, and may the flood waters not lap on your doorstep.

Since broccoli is on sale this week, I plan to make his soup this weekend.

BEST BROCCOLI SOUP

2 cups water
4 cups chopped fresh broccoli (1-1/2 pounds)
1 cup chopped celery
1 cup chopped carrots
1/2 cup chopped onion
6 tablespoons butter
6 tablespoons flour
3 cups chicken broth
2 cups milk
1 tablespoon fresh minced parsley
1 teaspoon onion salt
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
1/2 teaspoon salt

In a large soup kettle or dutch oven, bring water to a boil. Add broccoli, celery and carrots and boil 2-3 minutes. Drain and set vegetables aside.

In the same kettle, saute onion in butter until tender. Stir in flour to make a smooth paste and then gradually add broth and milk, stirring constantly. Bring to boil and boil and stir for 1 minute.

Add vegetables and remaining ingredients. Reduce heat, cover and simmer for 30-40 minutes, until vegetables are tender.

(Makes 2 quarts - serves 6-8 people.)

This is a quick-to-fix soup that is filled with good things:

BEEF NOODLE SOUP

1 pound ground beef
1/2 cup chopped onion
2 cans (14-1/2 ounces each) Italian stewed tomatoes
2 cans (10-1/2 ounces each) beef broth
1 16 ounces can mixed vegetables, drained
1 teaspoon dried oregano
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 cup uncooked medium, egg noodles

In a soup kettle or Dutch oven, brown beef and onion. Drain. Add tomatoes, broth, vegetables and seasonings. Bring to a boil and add noodles.

Reduce heat to medium-low, cover and cook for 10-15 minutes or until noodles are tender. (Makes 2 quarts, serves 6-8 people.)

This recipe will serve a nourishing meal to about 20 people:

VEGETABLE BEEF SOUP

1 beef chuck roast (2-1/2 to 3 pounds)
4 quarts water
1 cup pearl barley
1-1/2 cups celery
1 tablespoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1 (28 ounces) can tomatoes (cut up) with liquid
1-1/2 cup chopped carrots
1 (16 ounce) bag frozen mixed vegetables
1/4 cup minced fresh parsley
1/2 teaspoon dried basil
1/4 teaspoon dried thyme
1/4 teaspoon garlic salt

Place roast in large Dutch oven or soup kettle. Add water, barley, onion, celery, salt and pepper. Bring to a boil.

Reduce heat, cover and simmer for 1 hour and 15 minutes or until meat is tender.

Remove meat and cool. Cut into bite-sized pieces.

Skim fat from broth and add beef pieces and remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer for 45 minutes or until vegetables are tender.

(Recipe make 6 quarts, serves 15-20 people.)

This would be a great soup to serve with sandwiches or sloppy joes:

CREAMY VEGETABLE SOUP

3 cups thinly sliced carrots
1 cup chopped onion
2/3 cup chopped celery
1-1/2 cups diced, peeled potatoes
1 garlic clove, minced
1/2 teaspoon sugar
2 teaspoons cooking oil
4 cups chicken broth
Dash of ground nutmeg
Pepper to taste

In soup kettle of Dutch oven, saute carrots, onion, celery, potatoes, garlic and sugar in oil over medium-low heat for 5 minutes.

Add broth, nutmeg and pepper and bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer for 30-40 minutes, until vegetables are tender.

Remove from heat and cool to room temperature. Puree in batches in a food processor or blender. Return to kettle and heat through.

(Recipe makes 1-1/2 quarts, serves 4.)

Services will be held on Monday, April 14, at 11 a.m. at Hosanna Lutheran Church, 9600 163rd Street West, Lakeville. Visitation will be at the Burnsville Funeral Home, 12804 Nicollet Avenue South, on Sunday from 2 to 6 p.m.

Interment will be at Bethlehem Lutheran Cemetery, New Sollem township, near Thief River Falls, on Tuesday, April 15, at 10 a.m.

Allen Embury, 81

Oshkosh, WI — Allen Embury, 81, Oshkosh, WI, died Thursday, April 10.

He graduated from high school in Rochester, and attended Carlton College.

He is survived by wife JoAnn, several children, one sister Marjorie, Paris, IL, and brother Russ Embury of Thief River Falls.

A complete obituary will following in the next edition of The Times.

Bernard Blokzyl, 71

Crookston — Bernard (Bud) Blokzyl, 71, Crookston, died Thursday, April 10, 1997, at Riverview Hospital in Crookston.

Funeral services were held 10:30 a.m. on Saturday, April 12, at the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception in Crookston.

Interment will be in Calvary Cemetery at Crookston.

A complete obituary will appear in the next edition of The Times.

Deer Hunters banquet set for April 14

Originally scheduled for Monday, April 7, but postponed due to the area's widespread power outage, the 12th annual fund-raising banquet of the Thief River Falls chapter of the Minnesota Deer Hunters Association has been rescheduled for Monday, April 14.

The banquet will begin at 7 p.m. at the Eagles hall with all arrangements the same as originally planned except the later date.

To The Editor:

Well, Blizzard Hannah has come and gone, but the aftereffects will be felt for a long time. We will be talking about this storm for years to come. Every time a snowflake falls, we will remember and maybe even grow anxious.

Too bad it takes a disaster or near disaster to bring a community or communities together for a common cause—but together we did come.

There are so many people and businesses to thank it is impossible to name them all. For some, names will never be known.

Some very important people were the employees at the power plant who kept the hospital, law enforcement center and several businesses and homes supplied with power. My family was one of the fortunate to be in one of those homes on this power circuit. St. Bernard's church, the Methodist church and Challenger school were a God-send for many people.

And I would really be remiss if I didn't give a big thank you to KTRF radio. The job they did was just phenomenal. As for Todd McDonald, he was the "Paul Harvey of the North" and the people helping him were "Harvey's" staff. We cannot thank these people enough for their diligence, caring and concern for the people of the north. They really kept up the morale of many people.

Let us not forget to keep thanking the hard-working men and women who did such a wonderful job of getting the electricity back on. Theirs will be a long and tiring job to get everything back to normal.

Let us give thanks to our God for the many blessings He has bestowed on us...even when it storms.

Sincerely,
Mary Johnson

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Unless specified otherwise, the editorials are written by Editor Marvin Lundin and do not represent opinion of other staff members. Opinions in items from other publications may not coincide with the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

Our Crisis Was Harsh, But We Can Recover

For the younger generation which believes us older folks spent our younger years watching TV by candlelight, the power outage of last Sunday and Monday was a revelation. The relatively few people who found refuge in community shelters bears testimony to the resourcefulness (or maybe the stubbornness) of most residents of the area.

Many people, of course, took temporary residence, brief respites and warm meals with relatives, friends or neighbors who had emergency power or propane, kerosene or wood-burning devices. Discomfort was common and damage to homes did happen from water seepage or freezing pipes. In general, however, we seem to have been spared loss of human life or catastrophic loss and should have gained substantial survival wisdom from the experience.

Each person in the area has a tale to tell, and it has been interesting listening to many of them. There were livestock losses where water supplies were unavailable. Other livestock producers were able to obtain generators or water supplied by community fire trucks, such as in the areas of St. Hilaire and Red Lake Falls, which had electric service available.

At the Vernon and Sheila Nelson farm near Newfolden, two problems were combined into a solution. The Nelsons and their sons Scott, 27 and Jeremy, 22—partners in an 83-animal beef operation—dipped water seeping into the house cellar with five-gallon buckets and carried it to the barn for thirsty cattle. Up to eight cows were calving at one time during the power outage, and between trips with water buckets the Nelsons pulled calves while holding flashlights in their mouths.

One calf died, according to Sheila Nelson, who is music instructor at Marshall County Central high school in Newfolden and in the midst of rehearsal for the school's annual musical. But another produced twin calves which both survived to keep the calf crop at 100 percent.

This is just one of the thousands of stories from this blip in the scan of time, a reminder of the extent to which we have become dependent on others and on the adoption of technology.

Here at The Times and Northern Watch office in the downtown business area, we were properly one of the last in the city to have power restored. In our heavily computerized operation, we were truly powerless without electric service. By the same token, however, once power was back on line, we were able to produce our April 9 edition of The Times in a single long day Tuesday, largely as a result of the time-saving capabilities of computerization.

Today's issue of the Northern Watch contains a number of public opinion letters, most of which address circumstances related to the power outage, shelters and other types of assistance. The paper also has news stories on the electrical recovery process and apparently unfair rumors of price gouging. We will be working on other follow-up stories for the April 16 edition of The Times.

Our thanks and admiration go to the hundreds of electric crew members who live in Minnesota and North Dakota and those who came here from other areas and battled extremely harsh conditions and tortuously long hours to bring most of us back more rapidly to a semblance of normalcy than we had a right to expect. Of all the heroes and helpers who emerged in what was really only a mini-crisis for most of us, they stand out above the rest.

One couldn't help but think how fortunate this area's people were in comparison to those who had the same problems we did plus the flooding of homes and businesses to an unprecedented extent.

And carrying that thought to the next level, even those victims may have gained some little appreciation for the plight of those people in war-torn nations whose lives are a constant struggle for heat, for food, for their very survival with little if any hope that the crisis will pass or there will be resources for recovery.

Our area has suffered hardships of varying degree, to be sure, but we can take consolation from the knowledge these days will pass and there are better times ahead. To be compelled to live without such hope must be tragic indeed.

To The Editor:

At 1:25 a.m. Sunday an event occurred that brought us back to the "Ice Age." My family and I will no longer take electricity for granted. None of us recalls a time when we went so long without it.

As a member of the "Northern Minnesota Coffee Club" (a club that most of us belong to), I began at approximately 11 a.m. to get a "coffee bean" anxiety attack. Since I didn't have a generator or a wood stove, I looked to heaven and said, "God, what am I to do?" When I heard no reply, I dropped my head to my kitchen table so that I might begin to wallow in self pity in earnest.

As I raised my head, I saw in front of me the answer to my dilemma. Printed on my empty coffee cup were the words "Northwest Medical Center." My excitement grew. I knew that since they had auxiliary backup power, they must have coffee! Off to the hospital I went, and there in the cafeteria was the mother of all coffee makers—a bottomless coffee machine. God had heard my cries of thirst for "black bean nectar," and I knew then that He does, indeed, perform miracles.

I filled three thermoses with gluttonous selfishness. I was willing to pay through the nose for these carafes of the finest coffee ever made, but when I got to the till and asked how much, the cashier smiled and said, "Don, you know we don't charge for coffee." Now that, I thought, is service!

All of this leads me to wonder how we would have survived these past few days without some of the services that were provided to us. Besides providing medical services (and coffee!), NWMC also provided shelter for many people. They were able to do this because of the power plant—think of the many communities which no longer utilize theirs.

Then we have the fire department, the many city and county employees, and the law enforcement who worked long hours, the stores that remained open so they could provide us with food and gas, the school district and churches that provided shelter.

KTRF provided us with more information than a television station could have had we been able to get one, and acted as a link between communities to help people get messages to loved ones and find supplies that they needed.

And last, but not least, we have the residents of our city who showed that when necessary we can all work together for the good of the community.

To be a hub in northern Minnesota, one needs five emergency elements:

(1) A hospital and shelters; (2) standby power; (3) a radio station (TV didn't work); (4) food and gas; and (5) people willing to work together.

I think the anchor we threw out this week firmly established us as the hub of Northwest Minnesota. Good going, TRF!

Sincerely,
Don A. Sollom

To The Editor:

I want to give a very special thanks to Duane Anderson of Thief River Falls for coming to my house after midnight due to his very special work load and pumping all that water—almost to the knees—out of my basement. He got my furnace going so I could get warm again after three days with no heat.

What a nice feeling to find someone in Thief River Falls with such concern and caring. There are things that get hard for a person to do—like this was—being alone and with no family here at all. Bless your heart, Duane Anderson; it's deeply appreciated.

To The Editor:

I wish to be one of the first to thank the people of the Catholic Church for their care and kindness to us refugees of the power failure. We were transported and fed and cared for like royalty. We were also entertained and given a sleeping place. It meant a lot to us. Thanks again.

Sincerely,
Marian Williams

To The Editor:

We would like to take this time to thank Independent School District No. 564 for opening up Challenger Elementary School for a place for people to go to be warm and dry during our recent storm.

Without the generosity of the school district there would have been a lot of hungry, wet and cold people with no place to go. Thanks to all of the staff and the volunteers who helped in so many different ways. And again, thanks to School District 564.

Sincerely,
The Tim Weeding and Brian Jacobson families

LETTERS

To The Editor:

During the recent power outage, the United Methodist Church had the pleasure of opening its doors around the clock as an emergency shelter. The Fire Department was furnished with electricity from the back-up generators and it was our good fortune to be on the same power supply.

Over the course of Sunday afternoon through Tuesday morning, our church was a safe (and warm!) haven for about 45 people. During the same time period, approximately 60-80 people were served hot food within our facility.

Now that power has been restored through most of the area, I am reflecting on all the sincere thanks that need to be extended. First of all, special gratitude is extended to Mark Johnson of Northern State Bank, and also to Tom Wang. These two men were gracious enough to provide transportation to and from the church for many of our guests, as well as food, cots and movies.

Secondly, I am thankful for the people at the Fire Department and Law Enforcement Center for their loan of cots and blankets, and I am also grateful to the Law Enforcement Center and SuperValu grocery for the donations of food.

Last but certainly not least, thanks are also in order to all the volunteers who helped in every way. As usual, they are far too numerous to mention by name.

It was a tremendous blessing for our church family to have the opportunity to provide assistance for those in need. It was our gift to the people in the area, and we are truly thankful for the help we received as we provided this service.

Sincerely,
Rev. Bill Kerr
United Methodist Church
Thief River Falls

To The Editor:

As someone who spent all day Sunday, Monday and part of the day on Tuesday in the shelter provided by St. Bernard's Catholic church, I must take this opportunity to say thank you to those of you who provided your services to keep our families fed and warm.

The cold outside was no match for your warm hearts in giving of your time and talents; the darkness caused by the loss of power could not compete with your warm smiles; Your sleepless nights in dealing with all of the problems associated with a power loss of this magnitude helped us all to sleep a little better at night.

I would like to extend a very special thank you to the following businesses and people who went out of their way to make our "stay" a bit more bearable:

SuperValu Foods, especially Mike Howard, Renee Parcheta and Ross Dazell, your efforts in keeping us stocked with food and making deliveries is very much appreciated;

Bridgeman's, a big thank you for the milk and ice cream;

Pepsi-Cola, for the pop provided both as beverages and as prizes for Bingo;

Company B of the National Guard, for providing the cots, blankets and sleeping bags;

Pennington County Sheriff's Office and Thief River Falls Police Department, for delivering the supplies from the armory and for providing rides to the shelter for those who needed them;

KTRF, your extraordinary efforts in keeping us informed 24 hours a day helped to keep us sane,

St. Bernard's Catholic Church, school and Father Bob LaPlante, I could never express my gratitude for your services and the use of your facilities;

Ione Gonsorowski and those who volunteered in the kitchen to keep the hot meals rolling; Lon Gobell for the meat; Pat and Pete Gaffaney for their services; Tom Greelis for the beverages and the turkeys; School District 564 and Tri-Valley Heartland Express for providing busing; the City of Thief River Falls and surrounding area line crews for working under the harshest of conditions to restore the power supply —sincerest thanks to you all.

To everyone else who brought in food supplies, board games, radios and playing cards, answered phones, set up cots, moved tables, served food, drove people to and from the shelter, kept the kids entertained with movies and games, and many other items too numerous to mention, your contributions are greatly appreciated.

I know that this list is not all inclusive and doesn't even come close to mentioning all of the fantastic people who worked to make this past weekend as comfortable as possible for those stranded by the storm. It does show, however, that the city of Thief River Falls has not outgrown the small town spirit of people helping people and for that reason we should all be proud to call Thief River Falls our home.

Sincerely,
Michael Melby

Funeral services for Horbert Holthusen, 87, a native of the Grygla area and long-time contractor and operator of the Fourtown Store, were held Saturday, April 5, at Grace Lutheran Church in Grygla. This photo submitted for publication was inadvertently omitted from the obituary on the April 9 issue of the Thief River Falls Times. Herbert Holthusen died April 1 at his home in Steenerson township of Beltrami county.

Four at Lincoln receive awards for scholarship

Four students at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls have been named certificate winners in the Technology Scholars program sponsored by Tandy Corporation.

Reid Froiland, son of Barry and Susan Froiland, was the school nominee and received a certificate. He was in competition for 100 scholarships of $1,000 each with more than half of the high schools in the United States nominating candidates.

Joining Froiland as recipients of certificates as outstanding math/science/computer science students were Megan Browning, daughter of Duane and Suzanne Browning; Paul Kopari, son of John and Joyce Kopari; and Elizabeth Odette, daughter of Dave and Paulette Odette.

Marquis is Goodridge MVP

Benji Marquis was named the most valuable player on the 1996-97 Goodridge boys high school basketball team, it was announced this week.

Best defense honors also went to Marquis.

Other special recognition went to Chris Grabowska, most dedicated and Free Throw Award; Darrin Arveson, most improved; Jared Eidelbes, Husky Hustle; Jim Scheef, Coaches Award, and Shannon Lundeen, manager recognition.

Fueled by a strong start, the Huskies finished 17-8 this winter, won the Polar Conference title and gained a share of the North Tri-County Conference crown with Clearbrook-Gonvick.

"I thought it was a very good season," said Goodridge coach Eric Mickelson. "We're happy with 17-8. Winning the conference titles were two of our goals this year, and we accomplished that."

The Huskies started 4-0 and won five of their first six games.

"It was a good start," acknowledged Mickelson. "We developed some confidence when we picked up wins early over teams like Clearbrook-Gonvick and Badger/Greenbush-Middle River."

Goodridge was 14-3 before stumbling at the end when Grabowska, a 6-3 senior who averaged a team-high 17.7 points and 9.1 rebounds per game, suffered an ankle injury. Following the injury, which first sidelined Grabowska, then left him playing at less than full strength, the Huskies were 3-5.

"I thought we could have finished a little stronger, but the injury to Grabowska had a lot to do with that," explained Mickelson. "The kids played hard without him in there, but you take your leading scorer and leading rebounder out of the line-up, you're going to feel it."

Marquis, a 6-1 senior, scored 8.5 points per game, and Arveson, a 6-3 senior, averaged 8.4 points and 8.2 rebounds per game.

"We lose six seniors," pointed out Mickelson. "Those kids have been an important part of this program. We'll certainly miss them."

In 6-3 Jim Scheef, 6-2 Jared Eidelbes and 6-1 Ben Hanson, the Huskies have three juniors to build around next winter. Scheef was a full-time starter this year, while Eidelbes and Hanson were part-time starters and top reserves.

The problem, however, could be lack of depth for a program that had just two sophomores on the roster this year.

Challenger School to host open gym night

Public is invited to participate in an open gym night at Challenger Elementary School in Thief River Falls Friday, April 18.

People of all ages are invited to participate in the event, scheduled to be held from 8 to 9:30 p.m.

Volleyball and basketball will be offered for adults and teens, with floor games and supervised free play planned for the younger children.

TRF men's softball meeting is Monday

Thief River Falls Men's Softball Association meeting will be held Monday, April 14, at 7 p.m. In Room 134 at Northland Community and Technical College.

It is very important, according to league officials, that you attend the brief meeting if you plan to field a team for the upcoming season.

Due to lack of fields in Thief River Falls, organizers need to have a count on the number of teams playing this summer in order to secure fields at alternate locations.

If you plan to have a team this year but can not attend the meeting, call Mike Carpenter at 681-8859 or 681-8106 to inform him of your plans.

Northland baseball opener is set back

Wednesday baseball doubleheader matching Northland Community and Technical College against the Concordia College junior varsity in Moorhead was postponed by the weather.

It was the second delay to the start of the 1997 season for the Pioneers, who are scheduled to play a four-game series at UND-Williston today (Saturday) and Sunday.

Changes listed for LHS sports teams

A number of changes have been made in the upcoming Lincoln High School spring sports schedule due to the weather, it was announced by Jim Sims, Director of Student Activities for School District 564.

List of postponements start today (Saturday) with a double-dual tennis match up against Detroit Lakes and Alexandria at Detroit Lakes, a softball game vs. Lake of the Woods at Baudette, and an appearance at the Bemidji Invitational boys and girls track meet.

The Prowlers' 1997 baseball opener was delayed when games Monday vs. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River and Tuesday vs. Red Lake County – both at Irv Wilson Field – were called off.

Make-up dates will be announced later.

LHS Bench Press Championship set

The 12th annual Lincoln High School Bench Press Championship will be held Wednesday, May 7, in the Lincoln auxiliary gym.

Weigh-in will start at 7:30 p.m. Competition begins at 8 o'clock in four divisions – light weight, 0-145 pounds, middle weight, 146-170 pounds; light-heavy weight, 171-204 pounds; and heavy weight, 205 pounds and over.

Top three lifters in each weight class will be presented with a plaque.

Prowlers' tennis team starts season indoors

Thief River Falls boys opened their 1997 high school tennis season Thursday by playing East Grand Forks twice.

Originally scheduled to be a double-dual in East Grand Forks against the Green Wave and Moorhead, the matches were moved into the Grand Forks Tennis Centre because of the cool weather, and the Spuds cancelled due to the flooding conditions in the Fargo-Moorhead area.

Thief River Falls fields a veteran team this spring, with seniors Jacob Broten, Matt Gustafson, Jeremy Treitline and Brock Walseth, along with sophomore Tom Fogarty all playing regularly last year when the Kim Maidment-coached Prowlers reached the North Sub-Section 8AA team finals.

Sophomores Darin Bjerknes, Josh Cahalan and Andy Janisch were also lettermen last spring.

Rest of the squad members in grades 9-12 include senior Josh Engevik; juniors Michael Hahne and Josh Holmes, sophomores Allen Bolar, Robby Dahlen, Jayme Holmes, Joey Pribula, Derek Placek, and Matt Winjum, along with freshmen Aaron Lendobeja, Matt Lutovsky, Bailey Nordin, and Shane Peterson.

YOUTH WRESTLING

Annual Thief River Falls Takedown Club Big Cat team and individual youth wrestling tournament was conducted April 4-5 in the Lincoln High School gym.

Fertile won the Friday round-robin team competition, followed by Fosston, Thief River Falls and Roseau.

Saturday, close to 200 wrestlers were on hand for the Big Cat Open individual matches.

Gloryland Gospel Team at Lutheran Brethren Church

A special program of Gospel music and message will be presented by the Gloryland Gospel Team of Gully at the Faith Lutheran Brethren Church in Thief River Falls on Sunday, April 13, at 7 p.m.

The team is composed of Rev. Gary and Lois Johnson and their four children and David and Brenda Johnson and their three children. The team has been ministering since 1969 in evangelism and revival ministries.

The public is cordially invited to attend. A freewill offering will be received.

Academy's spring program re-set for Sun., April 13

Our Saviour's Christian Academy's spring program and fund-raiser which was postponed from last Sunday has been re-scheduled for Sunday, April 13, at 1:30 p.m. in our Saviour's Lutheran Church.

Bill Rust, area educator and clergyman, will speak on "Our Godly Heritage." Students of the academy will be featured in the program and refreshments will be served. The public is invited to attend.

'March for Parks' event at Lake Bronson Park

Area supporters of Lake Bronson State Park can show that support by joining in the "March for Parks" event Saturday, April 19, beginning at 12 noon at the park picnic shelter.

Hiking or biking will take place along a designated route at the park and free refreshments will be available at the mid-point and finish of the "march." All participants will also be eligible to win any one of dozens of prizes provided by local area merchants.

Donations are being requested at this event to raise money for park playground equipment. Created by the National Parks and Recreation Association, March for Parks is the nation's largest Earth Day event.

March participants at Lake Bronson should arrive at the park from 12 noon to 12:30 p.m. on April 19. In case of rain, the march will take place on Sunday, April 20. Vehicle permits are required to enter the park.

"The Blenders" concert re-set for May 12th

Postponed due to the blizzard and power outage which struck the area early Sunday morning, the concert by "The Blenders" has been rescheduled for Monday, May 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium in Thief River Falls.

Tickets purchased in advance will be honored at the May 12 event. More tickets are available at Kezar Music or may be purchased at the door.

PC DESKTOP SUPPORT SPECIALIST

Digi-Key is one of the fastest growing electronic component distributors in the U.S., with an annual growth rate of nearly 30%. We currently serve over 164,000 customers, process more than 850,000 orders, and handle over 968,000 shipments per year.

Our state-of-the-art hardware and software applications allow our approximately 700 employees to process this large volume of transactions efficiently and accurately. The application software is interactive on-line, and supports Order-Entry, Invoicing, Customer Maintenance, Accounts Receivable, Inventory Control and other systems. The entire system has been developed in-house and is currently supported by a systems group of 24 personnel. The management is keenly aware of the advantages the integrated software system provides the company, and fully supports continued enhancement and expansion of the data processing function.

Digi-Key is seeking a person experienced in PC Desktop support and Windows NT server administration. This position will provide the opportunities and challenges involved with supporting over 50 desktop computers in a local networked environment. A four year undergraduate degree is preferred. A minimum of two years experience with PCs in a network environment with excellent troubleshooting and configuration skills is required. This position requires excellent communication skills including the ability to resolve problems working with IS peers and information technology vendors. Must be able to work in a team environment.

- Experience with Windows NT system administration
- Experience with Windows 95 installation, configuration, and support
- Experience with Windows and TCP/IP networking
- Experience with MS Windows based application integration (MS Access, MS Word, MS Excel, MS Powerpoint, Lotus123)
- Experience with Windows Registry support and Windows policy file support
- Experience with MS Internet Explorer or Netscape Navigator
- Experience with Visual Basic for MS-Office scripting
- Possess exceptional problem solving skills
- Outstanding communications skills, both written and verbal
- Knowledge of DEC Pathworks / ODBC helpful
- Internet experience and HTML or Java a plus
- Must be willing to occasionally work weekends and evenings

Digi-Key feels that with its unbeatable benefits package, and the excellent working environment, the position offers real advantages to those with technical abilities who prefer to live in a rural setting without sacrificing a very real potential for career advancement.

Price gouging rumors lack substantiation

generator made by Suzuki that has features not available on other brands that sell for less. A lot of the generators we sold Sunday through Tuesday will be on the buyers' estate sales and still going strong."

Adamson said he had already received a repair call from the buyer of another brand whose new unit ran out of oil and put a rod through the block. "I had to tell him he had bought a disposable generator," Adamson said. "Arctic generators have automatic idle down or shutoff when low on oil."

300 Generators Sold

Through the course of the emergency period, RV Sports sold about 300 generators. For the most part the buyers were pleased to be able to get them and a number have called to thank Randy and Loren for helping them out of a bad spot. Some of the buyers of larger units shared the emergency power with neighbors for home heating or water pumping. Others used them to care for livestock, including powering milking machines.

Honor System Sales

In the rush to provide service to as many people as possible as quickly as possible, RV Sports made its sales on an improvised honor system. Customers were asked for their name and telephone number, which were recorded with the model and serial number of the generator, and told they would be billed later. Prices were quoted for the units purchased and those were the prices being billed, Adamson said. As of late Wednesday, he had found several of the given phone numbers which had no answer or had been disconnected.

Petro Pumper Responds

Pat Gerszewski of Petro Pumper on Highways 1 and 59 west also responded to the suggestion of price gouging. He affirmed that it would be short sighted of any business to attempt such activity—even if disposed to do so—if it hoped to retain the confidence of its customers in the future.

"We don't buy our products in the volume that discount stores can," he said, "so our regular prices may be slightly higher because our costs are higher.

"For instance, I sell a five-gallon can of kerosene for $18. A person can buy in bulk for less than that, but my product costs me $15. If I can't make $3 a can, it isn't worth carrying. But $18 is my every day price and we ran out in a short time."

Gerszewski also said people sometimes don't realize what is involved in making sales. He said he had to rent a trailer-mounted generator and hire an electrician to connect it to his system in order to operate his pumps. He did this to provide a service because no other station able to operate at that time had diesel fuel available.

As for propane, he said he maintained his regular price despite the fact it took five minutes to fill a 20-pound tank instead of the normal 30 seconds. The electric powered pump which pressurizes the gas and accelerates the filling operation was out of service and tank filling had to be done by gravity feed which takes much longer.

"Most of our customers were grateful we were open and able to meet their needs," Gerszewski said. "In the emergency situation they were in many probably would have been willing to pay a higher price to obtain what they needed, but we were just happy we were able to help them out."

Employees Hurt By Claims

Mike Barry, owner of Pennington Main, said his employees heard so many positive comments while waiting on the rush of customers Sunday and Monday that they were shocked and hurt when they heard people had complained of price gouging.

"I'm really proud of all of our employees who worked long hours to provide service to a community that needed help," Barry said. Not to discount the effort of any of the employees, their families and other workers who put forth exceptional effort, he especially cited the organizational work of controller Brian Kading, Pennington Main manager Kathy Peterson, Pennington Square manager Becky Barry (Pennington Square employees helped out at Pennington Main), and food service manager Marilyn Johnson and her family.

"Other businesses sold products at our store that people needed and they were sold at those businesses' regular prices," Barry added. "We did this as a service although it probably cost us money.

"When I think of the extra effort made by Bridgeman's and Hartz Foods employees and others to assure that the people's needs were met, it boggles my mind that anyone would be negative enough to think we would hike prices."

fits and social security matters.

Assistance for the State and Affected Local Governments can include, as required:

- Payment of 75 percent of the eligible costs for removing debris from public areas and for emergency measures taken to save lives and protect property and public health.
- Payment of 75 per cent of the approved costs for hazard mitigation projects undertaken by the state and local governments to prevent or reduce long-term risk to life and property from natural or technological disasters.

Further information regarding application procedures for local governments will be explained at a series of federal/state applicant briefings with locations to be announced.

Tax Relief

Congressman Collin Peterson (DFL-7th District) has been assured that the same tax relief recently granted to North Dakota and South Dakota by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) does apply to the counties in Minnesota that have been declared Presidential Disaster Areas.

"Those dealing with the floods in Minnesota have enough to deal with right now without having to remember that their taxes are due next week," Peterson said. "Not only that, but many people can't even get to their records in order to file their taxes."

Taxpayers in the Minnesota counties that have been declared disaster areas due to the flooding have until May 30, 1997, to file and pay their taxes. However, according to the IRS, interest must be charged for the original due date until the tax is paid.

Also, taxpayers who have an estimated tax installment due April 15 will not be penalized if that payment is made by May 30, 1997, the IRS cannot extend the deadline for employment or excise tax deposit, but it will abate penalties on tax deposits due during April if the undeposited taxes are deposited no lates than April 30, 1997; the IRS will suspend examination and collection activities through May 14 for all adversely affected taxpayers within the disaster areas.

When Minnesota taxpayers who are relying on flood-related relief send in their taxes, they should put the words "97 Floods" or something similar on the top of their return.

In addition, Minnesota State tax returns can also be filed by May 30, 1997, for those taxpayers in counties declared disaster areas. By law, interest must be charged from the original due date until the tax is paid.

Taxpayers may claim uninsured casualty losses on either their 1996 tax returns or their 1997 forms next year. Affected taxpayers should write the words "97 Floods" or similar language at the top of any return relying on flood-related relief.

Power Update

It's back to normal for residents of Thief River Falls. Power was out for almost 48 hours, but by 2:30 a.m. Tuesday power was returned to residents Arlo Rude, superintendent of utilities, said the city is still being fed from the Winter switch station, but residents can operate electrical equipment as they normally do. Rude said the water supply is fine and waste water system is fully operational.

Rude and his department is now in the process of gathering information regarding storm costs for federal disaster assistance.

Eighty-percent of PKM customers should be on line by Saturday, according to Chuck Riesen, PKM manager.

Despite the fact that the storm knocked down about 2,500 poles, PKM is moving quickly to solve the power outages. Riesen said nine workers from Thief River Falls utilities department are working with them along with 120 line workers from 23 cooperatives. They are using several digger-derricks to accomplish the tough work of replacing poles.

Thursday afternoon about half of their customers were on line. At the time, Riesen said crews were working primarily in the Hallock, Argyle, Tabor and Robbin area.

Service to Red Lake Electric Cooperative customers has been fully restored. Customers can return to use of their electricity as normal.

Red Lake Electric Cooperative reported five poles damaged by the storm. During the storm, roughly 4,400 of their 4,700 customers were without electricity.

As of 5 p.m. Wednesday, about 10,525 MinnKota Power Cooperative customers remained without power. The weekend storm and blizzard had cut power to more than 50,000 Minnkota-associated customers, and tens of thousands more throughout the region.

A total of 550 69kV structures are known to be down, 101 345kV structures, and three of four 230kV lines. The 345kV line (Fargo to Valley City section) will likely be out of service for three to four months. Crews are working on these lines to restore power. MinnKota has 75 employees, including 27 lineworkers, in its electrical operations division working on power restoration. In addition there are 151 lineworkers assisting from various other cooperatives and power companies.

Plans are to have all substations restored to service by Saturday at midnight.

Hwy. 220 closed between Marshall County 4 and 5

Friday morning, Minnesota State Patrol has announced that Highway 220 is closed between Marshall County 4 and 5. Water over the road is necessitating the closure. They also report that water is over Highway 75 at Noyes, but it has not been closed yet.

Vehicles collide near Carpenter's Corner

Moderate damage occurred to vehicles involved in a collision one mile west of Carpenter's Corner.

Minnesota State Patrol received a report of the accident April 9 at 12:45 p.m. According to the accident report, Lea Ann Waldal, 17, Bemidji, was driving a car west and attempted a left turn when her vehicle collided with a Grand Forks County Sheriff's squad car driven by a deputy, Brian Michael Cheney, who was attempting to pass the Waldal vehicle. There was moderate damage to both vehicles. The accident remains under investigation.

WATCH AROUND THE REGION

Flood waters continue rise

Flood waters in northwestern Minnesota continued to rise last week. In Crookston, areas of the community were evacuated. In East Grand Forks/Grand Forks, the Sorlie and Point bridges were closed. Thousands of people were asked to report to volunteer coordinating centers for deployment to areas that needed people to fill sandbags. In Warren, streets were flooded and calls to nearby communities for assistance were made. Many area schools allowed students to participate in sandbagging operations.

To date, there have been relatively few injuries associated with the flooding. On Wednesday, a teenage girl drove around a barricade in Crookston and into the icy cold water where her car submerged. She was quickly rescued.

Flood of '97 gets started in Warren

By Tuesday evening, the flood waters were affecting virtually all areas in Warren south and east of the river, and east of the Burlington Northern-Santa Fe Railway tracks. By 8 p.m. Tuesday, the Snake River had risen to 849.5 feet (elevation) on the gauge at the Bridge Avenue Bridge. Warren Sheaf, April 16.

Conservation Corps joins flood fight

On April 13 at about noon about 30 members of the Minnesota Conservation Corps joined the ranks of volunteers fighting the rising waters in northwestern Minnesota.

John Voges, regional project coordinator for the Minnesota Conservation Corps, explained that the Corps has several groups stationed throughout Minnesota. These groups consist of men and women, ages 18 to 25, who perform tasks with every division of the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources. Tuesday, they came to Thief River Falls to help in the sandbagging effort.

By Wednesday fears in Thief River Falls began to abate as the river ice began to break up. Ten members of the group went to Warren, while the rest responded to an urgent situation just north of St. Hilaire at the Emil and Audrey Heieren residence. Flood waters were creeping up to their basement level for the second year in a row, and they needed help strengthening their dike.

The Heierens have lived at the residence for over 20 years and during that time, last year was the first time the waters of the Red Lake River flooded their basement. "I like to listen to Big Red in the Morning," said Emil. "Last year Big Red said it would be bad so I bought flood insurance, and it paid off," he said. Emil had plenty of advice on what it would cover and wouldn't cover, but was glad he had made the investment.

Wednesday, Emil was again moving things out of the basement in case of a flood. He had moved an oak door and door jam and was in the process of moving other items from the basement. Those things which he couldn't move or didn't have time to move, he put on cement blocks.

Pennington County Sheriff, Gerald Moe, Pennington County Emergency Director, requested assistance and found representatives of the conservation corps ready and willing to tackle the job.

Because the corps members had traveled from Fergus Falls, Detroit Lakes, Thief Lake, Fourtown, and Itasca, they needed a place to stay. Zion Lutheran Church stepped in to provide room and board for the corps.

One member of the Corps said Zion Lutheran Church had been great. Another chimed in that some are thinking of changing religions.

Corps members receive numerous benefits by being a member of the corps, including funds that can be used toward their education. They also receive a great education in conservation. They participate in every division of the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, such as wildlife, forestry, trails, waterways, and parks. In two weeks, Voges said, some of the corps members might be participating in a prescribed burn, which seems ironic with so much water in the area.

Hundreds of volunteers, including high school students from Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls and Greenbush-Middle River showed up at the Eighth Street boat landing in Thief River Falls to fill sandbags. The sandbags were then loaded on Hartz Foods' trucks and transported to Warren where water has spilled over the levies and into the streets.

A member of the Minnesota Conservation Corps catches a sandbag. About 30 area representatives of the Corps responded to the request for assistance in northwestern Minnesota. Wednesday afternoon, they were reinforcing a sandbag wall at the Emil and Audrey Heieren residence just north of St. Hilaire on the Red Lake river. An ice jam on the bridge across the river at State Aid 3, was causing the water to rise.

Flood relief funding to come from many sources

As the record-setting floods recede from Minnesota, residents will be faced with a staggering clean-up bill. Funding for those costs will come from a number of sources, both at the state and federal levels.

In addition to funds from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and the Small Business Association (SBA), flood victims may receive help from the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program. These funds become available only after a National Disaster Declaration has been made by President Clinton and disaster funds approved through a special act of Congress. "At the initiation of Governor Carlson, a request for a national disaster declaration was made last week. The President has made that declaration and now we must wait to see how Congress will respond," explained Jay Novak, Commissioner of Trade and Economic Development.

This program, which is administered through the Department of Trade and Economic Development (DTED), target cases that may not be eligible for FEMA or SBA funds. DTED's Small Cities Development Program identifies flood projects that are eligible for CDBG funds, and targets small towns, cities, counties and rural areas that fall outside of large metro areas (which receive separate funding.) The program funds "Urgent Community Development Needs."

This includes funding for repairs to owner-occupied rental housing, infrastructure repairs (such as water and sewer), some commercial rehabilitation, and acquisition and demolition of structures in the flood plain.

"Our program really targets the gaps that are not covered by other federal programs. For example, we can provide funds to cover the cost of replacing municipal infrastructure that didn't actually break, but was inadequate to handle the problems that resulted from the disaster. We can also cover the cost of housing rehab for people who don't have insurance or some repayment ability. For many of those flood victims, these are the only federal funds for which they are eligible," said Novak.

While funding for FEMA and SBA programs can be funneled to the state in a relatively short time, the DTED funding takes longer for the state to acquire. "FEMA and SBA funds are always part of the federal flood response system," explained Louie Jambois, Small Cities Development Program Director. "Because Community Development Block Grant funds are rarely used to mitigate flood disasters, states must convince Congress that CDBG funds are needed to fill gaps left by other programs. If DTED doesn't receive an additional CDBG appropriation targeted solely for flood relief, local government applicants will not receive funding until our next annual funding cycle in 1998."

Following the flooding of 1993, the Small Cities Development Program realized $23.7 million to 61 communities around the state to assist with clean-up and recovery efforts.

For more information on this program contact Louis Jambois at 612-297-3172 or Teresa Morrow at 612-297-1192.

Governor Carlson said, "Programs like this are important as clean-up and recovery begin." He thanked volunteers and emergency workers for their assistance and urged people to continue to volunteer as the flood progresses and clean-up begins.

Interest high in sign-up for CRP-2 contracts

Summaries from northwest counties show applications exceeding existing totals

by Marvin Lundin
Northern Watch Editor

Reports from a number of northwestern Minnesota counties indicate that interest in the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP-2) under the new farm program was very high, although many potential applicants were not able to qualify their land for the program.

Statewide under the new program, as of April 15, there had been 18,249 offers made for enrollment of 1,024,280.9 acres. Number of offers and acres in northwestern Minnesota counties included the following.

Beltrami, 56 for 2,377 acres; Clearwater, 42 for 1,740 acres; Kittson, 476 for 64,384 acres; Lake of the Woods, 47 for 1,795 acres; Marshall, 970 for 112,552 acres; Pennington, 379 for 43,560 acres; East Polk, 345 for 28,212 acres; West Polk, 331 for 39,547 acres; Red Lake, 132 for 14,088 acres; and Roseau, 393 for 39,505 acres.

Pennington County

In Pennington county, there were 610 CRP-2 applications with 379 submitting bids. Of the total acres offered for enrollment, 27,632 are presently under CRP contract and 15,928 acres were not enrolled under the existing program. There were 176 applications determined to have no eligible acreage for signup.

Kittson County

In Kittson county, according to Kelly Turgeon of the Farm Service Agency, the eastern half of the county benefitted from the special conservation area declaration. He said that the county has about 63,000 acres of CRP-1 program contracts expiring this year and that nearly 95 percent of that land was offered under the new program.

Of all the applications received, only about 8,000 acres were determined to be not eligible in Kittson county. Turgeon said rental rates were slightly lower than under the previous program, ranging from $20 to the mid $50's per acre and averaging $35 to $37 per acre in comparison with about $43 under previous contracts.

Turgeon expects northwestern Minnesota counties to fare well with acceptance of bids since rates here are lower than in many areas of the nation. It will be mid-June before applicants will know if their bids have been accepted. There was high interest in re-seeding of cover, he added, mostly with legume and grass mixtures.

Roseau County

In Roseau county, FSA executive director Barbara Roseen says 750 offers were received for over 83,000 acres but only 392 were considered eligible to bid on 39,458 acres.

There are 53,400 acres of currently enrolled CRP land on which contracts will expire on Sept. 30, 1997. While 52,031 of these acres were offered for re-enrollment, only 21,863 acres met the eligibility criteria.

"This means that approximately 60 percent of the CRP scheduled to expire this fall will not be re-enrolled and is expected to revert back to cropland status," Roseen said. "Roseau county has only 10 townships designated as a priority area, which accounts for the low percentage of eligible acres.

"Some of the land that was determined ineligible has an approved CRP tree practice established. This is a concern to the landowners, who feel that they may have to tear up the trees as they cannot afford to set the land aside without some payment," the director adds.

"Currently, there are no provisions to allow re-enrollment of certain tree practices unless the land is in a priority area or meets other eligibility criteria, such as cropped wetlands or is highly erodible land (HEL)."

Red Lake County

Red Lake county currently has 46,986 acres in CRP. Of that, contracts on 43,526 acres will expire September 30, with the balance expiring Sept. 30, 1998. The county has 215,000 acres of total cropland, including CRP, according to Mike Philipp, director of the Red Lake County FSA office.

Under the new sign-up, there were 320 offers for 43,617 acres (33,246 of which were under present contract) but only 14,080 acres in 132 offers were considered eligible due to wetlands, highly erodible soils or the conservation priority area. Of the 14,080 acres being submitted for ranking, 11,594 are currently under CRP contract and 2,486 acres are not.

"As the law stands today," Philipp said, "we know that approximately 32,000 acres of current CRP will be coming out this fall, and possibly more, depending on what gets accepted. This will have a major impact in our county in many ways."

KEEPING WATCH AROUND THE REGION

Over 28,000 acres to come out of CRP

The month of March was a hectic one for Farm Service Agency personnel but signup in Red Lake county for the new conservation reserve program went fairly well. Mike Philipp, director for the Red Lake County FSA, said there are about 28,000 acres that will come out of production at the end of September, and that number can increase if not all the offers are accepted by the Federal government. The Gazette, April 16.

Items to be collected for Ada relief

Because of the extensive damage and continuing need for assistance, relief supplies for the community of Ada will continue to be collected at Trinity Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls and transported to the Salvation Army shelter site being operated at Ada.

As of Thursday afternoon, response since Sunday morning has resulted in four van and pickup loads of donated relief supplies being transported to Ada. Local donors have responded to inserts in the Trinity church bulletin and a general appeal broadcast by KKAQ and KTRF radio stations.

A special need exists for all cleaning products such as dish soap, laundry detergent, cleansers, Hilex brand bleach, rubber gloves and brushes. Rubber boots, quilts and flashlight batteries as well as all non-perishable food supplies are also in short supply.

The Salvation Army shelter has been providing meals for many hundreds of people each day as residents return to the community and attempt to restore their homes and business places. The city continues to be plagued with a weak and unstable power supply.

Many of the city's approximately 1,700 residents were evacuated when flood waters closed in on the community from three directions two weeks ago. Flood damage was compounded by near zero temperatures and a lengthy power outage which left sewage lift pumps inoperable, causing sanitary sewers to back up into many homes, churches and business places.

Persons wishing to donate items such as those listed above (clothing needs have been met and no more clothes are needed at this time) may continue to bring them to Trinity Monday through Friday until 4 p.m. or Sunday from 8 a.m. to noon. Financial donations may be brought or mailed to the church office and will be used to purchase additional needed items.

SWCD banquet at Redeemer Church

Postponed from Tuesday, April 8, due to the widespread area power outage of the previous two days, the annual banquet of the Pennington County Soil and Water Conservation District will take place Monday, April 21, at 6:30 p.m. at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls.

Awards will be presented to poster contest winners, recognition given to farm beautification and outstanding conservation families and entertainment provided by the "Resonance" men's quartet including Jim Matson, Joel Ranum, Van Swanson and Rev. Dennis Raymond.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Today we'll have some more easy, one-dish meals in case you plan to go sandbagging or will be helping your neighbors this weekend.

Make this dish the night before and your meal is ready with no preparation:

LAZY DAY OVERNIGHT LASAGNA

1 pound mild Italian sausage or hamburger
1 (32 ounce) jar prepared spaghetti sauce
1 cup water
1 (15 ounce) carton ricotta cheese
2 tablespoons chopped fresh chives
1/2 teaspoon dried oregano leaves
1 egg
8 ounces uncooked lasagna noodles
1 (16 ounce) package sliced mozzarella cheese
2 tablespoons grated parmesan cheese

Brown sausage or hamburger in large skillet. Drain well.

Add spaghetti sauce and water and blend well. Simmer 5 minutes.

In medium bowl, combine ricotta, chives, oregano and egg, mixing well.

In bottom of ungreased lasagna pan, spread 1 1/2 cups of meat mixture, half of noodles (uncooked), half of ricotta mixture and half of mozzarella.

Repeat with remaining noodles, ricotta and mozzarella and top with remaining meat sauce. Sprinkle with parmesan.

Cover and refrigerate overnight.

To bake, heat oven to 350 degrees, uncover dish and bake 50-60 minutes until noodles are tender and casserole is bubbly. Cover and let stand 15 minutes before serving.

(Serves 12.)

Serve this hearty dish to a hungry bunch:

BEAN QUARTET CASSEROLE

6 slices bacon
1 cup chopped onions
1 garlic clove, minced
1 (15.5 ounce) can butter beans, drained
1 (15.5 ounce) can great northern beans, drained
1 (15.5 ounce) can red kidney beans, drained
1 (15 ounce) can garbanzo beans, drained
3/4 cup ketchup
1/2 cup light molasses
1/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon mustard
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 small onion, sliced and separated into rings (for garnish)

Heat oven to 375 degrees.

Cook bacon in small skillet until crisp. Drain and reserve 2 tablespoons dripping in skillet. Crumble bacon and set aside.

Cook onions and garlic in reserved bacon fat until onions are tender but not browned. Drain.

In 2 1/2 quart casserole or bean pot, combine all beans, bacon, onion mixture, ketchup, molasses, brown sugar, Worcestershire sauce, mustard and pepper. Mix well, cover and bake at 375 degrees for 1 hour or until thoroughly heated.

Garnish with onion rings, if desired.

(Serves 12-14.)

Use your crock pot to make this tasty bean casserole - remember to start it the night before:

CASSOULET

1 pound dry navy beans
4 cups water
2 whole chicken breasts, skinned, boned and cut into 1-inch pieces
8 ounces cooked ham, cut into 1 inch slices
3 large carrots, sliced
2 medium onions, coarsely chopped
1 stalk celery, sliced
1/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 (8 ounce) can tomato sauce
2 tablespoons molasses

Sort beans, rinse well and drain. In slow cooker, soak beans overnight in water.

Next day, cover and cook on high setting for 3 hours. Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Cover and cook on high setting for an additional 3 to 4 hours or until beans are tender and chicken is no longer pink.

(Makes 10 1-cup servings.)

Another hearty meal in one:

MIDWESTERN FISH STEW

1/4 pound lean bacon, diced
1 cup sliced onions
2 cups chicken or fish broth
2 cups dry white wine or water
1 (14.5 ounce) can whole tomatoes, undrained and cut up
1 pound new red potatoes, quartered
1/2 cup minced fresh parsley
2 teaspoons minced fresh tarragon or 1 teaspoon dried
2 teaspoons minced fresh thyme or 1 teaspoon dried
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 cup julienne-cut red bell pepper
1 cup frozen cut green beans
6 frozen corn on the cob
1 1/2 pound boneless, skinless fish, cut into 1 inch pieces

Cook bacon until almost crisp in Dutch oven. Add onions and cook until tender. Drain and return to pot.

Add broth, wine, tomatoes, potatoes, parsley, tarragon, thyme and pepper. Bring to a boil.

Reduce heat to low and simmer, partially covered, 20-25 minutes or until potatoes are almost tender.

Add pepper, green beans, corn and fish. Bring to a boil and then reduce heat and simmer 7-9 minutes, until fish flakes easily with a fork.

(Makes 6 2-cup servings.)

A very tasty dish that is ready in minutes:

QUICK HUNGARIAN GOULASH

1 tablespoon oil
1 pound boneless beef sirloin, cut into thin strips
1 medium onion, coarsely chopped
1 medium green bell pepper, coarsely chopped
1 1/2 cups water
1 (14 or 16 ounce) can diced, peeled tomatoes, undrained
1 (8 ounce) can tomato sauce
1 tablespoon paprika
1 teaspoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon caraway
1/4 teaspoon pepper
4 1/2 ounces (1 1/2 cups) uncooked rotini

Heat oil in Dutch oven or skillet. Add beef and cook and stir 3-5 minutes, until browned.

Add onion, green pepper, water, tomatoes, tomato sauce, paprika, sugar, salt, caraway and pepper. Mix well. Bring to a boil and add rotini.

Reduce heat to medium and cook, uncovered, for 10-15 minutes or until rotini is tender, stirring occasionally.

(Makes 4 1 1/4-cup servings.)

Science Festival held at Challenger

"The Sky Is The Limit" is the theme for the Second Annual Challenger Science Festival scheduled Friday, April 25, from 5 to 8 p.m. at the Challenger elementary school cafeteria.

More than 70 projects are expected to be displayed, along with a special I-MAX video and a Star Lab presentation, according to Elizabeth Quick, science technician at Challenger, who organizes the annual event along with Challenger staff and volunteers.

Quick calls the festival "a celebration of science learning. It gives children interested in science a chance to do an extended project. We encourage science at home and all of these projects have been developed outside school hours. There are collections, observations, models, experiments and inventions by Challenger students of every age, from kindergarten to grade five. People viewing the exhibit will be impressed."

In keeping with the theme, many of the displays will focus on space, sky and weather. Quick says the evening will also include a presentation of the I-MAX video The Dream Is Alive, a production about the N.A.S.A. space shuttle program, and the Star Lab, a mobile planetarium designed to introduce stargazers to some of the constellations and other sights visible in the night sky.

The event is free and open to the public. Everyone is welcome and encouraged to attend.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

Our area of the country is fortunate we haven't had to deal with disastrous weather like we had the weekend of April 5, 6 and 7. We have now had some time to reflect on what we all had to go through. Also, remember that we were all tired and under a lot of stress.

With that in mind I would like to share a rule that I go by. It's the 10 percent rule, and I use it to justify actions and reactions of people. It goes like this: If 100 people write checks, 10 will be bad. If you have 10,000 people living, working and interacting in an area like we have, 10 percent are going to complain about the other 90 percent.

We had many people helping others with a wide variety of things, giving wood, food, fuel, time and many other wonderful things away.

Many of the local businesses went that extra mile for the citizens of Thief River Falls and the surrounding area. Would an established business be willing to risk its existence on a one-time price gouge? I don't think so!

These business places that were helping the community out are some of the same ones that have always been there when donations are needed for school or civic activities. It was also great to see some fresh businesses being involved.

I am very proud to live in Thief River Falls, but some of the accusations have made me more than just a little embarrassed. So, for the 90 percent of us in the area who thought a great job was done by everyone, I would like to apologize for those who put your goodwill and integrity on the line. If another disaster hit our area, I'm sure these same places and individuals would be right there helping out again.

I want to thank KTRF radio and its staff for helping me maintain my sanity, keeping me informed and awake when I needed it.

The Times and Watch were also great for getting publications out with such a short time to do it in. The pictures put faces to those we heard so much about. The news stories reminded us of the events that took place.

I would also like to thank my fellow employees for working through the storm while I was at my home taking care of it, allowing us to have water, some electricity, preventing our sewers from backing up, keeping streets cleared as much as possible, providing fire and police protection and working in other departments to help all the others out. Several of the employees also had water in their basements and pipes freeze up while leaving their families in the care of others. Thanks, guys!

Sincerely,
Alan R. Johnson
310 North Sherwood, TRF

To The Editor:

When the water alarms in my basement went off and my phone rang at 2:30 Sunday morning, little did I know what northwestern Minnesota was in for! Surely, Mother Nature dealt us a bad hand!

With a series of calls, the Arctic Cat crisis team was dispatched to find all available power generators from the various warehouses in this community. Two distribution locations were chosen, a gas station with available fuel was secured and the available radio station was advised. These may not have been the ideal choices, but they were our only choices!

Even though we didn't have generators for everyone who wanted one, we did our best to use our judgment to help as many households as possible. I'd like to publicly thank the following groups and individuals who pulled together to make this possible:

- Law Enforcement Center—Phone and message center;
- Pennington Main—Use of facilities, equipment and food;
- Arctic Cat Inc.—George Thorson, Rick Kezar and their generator crisis team for use of trucks, forklifts, manpower and generators;
- KTRF Radio—Messaging and communications assistance;
- Area residents—For their patience and understanding in this trying crisis.

And thanks to RV Sports employees Loren and Troy and any other individuals who graciously helped us load, unload and help fellow neighbors in less than desirable crisis conditions.

Sincerely,
Randall Adamson

Honor Society Another Plus For Lincoln High

As much as the folks in the older generation grumble about "the kids these days," we would be hard-pressed in any generation to find a better general group of young people than advisor Linda Goulet has assembled in the Lincoln high school chapter of the National Honor Society.

Not a lot is heard in public about the National Honor Society throughout the school year. Its members quietly go about their business of being good citizens and it is only the annual induction ceremonies for new members that brings the organization to a brief period of prominence.

That induction program was held a couple of weeks ago in the Lincoln auditorium in front of a crowd of students and parents that was almost eerily attentive and well-behaved. The entire student body of Lincoln, not only the inductees, did themselves proud once again.

Those inducted into the society, of course, are deserving of congratulations and respect. They are exceptional individuals. We have become familiar with a number of them through our coverage of their activities at Lincoln and know them to be talented as well as intelligent.

Through their participation in the NHS chapter they also grow in community service. As a matter of fact, last year the Lincoln NHS chapter members compiled a recorded total of more than 2,675 hours of community service— the equivalent of one person working 24 hours a day for over 111 days or someone putting in nearly 67 40-hour weeks.

Heidi Johnson, one of Lincoln's outstanding students and president of the NHS chapter, epitomizes the organization's emphasis on scholarship, character, leadership and service. In presiding at the induction ceremonies, she pointed out that the Lincoln chapter was chartered Jan. 17, 1929, and that it has been reactivated for the past six years.

"A few weeks ago," she said, "students who had a 3.5 cumulative average as second semester sophomores, juniors or seniors were sent a letter asking them to apply if they desired to be in the National Honor Society organization. Students were to complete an application form accurately and thoroughly, listing co-curricular activities, recognition and awards. The directions asked them to complete all sections and noted that completion of the form did not guarantee selection into the organization. A five-member faculty advisory council reviewed the applications and selected the inductees. Eighty-six students were given the opportunity; 34 have been selected.

"Members of the NHS," Heidi said, "are obligated to fulfill the motto 'Noblesse Oblige' with behavior that is honorable, responsible and generous to others. The Honor Society chapter provides individual members the opportunity to share their talents with other students, their school and their community."

We join in our congratulations of the 1997 inductees:

Seniors—Kim Morris and Stacy Narlock;

Juniors—Kelsey Carlson, Brad Dekkers, Paul Frank, Nate Keller, Amber Klinker, Jason Leach, Jim Lehrer, Becky Mooney and Abby Northup;

These new members, along with those who were previously inducted and continue to serve, form the nucleus of an outstanding student body at Lincoln. It is our pleasure to give all of them our commendation and best wishes.

State Shouldn't Be Charitable Gambling's Charity

Allied Charities of Minnesota, an organization of charitable gambling operations in the state, is pushing for reduction or elimination of the combined receipts tax—a tax enacted in 1989 which made the state government a major beneficiary of legally operated pull-tabs, Bingo, raffles, paddlewheels and tip boards.

When we say the state is a major beneficiary, we mean just that. For the calendar year of 1995, for example, charitable gambling in Minnesota provided local organizations with $77,465,000 to share with their communities. The dollars assisted with the expenses of food shelves, emergency assistance, community recreation, fire and rescue equipment, youth athletics, educational scholarships, anti-drug programs and countless other projects.

While that $77 million helped local projects, the amount could have been much more. The state raked in $65,209,000 in taxes on the operations—nearly half of it ($32,217,000) coming from the combined receipts tax enacted in 1989. The state collected $2,520,000 with a 10 percent net receipts tax and $30,472,000 with its two percent ideal gross tax. That's too much.

When the combined receipts tax went into effect, total taxes increased from $26.8 million to $52.6 million the first year. As a result, money available to be spent in the community dropped from a high of $102.2 million to $93.5 million the first year. As more organizations gave up their operations because the return wasn't worth the effort, local contribution funds continued to decline to $79 million in 1991, $78 million in 1992 and $71 million in 1993 before edging back upward to $74.7 million in 1994 and $77,465 million in 1995. By 1995, state taxes had climbed to $65.2 million.

When the combined receipts tax was enacted in 1989, the state faced a large budget crisis. Now the state has a projected $2.3 billion budget surplus.

"We believe it is time for legislators to return those funds to the people and organizations in our communities across the state," says Duane Thompson, president of Allied Charities. "Because of the unique, grass roots nature of charitable gambling, we believe we know best how to use these funds to meet the needs of our communities."

Gambling, charitable or otherwise, always creates more losers than winners. We think it is improper that the state picks the pockets of the communities with impunity and financially benefits to the usurious extent that it does.

"Charitable organizations helped the state when it was in need," Allied Charities president Thompson says. "Now it is time for the state to help us by returning these funds for use in our communities."

Need or not, the state should retreat in haste from the combined receipts tax. And it should blush with shame every time it accepts a check for net or ideal gross tax payments.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in the Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

What talent! Thank you, Two Rivers Area Theatre, for a wonderful evening. The story of Eric "The Man Behind The Mask" definitely touched all of my emotions. I didn't realize that the Phantom of the Opera was a real man. The emotion in the voice of the narrator as she told the story made me feel as if I were in the Paris Opera House myself.

The songs that you selected to sing brought the narration to life. To those of you who sang, you did an outstanding job. It was nice to see the blend of the youth and adults together in this production. I think it is great to see communities working together to enhance the arts.

I hope I have the opportunity to see the full production of Andrew Lloyd Webber's "Phantom of the Opera" and I am looking forward to your summer production of "Fiddler On The Roof." Keep up the good work.

And my compliments to the American Legion cook; you served a very nice meal.

Sincerely,
D. A. Erickson

To The Editor:

I would like to add my comments to a letter on Career Day at Franklin Middle School published in the Saturday, April 5 Northern Watch. I do agree that the Career Day helps out many students to explore the career world that is offered.

I can remember going to those days myself and narrowing down jobs I knew that I could do and could be successful in. When I finally made my choice I went to a college fair, which is another excellent program and I encourage all students who want or have picked out a career to go to a college fair as well.

But you don't have to just go to these fairs. Another great informational place is the Internet, where you can find very good information on careers and college.

Sincerely,
Shawn Miramontes

Otters, Spuds collect tennis wins over TRF

Fergus Falls and Moorhead handed Thief River Falls a pair of 6-1 losses Thursday in a double-dual boys high school tennis outing on the Otters' courts.

Jacob Broten produced the Prowlers' only points of the day, winning both of his matches at No. 2 singles.

Thursday's matches were originally scheduled to be hosted by the Spuds, but were moved to Fergus Falls because of the flood conditions in the Moorhead area.

The two losses dropped the Kim Maidment-coached Prowlers' dual meet record to 0-4. They are scheduled to make their home debut Monday with a 4:30 p.m. match against Crookston.

TRF hockey coach Pat Cullen resigns

Pat Cullen stepped down this week as Thief River Falls head high school hockey coach.

He is the second Lincoln High School head coach to resign since the end of the 1996-97 winter sports season, joining Scott Brekke, who announced two weeks earlier that he was giving up the boys basketball job.

Cullen has coached the Prowlers the past three years. His teams were 11-12-1 in both 1994-95 and 1995-96, and went 6-17-1 this winter.

An International Falls native and Bemidji State University graduate, Cullen was a Junior A assistant coach with the Rochester Mustangs of the United States Hockey League before being named to succeed Glenn Chiodo, who vacated the Prowlers' hockey post following the 1993-94 season.

His immediate plans are to return to the USHL as an assistant coach at North Iowa. He played at both North Iowa and Rochester before beginning his college hockey career.

"I've enjoyed working with the kids in Thief River Falls," said Cullen. "Right now I'm exploring other (career) options. My goal at this point is to be an assistant coach at the college level. This is a chance to move in that direction."

Cullen, a nephew of Moorhead High School hockey coach Terry Cullen, teaches physical education classes at Franklin Middle School and also serves as the Thief River Falls girls golf coach.

The resignation, submitted Wednesday, is pending board approval, pointed out Jim Sims, Director of Activities for School District 564.

Changes are made to TRF schedules

Due to the flooding situation in the Grand Forks-East Grand Forks area, changes were made to the Thief River Falls sports schedule for the upcoming week.

Tuesday postponements included a boys and girls high school invitational track meet and a boys invitational golf tournament.

It was the fifth straight postponement for the Tim Olson-coached Thief River Falls track program, weathered out of earlier Warren-Alvarado-Oslo, Bemidji, Park Rapids, and Crookston invitationals.

Tuesday's meet was to be the 1997 season opener for the Dick Tyler-coached boys golf team.

The boys and girls track teams are scheduled to compete in the Moorhead Athletic Association Invitational meet at Concordia College Friday. The boys golf team is slated to take part in the Fergus Falls Invitational that same day.

Girls high school basketball review...

Balance keys B/G-MR efforts

Biggest question facing the Badger/Greenbush-Middle River girls high school basketball team this winter was how would the Gators function with high-scoring Krissi Super having taken her talents to the college level?

The answer...by committee. Instead of a relying on the exploits of a single standout, the Gators diversified. Head coach Tom Neibauer shuffled people in and out of the line-up, and the balanced attack maintained the program's high level of success, actually improving slightly from 18-7 in 1995-96 to 19-6 this winter.

Nikki Wahl led the Gators' share-the-wealth system this year by scoring 11.4 points per game, while Stefanie Sparby carried a 9.8 average, Tiffany Hagen 6.7, and Amber Berg 6.0.

It was a satisfying season, according to Neibauer. "You can't be disappointed with a season like that," he said. "We won 19 games, and we had a lot of quality wins."

Highlighting the list of victories, according to Neibauer were two double-digit decisions over Class AAA Thief River Falls (47-37, 55-42), a 63-57 conquest of Roseau (when the Gators became the first team to beat the Rams with state scoring record-holder Megan Taylor in the line-up); an early-season 37-30 conquest of Class AA East Grand Forks before the Green Wave lost two starters to injuries, a 50-42 verdict over highly-regarded East Grand Forks Sacred Heart; and a 36-34 win over a Tri-County squad that went on to win the Sub-Section 32A title.

In back-to-back invitational tournaments in December, the Gators walked away with both the Warren-Alvarado-Oslo and Northland Community and Technical College titles.

Neibauer did find fault with the new four-class Minnesota State High School League tournament format that reduced fields and eliminated strong teams in early-round match-ups. The Gators, for example, met pre-tournament favorite Kittson Central in a second round Sub-Section 32A draw and lost 50-41.

"We're definitely disappointed in the new playoff system," said Neibauer. "In our little five-team thing, three clubs had 19 to 21 wins. The match-ups just weren't right. It marred, but it didn't take away from the rest of the season."

The Gators' success should continue. They lose Wahl, Berg, Robin Kilen, and Joanna Johnson to graduation, but will return a solid group of juniors in Sparby, Hagen, Tina Sikorski, Kara Kuznia, and Kara Super, who missed most of the season because of illness. Sophomores Meri Reese, 5-10 Melissa Smith, 5-11 Dezirae Sovde, and 6-0 Kelsey Foldesi should also be ready to help after getting a taste of varsity this winter.

"We'll be okay," said Neibauer. "We played a lot of kids this year, and we'll have a number of them coming back. Most of our guards will be back. This year's tenth graders will have to step up and fill the post positions."

LHS softball team loses first part of season to weather

Already 0 for 3 against the weather, the Thief River Falls girls are waiting to see if they will be able to open the 1997 high school softball season at Park Rapids Monday — their next scheduled start.

Earlier games against Bemidji and Lake of the Woods were called off, and a scheduled appearance at the April 26 Detroit Lakes Invitational has already been cancelled.

Thief River Falls faced a similar scenario a year ago when the Prowlers' first six playing dates were erased by the weather or field conditions. That set the season opener back from April 9 to April 30 and compacted a 14-game schedule into a three-week time frame that ended with a 24-0 North Sub-Section 8AA tournament loss to Bemidji.

The Ren Fletcher-coached team returns seven letter winners from last year's 3-11 squad, including seniors Kelly Clark, Amanda Hruby, Caryn Omdahl, Erica Owen, and Lisa Vettleson, along with juniors Stephanie Leach and Beth Olson.

Latest change in the Thief River Falls schedule is the shift of Tuesday's match-up with Detroit Lakes from the Prowlers' diamond to the Lakers' field.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

This past weekend I (along with many others) discovered that angels come in various forms and from various locations. I'm speaking of the many brave, caring souls that gave of their time, talent, bravery and mostly love to make sure people were taken care of during that horrid storm.

Early Sunday morning we had to abandon ship and take three cold grandchildren to the warmth of St. Bernard's Church. The warmth in those next two and a half days wasn't only from the furnace. I've lived in Thief River Falls for 49 1/2 years and I've never experienced anything like this before.

As I jumped in to help feed hungry, cold people I saw a community come together. I made a phone call to Sheriff Moe to get assistance in getting some groceries to feed the fast growing group that was pouring into the church for refuge. Within a matter of minutes SuperValu was open and we had food. Over the next few days they were there eight times checking on our needs and bringing food for us. We not only got the necessities but they made sure we had the little extra to give to the little ones.

Next came the cots and bundles of blankets.

That night as people were going to bed, I walked my mom up to the church. Father Bob had a spotlight on the cross in the front of the church as a night light. I stood in the door for a few seconds and Holy Week ran through my mind. In the shadow of the spotlight I could see the Easter lilies surrounding the Easter candle and I saw the cots in the aisles and the people snuggling up in their blankets on the church pews and I knew we were going to be all right. We were going to be taken care of as He has promised.

The next morning as the hundreds of people got breakfast, the scared faces were turning into smiles. The church was full of chatter and kids were running and playing and for a moment our worries were put aside. As the day went on people kept offering assistance with various tasks and more and more people came in with food and other items to make our stay more comfortable.

Words will never be able to express my thanks to everyone for all they've done to make a bad situation bearable. I don't mean to slight anyone, but I have to make a few thank-yous:

- KTRF, for informing us that this was a serious situation and to seek shelter if we didn't have back-up heat.
- Ione, for the cooking and putting up with us demolishing the kitchen as we ran around getting food ready. Thanks for not killing any of us.
- School District 564 and Tri-Valley Express for picking up and delivering all the stranded people and for taking them home so they could check on their homes.
- Tom Greelis, Pat and Pete Gaffaney, Bridgeman's and Pepsi-Cola for delivering food and beverages.
- Dave Schneider of the Thief River Falls Police Department for transporting one sick child to the medical center for treatment.
- All the many volunteers who made sure the people could get into their homes by shoveling a path for them.
- St. Bernard's and Father Bob for providing us with a warm place to be and for putting up with cots and people all over the place. Father Bob spent three sleepless nights and days answering the phone and making sure everyone was being cared for. His patience, humor and concern will never be forgotten.
- Last, but not least, to ALL who sought shelter. Thank you for all your help, be it peeling potatoes, chopping veggies, slicing ham, pouring coffee, calling Bingo, answering the phone, washing dishes, putting up cots, cleaning tables, rocking babies, holding small children, and one special dear lady who every so often would sing Peace Is Flowing Like a River, or for the ones who sat quietly in a chair sharing a tear, a hug, a smile.

We have made it through this and I know that my life is richer because of each and every one of you. Your faces are etched in my mind but your kindness and love is etched in my heart. May God bless each and every one of you.

I'm proud to call Thief River Falls my home and I'm proud to call St. Bernard's my church.

This 10-week old male golden labrador needs a home. It is being held at the Thief River Falls Animal Pound. It can be claimed by its owner or adopted by anyone willing to care for the pet. For more information call the Pennington County Law Enforcement Center at 681-6161.

Series on home buying starts April 22

To prepare home buyers for one of the most important decisions they will make in their lifetimes, the Minnesota Extension Service will offer a series of Home Stretch Buyer Workshops on three consecutive Tuesday evenings beginning April 22.

The workshops will be conducted from 7 to 9:30 p.m. at the courthouse meeting room in Thief River Falls.

The three-session workshop is designed for first-time home buyers of low to moderate income; for homeowners ready to refinance a contract for deed; or for persons just interested in exploring the possibilities of home ownership.

Participants will be provided with a thorough review of the home buying process. They will be told how much home they can afford, what lenders look for in a buyer, how to eliminate the barriers to home ownership, and what kinds of mortgage assistance programs are available. A certificate of completion will be provided to all participants who complete all three workshop sessions.

Registration fee for the three sessions is $5 per household. Call the Pennington county extension office at 681-2116 or 1-800-681-2116 to receive a registration brochure and for more information. Seating is limited. Registration deadline is Monday, April 21.

PC DESKTOP SUPPORT SPECIALIST

Digi-Key is one of the fastest growing electronic component distributors in the U.S., with an annual growth rate of nearly 30%. We currently serve over 164,000 customers, process more than 850,000 orders, and handle over 966,000 shipments per year.

Our state-of-the-art hardware and software applications allow our approximately 700 employees to process the large volume of transactions efficiently and accurately. The application software is interactive on-line, and supports Order-Entry, Invoicing, Customer Maintenance, Accounts Receivable, Inventory Control and other systems. The entire system has been developed in-house and is currently supported by a systems group of 24 personnel. The management is keenly aware of the advantages the integrated software system provides the company, and fully supports continued enhancement and expansion of the data processing function.

Digi-Key is seeking a person experienced in PC Desktop support and Windows NT server administration. This position will provide the opportunities and challenges involved with supporting over 50 desktop computers in a local networked environment. A four year undergraduate degree is preferred. A minimum of two years experience with PCs in a network environment with excellent troubleshooting and configuration skills is required. This position requires excellent communication skills including the ability to resolve problems working with LS peers and information technology vendors. Must be able to work in a team environment.

- Experience with Windows NT system administration
- Experience with Windows 95 installation, configuration, and support
- Experience with Windows and TCP/IP networking
- Experience with MS Windows based application integration (MS Access, MS Word, MS Excel, MS Powerpoint, Lotus123)
- Experience with Windows Registry support and Windows policy file support
- Experience with MS Internet Explorer or Netscape Navigator
- Experience with Visual Basic for MS-Office scripting
- Possess exceptional problem solving skills
- Outstanding communications skills, both written and verbal
- Knowledge of DEC Pathworks / ODBC helpful
- Internet experience and HTML or Java a plus
- Must be willing to occasionally work weekends and evenings

Digi-Key feels that with its unbeatable benefits package, and the excellent working environment, the position offers real advantages to those with technical abilities who prefer to live in a rural setting without sacrificing a very real potential for career advancement.

Inspecting the condition and level of a sandbag well at the Emil and Audrey Haleren residence, a Minnesota Conservation Corps member calls for more sandbags. About 30 Conservation Corps representatives from throughout the area responded to the recent call for help in northwestern Minnesota. By Wednesday afternoon, many were in the community of Warren. A group had stayed behind in Thief River Falls Wednesday to assist the Halerens at their residence just north of St. Hilaire.

Interest high in sign-up for CRP-2 contracts

Marshall County

JoDell Poolman, Marshall county FSA executive director, said she was pleased how well sign-up went in her county, despite the large numbers involved.

"There were times when we were not sure if we would be able to complete the work and to sign up everyone on a timely basis," she said. "We really appreciated the patience of our landowners."

Marshall county FSA office received a total of 1,262 offers from landowners totaling 111,790 acres. Of the total, about 82,640 represented acres currently under contract due to expire this September 30. Approximately 29,100 acres were offered for the first time. There were approximately 41,300 acres currently in CRP that did not re-bid or did not qualify that will expire this fall.

"All land that is enrolled in the program must compete for acceptance based on an environmental benefits index that is intended to ensure fair and equal consideration for all types of land," Poolman said. "Producers will be notified by mid-June as to which acres have been accepted into CRP-2."

West Polk County

In West Polk county, there were 331 offers of 39,547 acres for enrollment, of which 29,065 acres were under current contract, according to Bruce Nelson, county FSA executive director in Crookston.

The West Polk county office is temporarily handling the Norman county farm programs until things are back in running order in Ada, Nelson said. The Norman county ag credit programs (formerly FMHA) are being temporarily handled in the Mahnomen county FSA office in Mahnomen.

Nelson said that because of the flood and associated power outages in Ada, the Norman county FSA office has not been able to operate since April 7. County offices needed to have all CRP data computer loaded and transmitted to the state office by April 11.

Nelson was contacted by Randy Tufton, Norman county FSA director, and contacts were made with computer specialists in St. Paul and Kansas City FSA offices. It was necessary to get Norman county's computer system out of the Ada office and relocate it to Crookston.

Arrangements had to be made with emergency services director and National Guard in Ada to obtain access to the Norman county office. A radio appeal was necessary to locate Gloria Eggen, the FSA program assistant responsible for CRP in Norman county, and arrange for her to meet at a checkpoint.

"We were able to meet at the checkpoint and then made our way to the office and retrieved the CRP files, their computer system, a terminal and one printer," Nelson said. "We then set up their system in our office in Crookston. Gloria and Cesar Jusino, Norman county NRCS district technician, were able to work on their files and finished at noon on Friday.

"We then had to relocate the system again into our computer room because we needed to use our system's modem on their computer to transmit the data. After hours of complications with our Kansas City office, we were finally able to get Norman county CRP data transmitted on Monday, April 14."

Area meetings on septic systems set

To answer frequently asked questions about septic systems, several meetings canceled due to bad weather have now been rescheduled for counties in northwestern Minnesota at the following times and places:

Wednesday, April 23, at 1:30 p.m. in the community center at Middle River; Monday, April 28, at 9:30 a.m. in the county courthouse meeting room in Hallock; and at 7 p.m. in the Pennington county courthouse meeting room in Thief River Falls.

"Since no one ever receives an owner's manual with their septic system, it's often difficult for people to get answers to their questions," states Howard Person, Pennington county extension educator, who will be one of the program presenters at the meetings.

"Rural home owners who have their own septic systems often ask such questions as: 'How often do I need to pump my septic tank, how does my system work and is it effective, and how do I maintain my system to prevent costly repairs to the drain field?'" Person added.

Proper operation and maintenance of on-site sewage treatment systems (septic systems) are essential to the protection of surface and ground water resources, Person said. Proper maintenance helps avoid costly repairs or premature replacement of septic systems and helps avoid any health risks to owners and their neighbors.

The rules governing septic systems have also been under legislative review. Current status of the 7080 rules governing septic systems will be discussed as well as changes for the coming year, based on what happens in the legislature.

The meetings in Hallock, Middle River and Thief River Falls are sponsored by the Minnesota Extension Service and local county water planning committees. Also speaking in addition to Person will be Kim Hockstedler, Marshall county water plan coordinator. Septic system owner's manuals will also be available at the meetings or can be purchased at county extension offices.

The meetings are free to the public and all home owners who have their own septic systems are encouraged to attend.

Heart clinic for children scheduled in TRF May 21

Children with suspected heart problems may attend a clinic on May 21 at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls, sponsored by th G.F.W.C. Zelthans and Minnesota Children with Special Health Needs of the Minnesota Department of Health.

The clinic is for any child under 21 years of age with a heart murmur, a congenital heart problem or a history of rheumatic fever. The clinic sponsors recommend, if possible, that each new participant get a referral from a doctor.

For more information or to make an appointment, contact Bunny Dondelinger, 212 West Trinity Park Road, Thief River Falls, MN 56701 or call her at 218-681-2445.

Flood evacuees welcomed home

Several of the residents originally from this area have been welcomed home by their parents and other relatives or have found other places to live for what might be up to a month. The North Star News lists their names and some of their harrowing stories. North Star News, April 24

Board approves applications

The Kittson County Board of Commissioners approved resolutions at their regular meeting April 15 which requests assistance through state and federal programs to aid in the disaster recovery process due to the recent ice storm, blizzard and flooding. North Star News, April 24

EGF mayor visits with residents

In the wake of the flood, it is unknown how large East Grand Forks Mayor Lynn Stauss' wardrobe is these days.

But he put on a special sweatshirt for his trip to UMC Wednesday to address his constituents left without homes, without a town: An East Grand Forks Green Wave sweatshirt.

"We're the Green Wave?" he yelled into the microphone, to cheers. "We have to keep our identity!" Crookston Daily Times, April 24

Emergency use of CRP acres approved

According to Harlan Highberg, county executive director, Clearwater County FSA office, the Deputy Administrator for Farm Programs (DAFP) has approved the Minnesota State FSA committee's request for emergency use of CRP land for calving operations in those counties where the livestock must be moved in order to provide a calving area due to weather related conditions. The Leader Record, April 23

Stephen man is on Broadway

Rick Anderson, son of Gerald and Bonnie Anderson, formerly of Stephen, has become an indispensable member of the production staff of the Broadway smash hit, RENT, winner of four 1996 Tony awards. Rick, who spent many years working Off-Broadway, was lured by the producers of the new musical while it was still at the New York Theatre Workshop to assist them, and now the show has graced the cover of Newsweek and Theatre Week, as well has having a Prime Time Live special dedicated to the show. The Messenger, April 24.

Grygla community responds to crisis

The Grygla community has joined other communities in the northwest area in a response to the urgent needs of people distressed by the devastating flood now engulfing thousands of homes in the Red River Valley. A benefit dinner has been planned, donation cans are set up in stores, and the school is conducting a special collection to aid the flood victims. The Grygla Eagle, April 24

Grand Forks clinic opens branch offices at hospital

As a result of flooding in Grand Forks, ND, and East Grand Forks which forced the closure of all medical facilities in those communities, the Grand Forks Clinic has opened a branch office at Northwest Medical Center, 120 LaBree Avenue South, in Thief River Falls.

The lower level of the medical center's convalescent and nursing care (C&NC) unit was in the process of being remodeled to provide clinic area prior to the flood and the Grand Forks Clinic was attempting to recruit physicians to locate in this community on a permanent basis.

Closing of the clinic and hospital in Grand Forks has accelerated the use of the remodeled area at the hospital in Thief River Falls.

Five Grand Forks Clinic physicians officially began providing primary care services at the Thief River Falls location yesterday, April 25. Regular hours will now be observed from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

"Grand Forks Clinic, Thief River Falls Branch is here to serve its regular patients and those patients displaced by the flood who are now living in this area," states a release from the clinic. "Appointments can be made by calling 218-681-0600."

Physicians who will be providing primary care services at the clinic are Dr. John Lambie and Dr. Rujib Lala in internal medicine and Dr. Mark Olson, Dr. Jim Burrell and Dr. Mark Christianson in family practice.

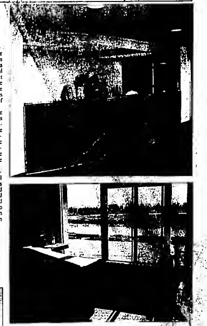
Dr. Burrell and Dr. Christianson are affiliated with the University of North Dakota Family Practice Center in Grand Forks, ND. The five doctors listed will remain in Thief River Falls until the Grand Forks Clinic and UND Family Practice Center are able to reopen.

The Grand Forks Clinic specialists in rheumatology, podiatry, orthopedics and cardiology who have been serving area patients through the emergency department of Northwest Medical Center will continue their scheduled visits here. Instead of working through the hospital's emergency department, however, they will conduct their practices through the newly-opened clinic.

Sue Knutson, manager of the Grand Forks Clinic Crookston Branch, said that the Grand Forks Clinic and Northwest Medical Center will continue recruitment efforts to find physicians to practice full-time in Thief River Falls. She encouraged persons with questions to call the clinic office in Thief River Falls at 218-681-0600.

When excessive flooding in the Grand Forks and East Grand Forks area caused sanitary sewer lift stations to fail and contaminated the water supply, the hospital transferred its patients and the clinic ceased to operate. Some of the clinic physicians were assigned to the east side of the Red River and some to the west side.

Richard Spyhalski, chief executive officer of Northwest Medical Center, said the flood situation has resulted in use of the remodeled C&NC unit more quickly than had been previously anticipated. He said the hospital will do what it can to assist the Grand Forks clinic in establishing its branch operation here as smoothly as possible.



Reception area and one of the examining rooms in the Grand Forks Clinic Branch in Northwest Medical Center are pictured above. The clinic officially opened for 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. office hours Friday, April 25, in remodeled space on the first floor of the C&NC unit. Five doctors displaced from Grand Forks by the flood will staff the clinic until Grand Forks offices can reopen.

Former EGF mayor glad she didn't face flooding

by Marvin Lundin
Northern Watch Editor

Now the resident of a nursing home she once campaigned to build, Vivian Harney is having a difficult time believing the destruction that this spring's record flood is wreaking on her city of East Grand Forks.

Mrs. Harney is the only woman to have served as mayor of East Grand Forks and she is proud of the changes and accomplishments made by the city during her two terms in office from 1972 through 1975. She has been intensely interested in the way mayors of Grand Forks and East Grand Forks have performed during the past two weeks in particular, and she has been favorably impressed.

"Mayor (Lynn) Stauss is the best mayor East Grand Forks has ever had," she said, adding with a smile and a pause, "...including me."

About Grand Forks' female mayor Pat Owens, Harney also expressed praise. "I wasn't for her when she ran for the office," Harney said, "because I thought she was needed in the job that she had with the city. But she has done a great job and shown she can be an unusually fine mayor.

"I think the public should be very grateful to both mayors," she added. "They are doing an excellent job in caring for their cities."

Mrs. Harney had no political aspirations during her long-time service with the East Grand Forks Building and Loan Association, which in 1935 was converted to East Grand Forks Federal Savings and Loan Association. She assisted with that conversion after going to Minneapolis and Chicago to learn more about the new program, and served as secretary and manager from 1935 until her retirement in 1971.

She had previously worked in the office of Freedom Massey, who became the first and long-standing president of East Grand Forks Federal Savings and Loan.

Volunteers meet demand in flood victim assistance

Response to the flood crisis has been truly overwhelming — in terms of impact on families and in terms of donations and volunteers coming forward to help. In Thief River Falls this has also been true. As the list and needs changes every half hour, the following is as close to a complete list of what is needed as possible.

Volunteers have been in great demand. At the Evangelical Free Church call 681-3855. At the Good Samaritan call 681-0840. Please check with your church to see if volunteers are needed.

Housing

Following some confusion and lack of information officials last week expressed concern that evacuees to Thief River Falls might not be able to obtain assistance for staying at motels once the city established an evacuation center (Evangelical Free Church).

Through many different channels of communication, The Times has now been led to believe that types of Federal aid includes "grants for alternate rental housing". FEMA officials said the best advice to offer evacuees is to suggest that they register with FEMA by calling 1-800-462-9029.

Due to the many variable factors, evacuees are asked to immediately register with FEMA at 1-800-462-9029.

Meals

There has been a change in the time meals are served at Evangelical Free Church: 8-9 a.m. for breakfast, noon to 1 p.m. for lunch, and 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. for dinner.

Donations

Donations for the relief effort have been truly outstanding. Local officials are amazed to say the least.

Financial donations have been coming in strong and fast. More donations to the Salvation Army, however, are always welcome.

Flooding remains concern of folks in Ditch 20 area

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Residents of Thief River Falls can relax, but flooding is still a concern for residents between Agassiz Refuge and Ditch 20.

Last week, Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge headquarters notified Pennington County Law Enforcement Center that water was going over a boat landing at the west side of Agassiz Pool, three miles north and west of headquarters.

Gary Huschle of Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge explained that water was being released from Agassiz pool (the old Mud Lake Basin), through the control structure into Madsen pool anyway, but they didn't want an uncontrolled release into Madsen pool.

Agassiz followed procedure by notifying communities down river.

Huschle also noted that neighbors would naturally have noticed trucks of rock being hauled in the area, and the extra activity and would have wanted to know why. He said they decided to make the repair immediately because it is much easier to make a smaller repair.

In a breach type situation, which this wasn't, any release of water would have had to fill Madsen pool first and then go through the control structure or breach that dike before it could reach the Thief River. He estimated that it would take a day or two to fill Madsen pool and then another 24 hours before water from the release would reach Thief River Falls.

Huschle said the inner dike was never breached. There was a back cut which was filled with mud from the site and then covered with rock and clay.

He said two people from Thief Lake Wildlife Refuge, and three from Agassiz joined a crew from Davidson Construction to make the repair. The repairs were completed around 3 a.m.

Brent Johnson, engineer for Red Lake Watershed District, said when he was notified of the problem he and Loren Sanderson, technician for the Red Lake Watershed District, started for Agassiz. He said he did talk to the National Weather Service because they have the capabilities and responsibility to make estimates regarding flow and impact, and he didn't know what to expect.

Direct Federal Aid for floods extended

Head of the Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) has announced that direct funding authorized by President Clinton for the Upper Midwest floods has been extended to include emergency work undertaken by state and local governments in Minnesota and North and South Oakota.

The President earlier this week authorized FEMA to reimburse 100 percent of the eligible cost for all flood-related emergency work performed by the federal government in each of the three states, effective from the dates of the declared disasters through April 30. North and South Oakota were declared for federal aid on April 7 and Minnesota on April 8.

With this action, FEMA Director James Lee Witt said that the states and affected local governments are eligible to apply for federal funding to pay 100 percent of their costs for debris removal and emergency services related to the floods, beginning from the period that the flooding started and continuing until further notice. The eligible coverage period for Minnesota is retroactive to March 21, North Oakota to February 28, and South Oakota to February 3.

Witt said the 100 percent funding is available to local governments in all North and South Oakota counties, and 56 counties in Minnesota that to date have been designated eligible for debris removal and emergency services reimbursement. He indicated that more Minnesota counties may be designated for the aid based on the results of ongoing damage assessments.

Direct federal assistance is authorized to help alleviate immediate threats to life and property and pay for critical emergency work resulting directly from the disaster. In addition to debris removal, eligible emergency work undertaken by the states and local governments can include search and rescue operations, emergency shelter, mass care and medical treatment, security measures and removal of safety hazards, distribution of food, water, medicine and other essential supplies, temporary facilities for schools and other community services, demolition of unsafe structures, and emergency repairs and other protective construction measures.'

Health in Long Run set

Entries are still being accepted for the 14th annual Thief River Falls Health In The Long Run, scheduled to be held Saturday, May 10.

The event will feature both a 10 kilometer (6.2 mile) and 2.1-mile course for runners, walkers and joggers.

Starting line will be in front of Northwest Medical Center. The 10K walkers will head out at 9 a.m. Others have a 9:30 a.m. start.

Medals will be awarded to the first place male and female finisher in various age categories for each event. Hugo's gift certificates will be awarded to age-group record-breakers.

The event, sponsored by the Oakota Clinic-Thief River Falls and Northwest Medical Center, is designed to encourage greater interest in physical fitness and exercise.

Health In The Long Run applications and entry fee information can be obtained at Northwest Medical Center, or by calling Gail Holland at 681-4240, extension 210.

EMERGENCY MENTAL HEALTH SERVICES

Due to the catastrophic flood almost every regular psychiatric office and therapy clinics are temporarily closed. These include the offices of Center for Psychiatric Care (Keith Erickson, MD, Patrick Goodman, MD, Steven Hill, MD, Thomas Peterson, MD, and Anne Cushing, ARNP), Northeast Human Services (Debra Kirsch, MD, Antonio Mimay, MD and many other clinicians), Jacob Korboshian, MD, Ashok Bansal, MD, and those of many other mental health professionals included in the upper Red River Valley. Arrangements are being made to meet the needs of existing clients.

Center for Psychiatric Care, Northeast Human Service Center, the Institute for Rural Mental Health and others are working feverishly to open centers to see those in need. For the next four to eight weeks Center for Psychiatric Care psychiatrists will be providing care to all clients now and old for the above providers affected by the flood. We understand first hand the emotional and financial stresses this disaster has placed on us collectively. Therefore, for the next four to eight weeks, for those who have some type of insurance, insurance only (no co-payment or added personal costs) will be accepted as payment in full for psychiatric services. For those without any insurance affected by the flood, psychiatric care will be provided at no charge.

Call the Center for Psychiatric Care Information Center for appointments, information, or help of any kind (701) 775-2500. We will schedule appointments and appointment sites as soon as possible.

For more information contact: Thomas Peterson, Clinic Director, Center for Psychiatric Care, (701) 775-2500 P.O. Box 14545, Grand Forks, ND 58208-4545.

Nazareth Church fundraiser to aid relief from flood

Pancake supper from 4 to 7 p.m. with an accompanying bake and craft sale will take place Friday, May 2, at Nazareth Lutheran Church of Holt. Proceeds will go to the Arthritis Foundation and for flood disaster relief.

A freewill offering will be received for the pancake supper and matching funds will be provided by AAL Branch 7983 and others.

Persons who are unable to attend the event but would like to contribute may send checks made payable to AAL Branch 7983 to Dolores Hirst, 550 West Eighth Street, or Marj Steinhauer, Route 2, Box 141, both at Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

Several area St. Scholastica students cited

Several students from northwest Minnesota are among 248 named to the winter quarter dean's list at the College of St. Scholastica in Duluth.

Recognized were Sara Lokstad, Newfolden, junior in Medicine; Michael Dorwart, Roseau, senior in exercise physiology; Janelle Pulezinski, Greenbush, senior in English; and Rachel Kazmierczak, Stephen, senior in exercise physiology.

Flood area athletes invited to join TRF for rest of season

Jim Sims, Director of Student Activities for School District 564, said this week that Thief River Falls was extending an invitation to East Grand Forks and Grand Forks students to join the Prowlers for the balance of the 1997 spring sports season.

"Beginning immediately, East Grand Forks/Grand Forks students can join our teams for practice, receive coaching from our staff, have use of our facilities, and be provided transportation to out of town events," said Sims.

These opportunities are open to all students in grades 7-12 who have enrolled in school in Thief River Falls, as well as students who have chosen not to enroll, but are living in the Thief River Falls area.

Guidelines for participation have been set forth by the Minnesota State High School League and are available for review at the Lincoln High School activities office.

If you are interested in participating in a Thief River Falls spring sport program, contact Sims at 218-681-7140.

Prowlers forced to delay home opener

Wet field conditions forced officials to once again delay the home debut of Thief River Falls' 1997 high school baseball team.

Weathered out of earlier home games against Badger/Greenbush-Middle River and Red Lake County, the 0-2 Prowlers also called off a Thursday game vs. Tri-County/Marshall County Central and moved a Friday match-up with Bemidji to the Lumberjacks' diamond.

Thief River Falls is scheduled to host Roseau Monday at 5 p.m. at Irv Wilson Field.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Today we'll have a few more of those quick and easy casseroles that can be stretched to feed a bunch - just in case you have a few refugees at your house too.

Yum, the kids will love this dish and so will Mom - it's easy:

PIZZA-NOODLE BAKE

2 cups wide noodles
1 pound hamburger
1/4 cup diced onion
1 (15 ounce) can tomato sauce
1 cup water
4 slices Mozzarella cheese
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
1/2 teaspoon oregano
Dash of pepper

Brown hamburger and onions. Drain.

Place a layer of uncooked noodles in 9x9 dish or pan. Add hamburger and onions.

Mix tomato sauce, water and spices and pour over meat and noodles.

Bake covered at 350 degrees for 1 hour. During the last 10 minutes, top with cheese slices and finish baking (still covered). Cut into squares to serve.

This dish should serve a few guests - the tapioca thickens the stew as it cooks and the wine tenderizes the beef:

BAKED STEW

1 (2 pound) chuck roast, cut into small pieces
1 cup celery, cut into pieces
6 medium carrots, sliced
1 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons minute tapioca
1 medium can stewed tomatoes
3 medium onions, sliced
3/4 cup red wine
Mushrooms (optional)
Green pepper (optional)

Bake in covered casserole in 250 degree oven for 4-5 hours. Add 1 can of potatoes 1 hour before serving.

Make a simple breakfast or brunch with this dish:

HAM-CHEESE SOUFFLE

16 large slices white bread, crusts removed 8 slices ham
8 slices Cheddar cheese (1/8 to 1/4 inch thick)
6 eggs
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
3 cups milk
1 - 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 cup minced onion
1/4 cup green pepper, chopped
Dash of Tabasco
1/4 pound butter
Special K cereal, crushed

Layer like ham and cheese sandwiches on the bottom of a 9x13 inch buttered glass baking dish (bread, ham, cheese, bread on top).

Beat eggs with salt and pepper. Mix in milk, Worcestershire, mustard, onion, pepper and Tabasco. Pour over layers and refrigerate overnight.

Next day, melt 1/4 pound butter and pour over casserole. Top with Special K and bake until mixture is browned and firm.

Serve this tasty dish topped with crispy chow mein noodles:

ORIENTAL CASSEROLE

1 pound hamburger
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 cup chopped onion
2 cups diced celery
1 cup uncooked rice (not instant)
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1 can cream of chicken soup
2 cups water
1 can bean sprouts, drained
1/4 cup soy sauce

Heat butter and brown hamburger. Add all other ingredients, blending well. Pour into a large casserole.

Bake 1 1/2 hours at 350 degrees, stirring occasionally.

Everyone will love this casserole and it serves a bunch:

CHICKEN ENCHILADA CASSEROLE

1 chicken, cooked, skinned, boned and cut into small pieces
2 cans cream of chicken soup
2 cups chicken broth
2 large onions, chopped
2 cloves garlic, minced
1/2 teaspoon oregano
1/2 teaspoon cumin
1/2 teaspoon sage
1/2 pound grated Cheddar cheese
1/2 pound grated Jack cheese
1 package corn tortillas, cut into strips

Combine soup, broth and chiles. Saute onions and garlic. Add seasonings, onions, garlic and chicken to the sauce. Grate cheeses and mix together.

Cut tortillas into strips and soften in hot oil. Drain on paper towels. Layer tortillas, sauce and cheeses, ending with cheeses. Bake at 375 degrees until bubbly. Makes 1 large and 1 small casserole.

Gallant accepted at St. Scholastica

International Student Exchange, Inc., (ISE) is presently seeking host families for students from 17 different countries. Students between the ages of 15 and 18 are carefully screened by ISE for suitability. They bring their own spending money and are covered by health insurance.

While living with you, a student attends the local high school and is expected to bear his or her share of household responsibilities. The length of stay can range from six months to a full year, depending on your wishes. An ISE representative will help you select a student from numerous student applications which include family photos and biographical essays.

For more information on being an ISE host family or on becoming a representative call ISE at 1-800-233-4678.

MnCC helps students build birdhouses

Four workers with the Minnesota Conservation Corps based out of the Thief Lake Wildlife Management Area recently assisted area school students with the construction of bird houses. The following story was submitted by the Roseau Times-Region.

The sound of hammering echoed through the empty gymnasium, but the din didn't diminish the creative juices of the Wannaska students as they merrily pieced together their project.

The Wannaska second and third graders have been working on birdhouses to help out their little feathered friends in the school forest, located behind the Wannaska Department of Natural Resources (DNR) office.

For several years now, the school has faithfully planted three trees in an effort to build up the forest, and each following year, they go out to measure the progress of the tagged little saplings.

With the coming of spring, the children have decided that it was time to provide housing for the birds that grace the branches of their forest.

Helping the students with this task was the Minnesota Conservation Corp. (MCC).

This group of young men was more than willing to help with the project and will install the birdhouses once the weather cooperates.

According to Jim Jones, the MCC workers dedicate at least two weeks a year to the various schools, teaching them environmental education. This satisfies the mandate that comes from the Americorp, which the MCC is part of.

Other MCC groups have worked with the local food shelves or Habitat for Humanity.

Based out of the Thief Lake Wildlife Management Area, the four workers have also worked with the Tri-County schools on the moose population.

"These kids are really excited about doing these birdhouses," said Jones. "They are just as anxious to get them set up in the school forest, which is about 40 acres behind the DNR."

Materials were all donated and the MCC workers cut out all the pieces and carefully labeled them so construction would be easy.

After a brief explanation, the students lined up, received the correct parts and broke off into groups to create their masterpieces.

As the birdhouses began to line up across the stage, it was evident that the kids were building terrific memories and might, at some time in the future, remember the lessons of the day with their own children.

Besides Jones, who comes from Sioux Falls, the other MCC workers who volunteered their time were Joel Schaihle, Warroad; Henry Cyr, Red Lake Falls, and Ryan Kruger, Adnan.

Cyr will now become the MCC supervisor with a new group that will begin work soon in the Roseau River Wildlife area.

Come spring, the students will have the opportunity to watch the birds build their nests and raise their young.

The Right Person At The Right Time

If Mayor Pat Owens of Grand Forks, ND, were a stock market commodity, we would love to have a few thousand shares. The appreciation of her value in about a month's span of time has been phenomenal... and most certainly deserved.

How many local elected officials in history have been thrust by circumstance into a position anywhere close to that faced by Mayor Owens? In the first year of her first term she finds her city devastated by an unprecedented series of blizzards and snowfall, a flood with duration and magnitude of historical significance and damage that defies imagination, and a treacherous, almost contemptuous scattering of fires that defiantly brought down more than a dozen buildings in the heart of the downtown business district.

Through it all Mayor Owens has been the consummate public official—the epitome of what people want but dare not expect and very seldom get from those they elect to office. She has immersed herself in the colossal struggle to save her city from an insidious invader that defies defense, and her determination and resolve have provided a reservoir of strength from which others similarly involved can draw.

Moreover, she has been an unerring master at saying precisely the right things at exactly the right times in totally the right way. She has been urgent without panic, serious without anger, firm but not dictatorial, comforting without coddling, realistic but eternally optimistic. She was at her best during the visit of President Clinton Tuesday, refusing to be awed and showing controlled emotion as an eloquent spokesperson for her people.

President Clinton was obviously impressed by the abilities and resolve of Grand Forks and East Grand Forks officials, but especially by Mayor Owens. Her devotion to duty has transcended her own personal loss of home and possessions, and her empathy for other victims is evident in all of her public appearances.

Without a doubt, Mayor Owens has raised the level of mayoral service to a plateau much higher than the highest flood crest can ever reach. We admire her and what she has done, and we don't mind saying so. She is the right person at the right time for Grand Forks and its people, and we know they recognize and appreciate it.

More Thoughts On Public Financing Of Stadium For The Twins

Success or lack thereof for the Minnesota Twins baseball team early this season has been in local conversation little of late, supplanted by blizzards, power outages, floods, fires, sandbag filling, care for evacuees and other related talk topics. While catastrophic history is being made in the Red River Valley, however, personal and business interests are still pushing the Minnesota legislature for public funding of a posh playground for the economically elite.

In attempts to justify this desire, the snake oil salesmen are touting tourism, projecting economic benefits, lamenting potential losses and using threats of the franchise moving to coerce compliance with their scheme. Unlike the Red River basin, many of their arguments don't hold water.

According to the Congressional Research Service, one study found that a new stadium had no discernible impact on economic development in 27 of 30 metropolitan areas, and had a negative impact in the other three.

The same Congressional Research Service report notes that Maryland's $177 million stadium investment is estimated to create 1,394 jobs at a cost of $127,000 per job. The cost per job generated by that state's Sunny Day Fund economic development program is estimated to be $6,250.

Jobs created through the professional sports industry are almost entirely low-wage, part-time jobs without benefits. The Metrodome's present concessionaire, for instance, reportedly has only 14 full-time employees and over 700 part-time workers.

Twins' ownership claims to be losing money by operating a team in its present Metrodome location. Paul Beeston, vice president of the Toronto Blue Jays, accurately states: "Anyone who quotes profits of a baseball club is missing the point. Under generally accepted accounting principles, I can turn a $4 million profit into a $2 million loss, and I can get every national accounting firm to agree with me."

Carl Pohlad purchased the Twins for $36 million in 1984. Value of that ownership from a resale standpoint has substantially appreciated while operational losses have been used as write-offs for taxation, perhaps even for the benefit of other investments.

Major league baseball teams do not float around freely. There have been no team moves since the Washington Senators moved to Texas and became the Rangers 25 years ago. When the San Francisco Giants failed in an effort to win subsidies from Bay Area residents and announced an intention to move, the National League prevented them from doing so.

If the team would leave, what is the loss? In a 1996 poll conducted by Money magazine, respondents placed major league sports in 38th place on a list of 41 priorities—well behind clean air and water, high quality schools, low property taxes, affordable medical care, effective public transit and thriving arts—all accepted provinces of state government.

Richard Webster of the U.S. Travel Data Center says, "Professional sports has nothing to do with tourism or development."

What about the taxes on those big major league salaries? According to Twins Magazine, 25 of 27 players and five of six coaches are residents of states other than Minnesota. From non-resident professional athletes, the State of Minnesota collects income based only on the proportion of the season actually spent in-state.

When time permits, we pay some attention to Twins baseball. It is a diversion from necessary summer tasks and provides something to complain about when the fish aren't biting or the mosquitoes prevent being outside in the evening.

We think that businessmen who allow themselves to be pressured into hiring employees for millions of dollars a year to play a game have their heads screwed on backward and are undeserving of either sympathy or support, and we have little time for athletes who have such an inflated view of their value. We enjoy seeing the unheralded, no-name players excel with timely hits or sparkling defensive plays, and Lord knows the Twins have many of those.

But we could do nicely without a major league baseball team 300 miles away and we think any private business should pay for its own place to operate.

Price of milk competes with other drinks

The price of milk is a bargain when compared with most other beverages at supermarkets and convenience stores, according to Dan Reuwee, director of communications for Mid-America Dairymen Inc. of Springfield, MO.

In a survey of prices at a Springfield supermarket, the dairy marketing cooperative found that milk ranked in the lower one-third of the price range when compared ounce for ounce with other popular beverages, including bottled water, soda and fruit drinks.

"Most of us purchase milk by the gallon, which is 128 ounces," Reuwee said. "That's more than twice the volume of a two-liter container of soda and almost equal to eleven 12-ounce soda cans."

The current milk price of about two cents per ounce ($2.40 to $2.60 per gallon) compares with supermarket soda prices of one and one-half to two cents per ounce. Bottled water prices range from 89 cents to $5.85 per gallon.

Kit developed to teach ag values to students

Land D'Lakes Cooperatives and Minnesota's beef industry have teamed up on a special education project to communicate the importance of agriculture to upper elementary students.

The education kit includes a 16 minute video titled "Minnesota's Proud Tradition...Agriculture' and a special teacher's guide. The kit is available now and is targeted to the grade level when Minnesota studies are taught - usually 4, 5 or 6. "This video will be a wonderful resource for educators who wish to incorporate agriculture and food production into the curriculum," says Dennis Swan of Balaton, Chairman of the Minnesota Beef Council. "It is our way of helping educators and their students understand that food is produced by farmers who care very much about the quality and safety of our products," he added.

Funding for the project came from Land O'Lakes member cooperatives through a customer incentive program based on the amount of beef feed sold during a certain period and support from the Minnesota Beef Council.

The video kit will be distributed through organizations and private individuals. Representatives of local beef, dairy and general farm organizations should phone the Minnesota Beef Council to request copies of the kit. The kit is also available to any interested individual who agrees to assist in distribution. Educators are encouraged to contact the Minnesota Beef Council directly to obtain their copy of the video and kit. There is no charge for the kit as long as it is distributed to elementary school teachers and used in the classroom.

The video includes Donna Moenning, a Rochester farm news broadcaster; Leonard and Vi Wulf of Morris and their sons Dennis, Dave, Jerry and Jim; Dr. Alfredo di Costanzo of the University of Minnesota; the Gary and Pat Purath family of Red Lake Falls and Dwight and Ranae Hasselquist from Center City. These families spoke of their long time commit*ment to agriculture* and their strong family values. Many of the best scenes include the children of these families involved with farming chores. Jeff Gerard of Spring Grove, a national Environmental Stewardship Award winner is also included in the video.

To order your educational video kit phone the Minnesota Beef Council at (616) 854-6980 or write to 2850 Metro Drive, Suite 426, Minneapolis, MN 55425.

REGARDING THE TERMINATION OF THE GENERAL MANAGER OF THE OKLEE FARMERS COOPERATIVE ELEVATOR ASSOCIATION:

I thought it only right to wish farewell to my friends in Oklee and the surrounding communities. This is a letter I had hoped would not be necessary to write but in light of several issues brought to my attention, I feel it is time to address the issues surrounding my termination.

To build a business up it has to take advantage of the opportunities that are at hand. As they say "nothing ventured, nothing gained." The employees of the Oklee Cooperative Elevator and I have increased the elevator patronage base from 290 patrons to over 500 patrons in a short two year time frame and we have implemented several alternatives for financing that are easily accessed by our patrons. We have increased our feed volume by 40%. All the elevator equipment has been upgraded and updated to ensure that services for the patrons can be performed without delays. I believe that cooperatives were built to supply services to all its patrons not just a certain few.

When I was terminated on April 11th I was told it was because I had purchased illegal feeder pigs. The board of directors told me that the lawyer stated that it was illegal for the cooperative to own hogs. I called the lawyer for the elevator and I asked him if it was illegal for a cooperative to own livestock. He stated it was not illegal to own livestock and that he instructed the board of directors that the word "illegal" should not be used when discussing this matter with any patron.

On April 12th, the day after my termination, many patrons called the board of directors of the Oklee Elevator and were told by board members that Daryl was terminated for purchasing feeder pigs and it was illegal for a cooperative to own livestock.

Now I would like to elaborate on how we ended up in this position. GTA Feeds (sister company of Harvest States) was supposed to be the owner of the feeder pigs. I hired an individual who was referred to me by GTA Feeds to take the [illegible] that GTA [illegible] that individual and have these contracted growers sign them and set this grow-out program into motion. Contracts were signed, agreements were made and shortly thereafter GTA backed out, leaving the elevator and myself exposed to fulfill these agreements without the backing of GTA Feeds. The elevator's role in this feeder pig grow-out program was to supply all feed products used for all contracts. I took the proper measures to secure and to eliminate all risks for the Oklee Elevator. My main goal was to find another feed company that would become a partner in this program and to get back on track with what the board and I had agreed upon. Again, the program was to be set up where GTA was to own the hogs and we were to supply the feed and we would have been equal partners in the profits and losses. To this date Land O'Lakes wants to take over these contracts and supply all feeds from their Detroit Lakes facility. It was stated at the meeting held Friday, April 18th, that the feeder pigs were going to profit the elevator approximately $11 per head. If this was such a terrible situation that the board decided to terminate me, it would seem to me that the Oklee Elevator board does not want this cooperative to make money.

To be aggressive is bad if your board is not a progressive one. The board of directors of the Oklee Elevator found it easier to terminate than to proceed with a project of this magnitude. The other reason the board stated for termination was that it was difficult to access information from me in order to validate my position in which is now called by the board an "unauthorized" purchase. I called the board of directors several times over the past few weeks to set up a meeting to rectify this problem. I stated to them that I needed their support and that together we could remedy this situation, but they found it easier to discredit me rather than band together and find a solution to the problem. I wish the board of directors would have taken the advice from their legal counsel to reprimand me rather than terminate my position.

On Sunday, April 13th, the board hired me as a consultant for the week of April 14th-18th. Why would a board hire back a former employee they felt had been so detrimental to their cooperative to be a consultant?

On April 18th the board made several comments that they could not trust their general manager because he had acted without board approval and he was reluctant to give information willingly. The lack of trust between myself and the board of directors began when I discovered that the board of directors had been notified by the previous general manager that an employee, which has now resigned, was not to be trusted. They were notified of this employee's irregularities on two separate occasions, once in 1991 and the other in 1995. Both of these notices were prior to my employment but I was never alerted to these irregularities. The board chose not to inform me for whatever reasons they may have had regarding this employee. Trust is not a word that this board should be using loosely.

The Oklee community is the best to raise your children and the school system is second to none. It saddens my family and me to know that we will have to leave this community. There are many of you who stood by my family and me during this time and we will be forever grateful to you for your support and concern.

I have taken the position of general manager of a multi-line station. If you have any questions regarding these issues I will be at the Oklee Farmers Cooperative Elevator Association's Annual Meeting to address your questions.

Consider oats as alternative crop to wheat and barley

Grain growers who want to avoid many of the disease and insect problems associated with wheat and barley production may want to consider oats as an alternative in 1997, suggest agronomists at North Dakota State University.

Oats are affected by fusarium head blight to a much lesser extent than either wheat or barley and may fit well into rotations to help break the disease cycle.

Oats are also unaffected by orange wheat blossom midge and provide a good crop alternative in areas where midge is a problem.

Kit developed to teach ag values to students

Land O'Lakes Cooperatives and Minnesota's beef industry have teamed up on a special education project to communicate the importance of agriculture to upper elementary students.

The education kit includes a 16 minute video titled "Minnesota's Proud Tradition...Agriculture' and a special teacher's guide. The kit is available now and is targeted to the grade level when Minnesota studies are taught - usually 4, 5 or 6. "This video will be a wonderful resource for educators who wish to incorporate agriculture and food production into the curriculum," says Dennis Swan of Balaton, Chairman of the Minnesota Beef Council. "It is our way of helping educators and their students understand that food is produced by farmers who care very much about the quality and safety of our products," he added.

Funding for the project came from Land O'Lakes member cooperatives through a customer incentive program based on the amount of beef feed sold during a certain period and support from the Minnesota Beef Council.

The video kit will be distributed through organizations and private individuals. Representatives of local beef, dairy and general farm organizations should phone the Minnesota Beef Council to request copies of the kit. The kit is also available to any interested individual who agrees to assist in distribution. Educators are encouraged to contact the Minnesota Beef Council directly to obtain their copy of the video and kit. There is no charge for the kit as long as it is distributed to elementary school teachers and used in the classroom.

The video includes Donna Moenning, a Rochester farm news broadcaster; Leonard and Vi Wulf of Morris and their sons Dennis, Dave, Jerry and Jim; Dr. Alfredo di Costanzo of the University of Minnesota; the Gary and Pat Purath family of Red Lake Falls and Dwight and Ranae Hasselquist from Center City. These families spoke of their long time commit*ment to agriculture* and their strong family values. Many of the best scenes include the children of these families involved with farming chores. Jeff Gerard of Spring Grove, a national Environmental Stewardship Award winner is also included in the video.

To order your educational video kit phone the Minnesota Beef Council at (616) 854-6980 or write to 2850 Metro Drive, Suite 426, Minneapolis, MN 55425.

REGARDING THE TERMINATION OF THE GENERAL MANAGER OF THE OKLEE FARMERS COOPERATIVE ELEVATOR ASSOCIATION:

I thought it only right to wish farewell to my friends in Oklee and the surrounding communities. This is a letter I had hoped would not be necessary to write but in light of several issues brought to my attention, I feel it is time to address the issues surrounding my termination.

To build a business up it has to take advantage of the opportunities that are at hand. As they say "nothing ventured, nothing gained." The employees of the Oklee Cooperative Elevator and I have increased the elevator patronage base from 290 patrons to over 500 patrons in a short two year time frame and we have implemented several alternatives for financing that are easily accessed by our patrons. We have increased our feed volume by 40%. All the elevator equipment has been upgraded and updated to ensure that services for the patrons can be performed without delays. I believe that cooperatives were built to supply services to all its patrons not just a certain few.

When I was terminated on April 11th I was told it was because I had purchased illegal feeder pigs. The board of directors told me that the lawyer stated that it was illegal for the cooperative to own hogs. I called the lawyer for the elevator and I asked him if it was illegal for a cooperative to own livestock. He stated it was not illegal to own livestock and that he instructed the board of directors that the word "illegal" should not be used when discussing this matter with any patron.

On April 12th, the day after my termination, many patrons called the board of directors of the Oklee Elevator and were told by board members that Daryl was terminated for purchasing feeder pigs and it was illegal for a cooperative to own livestock.

Now I would like to elaborate on how we ended up in this position. GTA Feeds (sister company of Harvest States) was supposed to be the owner of the feeder pigs. I hired an individual who was referred to me by GTA Feeds to take the contracts that GTA sent to that individual and have these contracted growers sign them and set this grow-out program into motion. Contracts were signed, agreements were made and shortly thereafter GTA backed out, leaving the elevator and myself exposed to fulfill these agreements without the backing of GTA Feeds. The elevator's role in this feeder pig grow-out program was to supply all feed products used for all contracts. I took the proper measures to secure and to eliminate all risks for the Oklee Elevator. My main goal was to find another feed company that would become a partner in this program and to get back on track with what the board and I had agreed upon. Again, the program was to be set up where GTA was to own the hogs and we were to supply the feed and we would have been equal partners in the profits and losses. To this date Land O'Lakes wants to take over these contracts and supply all feeds from their Detroit Lakes facility. It was stated at the meeting held Friday, April 18th, that the feeder pigs were going to profit the elevator approximately $11 per head. If this was such a terrible situation that the board decided to terminate me, it would seem to me that the Oklee Elevator board does not want this cooperative to make money.

To be aggressive is bad if your board is not a progressive one. The board of directors of the Oklee Elevator found it easier to terminate than to proceed with a project of this magnitude. The other reason the board stated for termination was that it was difficult to access information from me in order to validate my position in which is now called by the board an "unauthorized" purchase. I called the board of directors several times over the past few weeks to set up a meeting to rectify this problem. I stated to them that I needed their support and that together we could remedy this situation, but they found it easier to discredit me rather than band together and find a solution to the problem. I wish the board of directors would have taken the advice from their legal counsel to reprimand me rather than terminate my position.

On Sunday, April 13th, the board hired me as a consultant for the week of April 14th - 18th. Why would a board hire back a former employee they felt had been so detrimental to their cooperative to be a consultant?

On April 14th the board made several comments that they could not trust their general manager because he had acted without board approval and he was reluctant to give information willingly. The lack of trust between myself and the board of directors began when I discovered that the board of directors had been notified by the previous general manager that an employee, which has now resigned, was not to be trusted. They were notified of this employee's irregularities on two separate occasions, once in 1991 and the other in 1995. Both of these notices were prior to my employment but I was never alerted to these irregularities. The board chose not to inform me for whatever reasons they may have had regarding this employee. Trust is not a word that this board should be using loosely.

The Oklee community is the best to raise your children and the school system is second to none. It saddens my family and me to know that we will have to leave your community. There are many of you who stood by my family and me during this time and we will be forever grateful to you for your support and concern.

I have taken the position of general manager of a multi-line station. If you have any questions regarding these issues I will be at the Oklee Farmers Cooperative Elevator Association's Annual Meeting to address your questions.

Consider oats as alternative crop to wheat and barley

Grain growers who want to avoid many of the disease and insect problems associated with wheat and barley production may want to consider oats as an alternative in 1997, suggest agronomists at North Dakota State University.

Oats are affected by fusarium head blight to a much lesser extent than either wheat or barley and may fit well into rotations to help break the disease cycle.

Oats are also unaffected by orange wheat blossom midge and provide a good crop alternative in areas where midge is a problem.

Lutheran and Catholic Bishops join efforts in response to needs in area flood disaster

Bishop Victor Balke of the Crookston Diocese, Roman Catholic Church and Bishop Arlen Hermodson of the Northwestern Minnesota Synod-Evangelical Lutheran Church in America, have issued letters to their respective clergy asking them to remember in prayer those who are victims of the spring flooding and to encourage an offering for such victims.

Lutheran Volunteer Efforts. Volunteer needs are being coordinated through Lutheran Social Services of Minnesota (LSS), on behalf of Lutheran Disaster Response. Call the LSS Disaster Response Hot-line, 1-800-582-5260 to volunteer, or to request assistance. LSS Disaster Response Coordinator Melanie Josephson can also be reached at 612-642-5990.

Contributions to ELCA Domestic Disaster Response, marked "Spring Floods," will be used entirely to support relief efforts. Contributions should be sent to: ELCA Domestic Disaster Response, P.O. Box 71764, Chicago, IL, 60694-1764. Emergency supplies will be needed, as well as volunteer help in cleanup and debris removal.

Catholic Volunteer Efforts: Emergency relief efforts by the Catholic Diocese are being coordinated through local service providers and the office of Christian Service on behalf of Catholic Charities. All contributions from Catholic Parishes and Parishioners earmarked "Spring Flood Disaster Relief," will be used for immediate relief for victims of the disaster.

For more information or to request assistance, contact Bernadette Dunn, director, Office of Christian Service, 218-281-4533; or Jan Delage, Carrie MacIver and Betty Kulles of Tri-Valley, at 1-800-584-7020 or 218-281-5832.

Froilands share stay in hospital

by Kathy Juneau
Plummer

It has been a long, hard, cold winter for Art and Avis Froiland of Plummer. Art has been in and out of the hospital starting on Halloween, over Thanksgiving and then back over Christmas.

During Art's Christmas stay, Avis was able to be nearby through use of the other bed in the room which was not needed at the time. They were thus able to be together at Christmas like always. Their family and friends brought them cards, gifts and even a Christmas tree.

Everything was starting to look good for Art in March. He was home and things were going well. One week before Easter Avis became ill and was taken to the hospital. Art joined her as a patient a day later (see photo above) and they spent Easter as patients in the same room at Northwest Medical Center.

Now the two are home again and doing great, and we hope we also have had our last storm.

Avis Sorenson was born Jan. 1, 1912, just northeast of Plummer and Art was born June 14, 1911 just southwest of Plummer. They were married in July of 1943 at Salem Lutheran Church, rural Oklee, and moved to the family farm. Art and Avis farmed the land and Art worked at the Plummer Elevator and Avis served as a teacher's aide at Plummer school for 10 years.

The couple has two children, Rick, who is the fourth generation living on the farm with his family and daughter Marie Foster of St. Paul. They have eight grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Art and Avis are living very happily together just east of Plummer. They would like to thank Rev. Clarence Johnson of Immanuel Lutheran church and everyone for all the many prayers and well wishes. They surely are a great example of how we should live our lives and our lives have been enriched by knowing these two lovely people, Art and Avis.

Area residents serve on boards for commodities

Several area residents have been elected to boards of various commodity research and promotion councils, according to information released by Gene Hugoson, Minnesota Commissioner of Agriculture.

Norma Hanson, Goodridge, was reelected to the Dairy Research and Promotion Council from Region 1.

James Thompson of Kittson county was reelected from District 1 and Curtis Knutson of Norman county was elected from District 2 to the Barley Research and Promotion Council.

Gary Purath of Red Lake Falls was reelected from District 1 to the Beef Research and Promotion Council.

Arthur Brandli of Roseau county was reelected and Kelly Bengtson of Kittson county was elected, both from Area 1, to the Wheat Research and Promotion Council. John Leseth of Clay county was elected to the wheat council from Area 2.

Hiram Christopherson from Yellow Medicine county was reelected from Districts 1, 2 and 4 to the Corn Research and Promotion council. Election of a member from Districts 1, 2 and 3 to the Soybean Research and Promotion Council will be announced at a later date.

FEMA makes immediate payments

Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) has announced that flood insurance policyholders in North Dakota, South Dakota and Minnesota who have sustained losses in the recent flooding are eligible to receive an immediate partial claims payment of up to $2,000 to help with their initial recovery costs.

Officials of the Federal Insurance Administration, the part of FEMA that administers the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP), said policyholders should contact their flood insurance agent or company to begin the claims process.

On Wednesday, April 23, Commissioner Glenn Pomeroy of the North Dakota Department of Insurance and James Shortley, director of claims, Federal Insurance Administration, surveyed the widespread damage in Fargo and Grand Forks, ND. They noted that policyholders might have difficulty contacting their insurance agents because they, too, have been displaced.

To assist North Dakota's flood insurance policyholders, Commissioner Pomeroy has established a toll-free number, 1-800-247-0560. The insurance department staff will take down the necessary information and ensure that it is given to the appropriate people so an adjuster can be assigned and the partial payment issued.

"We appreciate Commissioner Pomeroy's swift action to assist policyholders," said FEMA Director James Lee Witt.

"Returning to a flood-damaged home or business is devastating," Witt said. "Recovering from this disaster is your goal, and we want to make sure that the process is as fast and easy for you as possible."

The NFIP makes federally backed flood insurance available in communities that adopt and enforce local ordinances to reduce future flood losses. Currently, more than 3.6 million policies are in force nationwide, representing $383 billion worth of coverage.

Ericksons honored by University Extension

The Ericksons were honored when the university held its Leadership in Agricultural Enterprises Farm Family Recognition program at the student center on the St. Paul campus.

This annual salute to Minnesota agriculture is sponsored by the College of Agricultural, Food and Environmental Sciences, the Minnesota Extension Service and the Minnesota Agricultural Experiment station. It salutes outstanding farm couples, families and individuals from across the state for their contributions to both agriculture and communities.

Honorees are nominated for the award by local county extension staff and agricultural leaders. This is the 17th year of the program and the 86 families and individuals representing 68 counties were recognized by the university, including six honorees for contributions to new initiatives in agriculture.

John and Myrna Erickson operate a Century Farm, designated through the Minnesota State Fair as having been in continuous ownership by the same family for 100 years or more. It started as a quarter section of land and has grown into a more than 2,000-acre operation.

Originally a dairy farm with as many as 65 cows, the family business discontinued the dairy in 1987 and expanded the grain enterprise to include wheat, barley and sunflowers.

While not working the land, John has spent time as the township clerk for the past 39 years, has been treasurer of the St. Hilaire Fire Department, secretary-treasurer of the Pennington County Township Officers Association and a member of the Northwest Regional Development Commission.

Myrna serves on the county extension committee, is a member of Minnesota Agri-Women and is director of food service for School District 564. She was also a 4-H club leader when their children Craig, 27 and Cheryl, 24, were members of that program.

Education

Students can be enrolled in School District 564.

As of Friday morning, 24 children had been enrolled at Challenger, six at Franklin Middle school and one at Lincoln High School. Officials at School District 564 said they were expecting more to enroll on Friday and next week.

Superintendent Jerry Robicheau said they will enroll any student from districts not able to have school. He added that if they get to a point where no more room is available in a classroom they would open addition rooms and contact staff from those schools to provide assistance. Robicheau said he was in contact with state officials regarding the situation.

Disaster Recovery
News Summary as of 4/24/97

Following through with President Clinton's pledge to provide funding for emergency assistance, $20 million has been transferred to the State of Minnesota for debris removal and emergency protective work. John McKay, federal coordinating officer for the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) announced that the funds will be available to state, affected local governments, and tribal governments.

These federal funds will provide 100 percent of the eligible costs for the debris removal and emergency protective work related to this disaster, which began March 21. Additional funds will be available under this program as specific eligible costs are identified with each state agency, local community of tribal government.

Unemployed disaster victims will receive state and Federal help. Federal officials announced recently that $9 million in federal funds would be made available to residents who are unemployed because of the winter storms and flooding. The Disaster Unemployment Assistance program is administered by the state and 100 percent funded by FEMA. Weekly benefits are available to those individuals out of work due to the disaster, including self-employed persons; farm owners and others not covered under regular unemployment insurance.

This program applies to any individual who lived or worked in any of the 55 declared counties eligible for Individual Assistance. Unemployed disaster victims should apply for benefits at any Minnesota Employment office or they may visit a Disaster Recovery Center for further information. Applicants will need to bring their Social Security numbers as well as documentation of earnings and employment before the disaster, if available.

FEMA grant supports crisis counseling programs. FEMA officials announced that $462,127 has been approved to implement the Crisis Management program. The State of Minnesota will receive 50 percent of that amount initially to provide crisis counseling for residents in all 55 federal declared counties eligible for Individual Assistance.

People in the declared areas have seen their lives severely affected by the storms and flooding. The emotional needs often extend beyond financial assistance FEMA provides to disaster victims to help them begin to rebuild their lives.

Experts suggest that talking about flood experiences and sharing feelings will help people feel better about what happened. Those in the declared counties who wish to talk to someone about their feelings regarding their flood losses are encouraged to contact their local mental health center or visit a Disaster Recovery Center. All calls or visits will be kept confidential.

$11.5 million approved for the individual and family grant program. An initial estimate of $11.5 million was approved today by FEMA for the Individual and Family Grant (IFG) program. Federal funds totaling $2.25 million were obligated and transferred to the state. This program provides grants to individuals and families to meet serious disaster-related needs and necessary expenses not covered by insurance, or other federal, state, or voluntary agency disaster assistance programs. Funds are available for things you can do to minimize the effects of future disaster risks.

The IFG program is administered and partially funded by the state, 75 percent FEMA and two percent from the state — providing 100 percent funding.

Emergency Housing grants to victims near $2 million. Almost $2 million in federal housing assistance grants has been distributed to 1,636 disaster victims and families since the disaster declaration. The bulk of this money has gone toward providing temporary housing assistance to families who have lost their homes. In many cases, this will be just the first check applicants may receive for eligible losses.

After applying for assistance, victims with questions are urged to call FEMA's help line. "What is the status of my claim? What do I do if my home is still inaccessible? or How can I use my FEMA check?" are common questions that many applicants ask. Answers to these and many other questions can be found by calling FEMA's toll-free Help line at 1-800-525-0321 or special TTY number, 1-800-660-8005, for the speech or hearing impaired. The numbers are available 7 a.m. to 9 p.m., seven days a week.

After you have applied for disaster assistance, the toll-free line serves to provide follow-up information for disaster assistance applicants and to update information for applications, such as temporary location, that have already been submitted. Flood victims should turn to the Help line when they have questions about their application or any disaster assistance programs.

Former EGF mayor glad she didn't face flood

Following her retirement, she agreed to join three friends for a 40-day trip to Europe. Shortly after her return, citizens of East Grand Forks came to her and asked if she would consent to being a write-in candidate for mayor in the election only a few days away. She finally agreed, and was elected over the incumbent mayor.

Two years later she was reelected without opposition, then declined to seek a third term.

"They were very busy years," Mrs. Harney says of her four years as mayor. "It wasn't supposed to be a full-time job, but I was retired and I gave all of my time to it. I believe they were four of the most productive years the city has had. I did a lot of visitation and I did all I could to encourage business.

"We had a very good city council," she added, "and an excellent city clerk who is still in that office. We all worked well together and shared many of the same progressive interests."

Establishment of the East Grand Forks technical school took place during her service as mayor. So did building of the Good Samaritan Home, for which she helped organize a fund drive to purchase the property and assisted in gaining financing to build.

Now 94 years young, Harney entered the Good Samaritan Home in East Grand Forks "for a couple of weeks until the flood was over. It's a beautiful facility and they serve lovely meals."

Vivian had been living in the home she has occupied since 1963 in the 1700 block of River Road Northwest..... "right next to the Red Cross." Along with about 119 other residents of the Good Samaritan Home, she was evacuated to Thief River Falls last Friday night, April 18, and has been staying at Northland Community and Technical College.

Like so many residents of both East Grand Forks and Grand Forks, Mrs. Harney doesn't know how much damage her property has sustained from the flood. She knows that the home of her son Harold in Grand Forks was extensively damaged. She also has another son, Don, in Arizona and had a daughter who is deceased.

How does the former mayor feel she would have reacted if this 500-year flood had struck the city during her service as mayor?

"I'm just glad it didn't," she said. "I was fortunate that most of what took place during my two terms was positive and I didn't have to deal with anything like what is happening now.

"I can't believe East Grand Forks is so destroyed. I wonder how all the people are going to make arrangements once the water goes down. Even people with means don't know that they are going to do."

Mrs. Harney is also acutely aware of some of the problems created by the necessity to move residents of the home from East Grand Forks to Thief River Falls. "I don't know how the staff and the residents can cope with weeks of displacement," she said.

"We will never be able to thank Thief River Falls enough for what has been done for the residents of Good Sam," Mrs. Harney added. "All the volunteers have been wonderful and what has been done has been marvelous," she said.

"Please be sure to thank them for all of us."

We don't need to do that, Mrs. Harney. You already have.

Flooding remains concern of folks in Ditch 20 area

Upon investigating the problem they resolved that flow might go up but that they would not see much in the way of a damaging wall of water.

Johnson said he asked the National Weather Service what they would do and they soid they would not issue a flash flood watch or a flash flood warning.

Johnson said if a dike at Agassiz collapsed and at Madsen Pool, flows would have increased by about one foot in Thief River Falls. Due to the high level of water at the time and the amount of water already in the flood plain, the impact further downstream would have been buffered in the first 10 miles. He noted that individuals living between the refuge and Ditch 20, however, are struggling with high water.

Huschle said there were significant flows from Agassiz Pool into Parker Pool Wednesday. They had a draw down in Parker Pool this spring to help with storage for flooding. Parker Pool is the primary spillway.

As of Wednesday, Agassiz Pool had been stable for the last 48 hours. Parker has yet to stabilize. He estimated that it would be two more days before it began to stabilize. The rate, however, has slowed by about half since Tuesday.

Farmes Pool flow is two feet over the top stop logs, which are at their highest.

Huschle said other pools were releasing into the river but not enough to be of major concern.

Residents living near Agassiz could see some flooding. He said it is also possible to see water over County road 7. "It's nip and tuck now," he soid.

There haven't been many problems this year. They constantly monitor the dikes. "Things are working the way they're supposed to," Huschle said, "but it is high."

It is a record level in Agassiz Pool. Huschle said they were asked not to increase flow into the river last week and they complied. It's not a binding agreement, but they like to cooperate whenever possible. At this time last week, they would have just started releasing water.

There has been a minimal impact on wildlife so far, he said. Some Canada geese are nesting now. There has also been some displacement of small animals. Deer and moose also have had to shift. Two weeks from now, more birds will have started nesting and reducing water levels will leave some nests high and dry.

North Valley Home Health to begin immunization clinics

North Valley Home Health will hold immunization clinics on the following dates and times:

- May 6 at the Newfolden Community Center from 9 to 11 a.m.
- Thursday, May 8, at the Grygla Civic building from 9 to 11 a.m.;
- Monday, May 19, at the Evangelical Covenant Church in Warren from 9 to 11 a.m.

The vaccine used is provided free of charge by the Minnesota Department of Health for use in community based clinics. These clinics are open to the public and anyone who needs immunizations is encouraged to attend.

Vaccines provided include: DTP, DTAP, HTPHib, Td, DT, Hep B infant, Hep B qualifying adult or adolescent, OPV, MMR, Hib.

There will be a $5 fee for administering the vaccine, but no one will be refused because of inability to pay.

Immunization services provided at these public clinics should not be substituted for the child's usual well-child visit with his or her physician. Please bring the child's immunization record each time a child is brought in for a shot. Immunizations will not be provided unless the record is present, unless it is the first shot.

For more information call Nancy Maurstad, RN, at the North Valley Home Health, 218-745-5154 or 1-800-950-6986.

Dummer herd leads DHIA in February

Richard Dummer's dairy herd at Brooks was the top producing herd in the Pennington-Red Lake Dairy Herd Improvement Association for the month of February, according to Randy and Margaret Rasmussen, supervisors.

Eighty-seven percent of Dummer's 87-cow herd was in production in February and averaged 72 pounds of milk, 2.1 pounds of butterfat and 2.2 pounds of protein per day.

Todd and Jay Johnston's herd was second in the association with 84 per cent of the 70 cows in milk and production averaging 71 pounds of milk, 2.6 pounds of butterfat and 2.2 pounds of protein.

Small cow herd at the Northwest Experiment Station at Crookston was in third place for February as 87 per cent of the 55 cow herd was in production and averaged 69 pounds of milk, 2.6 pounds of butterfat and 2.3 pounds of protein.

Other herds in the top 15 included the following with number of cows in the herd, percentage in production, pounds of milk, butterfat and protein listed respectively:

Mylo Carlson, 68, 90%, 68, 2.4 and 2.1; Tom Willett, 50, 90%, 67, 2.4 and 2.2, Northwest Agricultural Experiment Station (large cow herd), 46, 91%, 65, 2.4 and 2.1; Mark Hanson, 57, 86%, 64, 2.1 and 2.0; and Lyle Swanson, 44, 80%, 62, 2.0 and 2.0.

Also Tom and Diane Kolstoe, 43, 86%, 61, 2.3 and 1.9, Walter Bros Farm, 171, 88%, 61, 2.3 and 2.0; Greg Zak, 74, 92%, 61, 2.2 and 1.9; Steve Nelson, 62, 94%, 61, 2.0 and 2.0, Wayne Nelson, 41, 88%, 60, 2.0 and 1.9; L& R Dairy, 175, 86%, 58, 1.9 and 1.8, Warren Malwitz Dairy, 113, 92%, 57, 2.2 and 1.8; and Wesley Bring, 33, 94%, 57, 1.9 and 1.7.

Supervisors Randy and Margaret Rasmussen point out that herd averages are adversely affected by the number of dry cows because production is averaged over the entire herd, not only those milking. This is done to give the herd owner a record of the herd's earning power for the month.

Accept requests for funding to assist seniors

Applications are being accepted by the Area Agency on Aging of the Northwest Regional Development Commission for funding to provide services during 1997 to individuals age 60 and older in northwestern Minnesota.

Deadline to apply for the federal Older American Act funds has been set as May 23, according to Darien Robson, director of the agency.

Funding is available to provide services which will maintain the independence of individuals age 60 and older in Roseau, Kittson, Marshall, Polk, Red Lake, Norman and Pennington counties, Robson said.

Some of those services may include guardianship, volunteer respite care, telephoning, transportation and development of residential services as an alternative to nursing homes. Funding is also available for health promotion and wellness programs designed to encourage individuals to adopt more healthy lifestyles.

Public or private agencies and political subdivisions of Minnesota are eligible to apply for the matching grant funds. Federal Older Americans Act funds are provided through the Minnesota Board on Aging and administered locally by the Northwest Area Agency on Aging.

To obtain an application packet, or for further information, contact Darien Robson at the Northwest Area Agency on Aging, 115 South Main, Suite 1, Warren, MN 56762 or call 218-745-6733 or the Senior Linkage line at 1-800-333-2433.

Rux qualifies for million dollar group

Gary Rux, CLU, ChFC, Thief River Falls, has earned membership for the fourth time in the Million Dollar Round Table of Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company.

Membership in the roundtable is attained by life insurance producers who meet an annual production requirement, are members of their local life underwriters association and sell a minimum of 25 lives/cases. The roundtable represents the top six percent of all life underwriters worldwide.

NCTC students to get help in finishing quarter

Northland Community and Technical College students displaced by the flood are asked to contact the students' disaster resource center at 1-800-959-6282 and ask for Shawn McDonald.

"Northland will make every effort to help students complete their coursework this quarter," McDonald said, "but we need to reestablish contact with the students in order to provide the necessary assistance."

Support group for post-polio syndrome meets

Post-polio syndrome support group will meet Thursday, May 1, from 1:30 to 3 p.m. at the Thief River Falls public library meeting room. All persons interested are welcome to attend.

Pine to Prairie provides wrong number in story

Pine to Prairie Home Health Care provided a wrong number to be called by persons seeking to have someone come to their residence and assess home health care needs. The correct number to call is 1-800-864-3758.

Rev. Charles "Jake" Dyrhaug will be presenting a benefit concert at Zion Lutheran Church Sunday, April 27, at 7 p.m. The concert is a benefit for Zion's youth who will be attending the National Youth Gathering in New Orleans this summer. The event is entitled "An Evening of Piano Music, with a Brief Look Into the Religious Faith of the Composers." Jake is the son-in-law of Rev. Dennis and Naomi Reymond, pastor at Zion. He is also a pastor serving a Lutheran congregation in Park Rapids. The concert is open to the public. A free-will offering will be received to assist the youth at Zion.

Goodridge prom, banquet, on May 3

Junior-senior prom and banquet are scheduled for Saturday, May 3, in the Goodridge high school gymnasium with "I Remember You" as the theme and junior class as the sponsor.

Grand march will be conducted for the public at 7 p.m. in the gym with admission of $1 for visitors. The banquet is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the gym with the dance to follow at 9 p.m. Music will be provided by Vecton Entertainment.

An after-prom party from midnight to 4 a.m. will take place in the community room of the school with food, soft drinks, games and prize drawings as part of the festivities.

Pioneers share division lead

A berth in the National Junior College Athletic Association Region 13 tournament is on the line today (Saturday) when Northland drives to Hibbing for a 1 p.m. Minnesota Community College Conference baseball doubleheader.

Top two teams through the first round of MCCC Northern Division home-and-home match-ups earn trips to the mid-season regional tournament, scheduled to be held May 9-10 in the Twin Cities Area. Northland and Itasca, after a Monday twinbill split in Grand Rapids, enter the weekend in a first place tie at 4-2. Other contenders are a game back at 3-3.

Northland outlasted Itasca 10-8 in eight innings in Wednesday's doubleheader opener. The Vikings outscored the Pioneers 15-10 in the nightcap.

"We were getting people on base all day," pointed out Northland coach Terry Wiseth. "In the first game, we got some timely hits, and Itasca left a lot of runners on base. It was the other way around in the second game. Itasca was getting the key hits, and we wound up leaving a lot of runners (10) on base."

Northland won the opener with a pair of runs in the top of the eighth when inning-opening singles by Grant Skibicki and Cory Bowman quickly put runners at first and third. Itasca committed two errors on a ball off the bat of Chane Keefe to break the tie, and moments later a third error of the inning allowed a second run to cross the plate.

The Pioneers saw an 8-7 lead disappear in the bottom of the seventh, but got a clutch eighth inning relief performance from Gary Hill, who came in with the bases loaded and one out. He got out of the jam with a first-pitch infield pop-up and a second-baller strike-out.

Northland, after making up a 5-0 deficit in Game 1, couldn't come up with another come-from-behind effort in Game 2 when they surrendered six runs in the bottom of the first and trailed 8-1 after two innings.

Offensively, Bowman was the Pioneers leader as he reached base on 9 of his 10 doubleheader plate appearances.

Northland is 6-8 overall.

TRF has busy softball schedule

A busy week of high school softball awaits Thief River Falls, with the Prowlers scheduled to take the field every day, Monday-through-Saturday, except for a mid-week open date Wednesday.

Most of the action will take place at the Prowlers' fairgrounds diamond as they entertain Moorhead Monday, Crookston Tuesday, and Badger/Greenbush-Middle River Friday before serving as host for the annual Prowler Invitational Friday that will include Warroad, Crookston, Marshall County Central, Red Lake County, Roseau, Kittson Central and East Grand Forks Sacred Heart.

Thief River Falls will also make a Thursday trip to Roseau. The invitational tournament will start at 9 a.m. Regularly-scheduled games have a 4:30 p.m. starting time, including the Tuesday match-up against Crookston that will be a doubleheader affair.

Tuesday, Thief River Falls lost a 20-2 decision at Detroit Lakes.

The Lakers out-hit the Prowlers 8-3 and Thief River Falls had seven of the game's eight errors.

"We just couldn't hit the ball," said Thief River Falls coach Ken Fletcher.

It was the second loss in two starts for the Prowlers.

Scoring/Innings

High school tennis...

Bemidji beats TRF 6-1

Thief River Falls boys are still looking for their first win of the 1997 high school tennis season. The Prowlers' dual meet record fell to 0-6 Thursday following a 6-1 loss at Bemidji.

Lone Thief River Falls win came at No. 1 singles, where Jacob Broten swept Clay Henrickson 6-0, 6-0.

Bemidji posted straight-set wins elsewhere, although Pete Zierke and Peder Engelstad needed a pair of tie-breaking decisions to beat Matt Winjum and Allan Bolar at No. 3 doubles.

"We're playing all right, but we've had people gone, and we've had to make a lot of changes in our line-up," explained Thief River Falls coach Kim Maidment. "Same thing happened last year. We had a rough start. Hopefully things will come around."

Bemidji 6, TRF 1

Singles - 1. Jacob Broten (TRF) def. Clay Henrickson 6-0, 6-0; 2. Nate Shuelle (Bemidji) def. Brock Walseth 6-3, 6-1; 3. Seth Halstead (Bemidji) def. Tom Fogarty 6-2, 6-2; 4. Jimmy Wheeler (Bemidji) def. Joe Broten 6-1, 7-5.

Doubles - 1. Aaron Karger-Randy Baird (Bemidji) def. Jeremy Trelliline-Matt Gustafson 6-3, 6-0; 2. Jeff Lindseth-Matt Yavarow (Bemidji) def. Josh Cahalan-Darin Bjerknes 6-1, 6-2; 3. Pete Zierke-Peder Engelstad (Bemidji) def. Matt Winjum-Allan Bolar 7-6 (7-2), 7-6 (7-4).

Exhibition - Jon Hatch-Leland Potter (Bemidji) def. Andy Janisch-Bailey Nordin 6-4.

Northland batter Jackie Magner put a well-placed bunt down the third base line for a sixth inning single in the first game of Tuesday's college softball doubleheader against Ridgewater in Thief River Falls. The Pioneers lost both games, 6-5 and 7-4.

Ridgewater softball team sweeps NCTC

Ridgewater came up with a couple of come-from-behind wins over Northland Tuesday in a nonconference college softball doubleheader played in Thief River Falls.

The Pioneers led 4-0 in Game 1, but lost 6-5. They had a 3-0 edge in Game 2 and lost 7-4.

Northland played error-free defense and put together a 14-hit attack in the opener, but couldn't come up with the timely hit down the stretch that would have netted a win.

"It was a well-played game between two evenly-matched teams," said Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "We played well, but we couldn't get that key hit."

Two Northland errors in the nightcap led to four Ridgewater runs.

"The errors could not have come at a worst time," explained Nikunen. "They occurred in really critical situations."

It was the first home appearance of the 1997 season for the Pioneers, who began the year with a 3-3 showing on the road.

Game 1

Northland	040 001 0	-	5	14	0
Ridgewater	006 141 x	-	6	10	0

Pitching - (NCTC) Angie Vagle-LP; (Ridgewater) Tammy Graff-WP.

NCTC offensive highlights - Jackie Magner 3/4, Cami Sorenson 2/3, 3 RBI.

Ridgewater	003 002 2	-	7	9	0
Northland	210 010 0	-	4	9	2

Pitching - (NCTC) Carisa Meyer-LP; (Ridgewater) Angie Braaten-WP.

NCTC offensive highlights - Paula Hovda 2/4, Sarah Falk 2/4, double, triple, Devin Grugel 2/4.

Monday track meet site to be switched

Crookston VFW Invitational boys and girls high school track meet, scheduled to be held Monday at the University of North Dakota, has been moved to Park Rapids because of the flooding conditions in Grand Forks.

Northland splits softball twinbill vs. Fergus Falls

Game 1 was controlled by pitching and defense, but Game 2 featured offensive fireworks Thursday in a Northland Community and Technical College vs. Fergus Falls Community College softball doubleheader.

The Spartans won the opener 3-1. The host Pioneers took the second game 18-14.

"The first one was really a good game," pointed out Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "Both pitchers were throwing well."

Northland did come up with 10 first-game wins, then upped the figure to 21 in the nightcap.

"We were hitting the ball all day," noted Nikunen. "We just weren't scoring any runs in the first game."

The split put the Pioneers at 4-6 for the year.

Northland	000 000 1	-	1	10	2
Fergus Falls	000 030 x	-	3	5	0

Pitching - (NCTC) Angie Vagle 6-LP; (FF) Jaclyn Huskey 7-WP.

NCTC offensive highlights - Jackie Magner 2/4, Paula Hovda RBI.

"Steel Magnolias" is offered as dinner theatre production

Dinner theatre production of "Steel Magnolias" has been scheduled for three nights, April 30 through May 2, at 6:30 p.m. at the Thief River Golf Club. Presenting the play is the local production company That's Entertainment, which presented "Nunsense" two years ago and "Nunsense II: The Second Coming" last year.

A 6 p.m. social will precede the dinner with the show to follow. Tickets for the dinner and play are $18 each and must be reserved by calling 681-6604 or 681-4051.

"This is our third year of spring shows," states director Kari Frisch, "and it's nice to see so many people responding to our productions. In fact, we have even received a few requests for next year. 'Steel Magnolias' is a great show and we've had a lot of fun putting it together."

The Robert Harling play is set in Truvy's beauty salon in Chinquapin, LA. where all the ladies who are "anybody" come to have their hair done. Truvy, who is played by Deb Hays, is assisted by Annelle (Bobbie Benson), the hesitant new girl in town. Truvy's regulars include the town curmudgeon Ouiser Boudreaux (Deb Jacobson), Clairee (Sally Erickson), the former first lady of Chinquapin Parish; and M'Lynn (Jan Strandlie), the mother of the bride.

The action revolves around the events taking place in the life of M'Lynn's daughter Shelby (Sara Moen), a free spirit who is determined not to let anything hold her back from going after her dreams. Through her experiences the audience is able to realize the significance of friendship and the healing power of laughter.

"Tinged with both comedy and drama, this play is sure to please everyone," notes cast member Strandlie. "It's not just a play for women. I know everyone will enjoy this show."

In preparation for the production, cast members received a good deal of assistance from the cosmetology department at Northland Community and Technical College.

"The staff and students there have been very helpful in providing props and demonstrating styling techniques," comments Hays, who had to learn many "tricks of the trade" in order to portray the role of beautician extraordinaire.

"We really appreciate all that time and energy they've spent helping us look authentic," added the other cast beautician, Bobbie Benson.

Seating is limited and tickets are reportedly going fast. Dinner includes a menu from salad through dessert with a choice of prime rib or chicken mignon as the entree. Persons who would like to attend are advised to make their reservations as soon as possible.

WATCH AROUND THE REGION

Ag land suffers damage from rivers

Farmers and homeowners are just beginning to realize the economic disasters of the 1997 spring flood as clean-up begins. Many rural Midwest farmers were so busy keeping their homes from being inundated by water that they did not realize the economic damage to their farmland.

Gullys were cut up to 12 feet deep across farmland that was a wheat field in 1996. In other areas, where there were gullies the past summer, they are now filled with many feet of silt, muck and tree roots. The Messenger, Stephen, May 1.

Krolak Hartz Robbed early Monday morning

Krolak Hartz of Stephen was broken into and robbed on Monday morning, April 28. The break-in occurred some time between midnight and 6 a.m. in the morning. When Mr. Krolak arrived at 6 a.m. there were several customers already there waiting and looking over the damage to the store. The front door glass had been removed or broken out and had fallen into the street. Items taken from the store included lottery tickets and a main cash register from the business counter. The cash register was later located behind the former Krolak Tavern building. It had been opened and the cash missing. The Messenger, Stephen, May 1.

School addition begins at LOW

The Lake of the Woods School board authorized the calling of bids for the pool, multi-purpose room and grounds project last Thursday. The advertisement for bids will start on May 22 and be due on June 12.

The process was speeded up to save time, use the summer weather, and get ahead of the flood repair work.

During the meeting, the board went through the plans for the addition and grounds, approved them and then authorized the calling of bids. The Northern Light, Williams, April 29.

Humboldt scrambles to stem the tide

The city of Humboldt rallied to protect itself from approaching flood waters last week as heavy machinery, volunteers, National Guard troops and every available truck rushed in to build an earthen dike around the town and erect sandbag dikes around several homes and businesses. North Star News, Karlstad, May 1.

Warroad pulls together to aid flood victims

Although the tragic flooding seemed many miles away, Warroad residents heard the call for help and pulled together as a community to give to those in need.

"There were people who stepped forward right away," said Warroad Mayor Bob Marvin. Warroad Pioneer, Warroad, April 30.

Sorgaard is Tri-County Teacher of the Year

His fellow teachers at Tri-County in Karlstad have chosen Dave Sorgaard as Teacher of the Year.

For 13 years, Dave has been teaching health and physical education to students at Tri-County. North Star News, Karlstad, May 1.

242 registered at after prom party

Lincoln high school students and their guests who attended the junior-senior prom Saturday, April 26, filled The Club recreation center and later the Elks Lodge rooms for the annual after prom party. There were 242 prom-goers in attendance, according to Day Bylander, exalted ruler of Elks Lodge 1308.

Recorded music for the evening was provided by Ryan Walseth.

Bylander said that contributions to the party were made by more than 120 businesses, organizations and individuals.

"The support that the whole community has given is a true indication of how important this event and our youth are to us," the exalted ruler said, "especially when the region is going through a difficult time with the flooding that has occurred."

This year the Elks Lodge and the Women of the Elks sponsored a grand prize drawing with all students present at the time of the drawing eligible to win. With the help of those in the community who donated cash to the after prom event, a 19-inch color television set with VCR was purchased at Kezar Music and given away. Winner of the grand prize was Lisa Simon.

Bylander said the Elks and Women of the Elks are extremely appreciative of all who donated to the party and/or volunteered the many hours to make the event such a success. Due to the support of the community, more than 100 prize drawings were conducted.

Individuals, business places and organizations which donated to the after prom party include the following:

Ace Hardware, American Legion, Amoco 24, Annette's Fabrics, Arctic Cat Inc., Arnold Avenue Store, Bergan Travel, Best Western, Blue Cross/Blue Shield, Dr. Bryce Bray, Bredeson's Office Supply, Bridgeman's, Dan Bylander, CarQuest, The Club, Creative Clippers and Dakota Clinic Ltd.;

Also Dazzles, Thief River Falls Deer Hunters Association, Digi-Key Corp., Dr. Thomas Dimich, Eagles Lodge, Ekeren Drug, Electronics Plus, Elks Lodge, Elks Past Exalted Rulers, Niki Emmons, Erl's Market, Evans Steel, Falls Liquor, First National Bank and Fleet Supply;

Also Gary Flynn family, Robert Flynn family, Forsberg's Inc., Frito Lay, Gamers' Escape, Gary's Bakery, Green Funeral Home, Rick Gustafson, H & H Sales, Hall's

Fred Penner concerts postponed by flood

Because of flooding in the Winnipeg area which is home to Fred Penner and most of his cast and production crew, the Penner concerts originally scheduled for Tuesday, May 6, at the Lincoln high school auditorium have been postponed.

According to Joyce Froschheiser, director of the Early Childhood Family Education (ECFE) program sponsoring the concerts, Penner has been rescheduled for Tuesday, June 10, with presentations at 5 and 7:30 p.m.

"Everything is the same except for the date," Mrs. Froschheiser said. "Fred Penner does his television show and personal appearances out of Winnipeg, and that is where most of his cast and production crew live. With the flood and threat of flooding in that area, he has informed us that it will be impossible to put the May 6 performance together and travel to Thief River Falls."

Penner's music is directed at children from two to 10 years of age, but his concerts are entertaining for the entire family.

Tickets pre-sold for the May 6 concerts at 5 and 7:30 p.m. will be honored at the re-scheduled June 10 events. Tickets will remain on sale at Kezar Music Company in Thief River Falls until the day of the concert at $5 each. Admission at the door will be $7 per person. All seats for both concerts are reserved. Doors will open 30 minutes before each concert.

Tickets may be purchased in advance until May 30 only at the Early Childhood Family Education site in Warroad (call 218-386-3157) and the Childcare Resource & Referral program in Grand Forks, ND (call 701-772-7905 or 1-800-543-7382).

For more information, call 218-681-8670.

Where were you when the lights went out – and the flood came?

Plans are being made by the Thief River Falls Times to publish a community-in-action segment of the Wednesday, May 21 issue which will include material regarding the recent widespread electrical power outage in the area and more recently the historic flood.

We have accumulated some material written by elementary and secondary students in Thief River Falls and by winners in Diane Drake's "Great Northwest Minnesota (and North Dakota, of course) Blizzard and Blackout Poetry Contest" at Northland Community and Technical College to include in that issue.

But we would like more personal experiences, unique happenings, creative action, stories of good deeds or heroic service. We don't expect literary masterpieces nor novel-length narratives—just a short summary of how the outage or the flood brought out the best (or the worst) in people, how you or they coped with a dangerous or devastating situation, or survived and coped under adverse circumstances.

We will edit your stories for spelling and grammar, if you like, but you may be a better writer than you think. And we certainly welcome items from the northwestern Minnesota area beyond Thief River Falls. All have felt a part of the total area disasters.

Share your experiences. Send your stories to Community-in-Action, Thief River Falls Times, P.O. Box 100, Thief River Falls, MN 56701. But please hurry—we will need to receive them by Wednesday, May 14. Thanks for your interest.

Flood information given to evacuees

Over 150 flood evacuees attended the disaster information meeting held in Thief River Falls Thursday night. Flood evacuees received information and assistance from government and agency officials, and support from numerous individuals including the first lady of Minnesota, Susan Carlson.

Currently, there are over 1,200 evacuees in Pennington county, with over 200 in shelters. The shelter at Evangelical Free Church, a former elementary school, is holding between 80 and 90 evacuees; and Northland Community and Technical College is holding evacuees from the Good Samaritan Center from East Grand Forks, which includes about 70 residents and around 80 staff.

Pennington County Sheriff Gerald Moe said, "The effort in Pennington county has really been overwhelming. It has involved the cooperation of city and county government, hundreds, probably thousands, of private individuals, and many local businesses, such as Bridgeman's/Land O'Lakes, Arctic Cat, Digi-Key, Hartz, the Ministerium, Community Service, Salvation Army, the United Way and now the American Red Cross to name a few. Really, it has been a community effort — one everyone should be proud of."

Jim Mongoven of the East Grand Forks City council, fourth ward, and a residents of the Sherlock Park area, addressed flood evacuees attending the meeting, sharing his thoughts and concerns and latest information about access to the community. Mongoven also brought with him applicants for the $2,000 provided by "Angel".

LHS teams advance to state Envirothon

Two teams from Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls earned advancement to the Minnesota State Envirothon by placing first and second at the Area 1 Envirothon conducted recently at Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge east of Holt.

Teams from six schools participated in the outdoor learning experience which tests environmental knowledge. The state Envirothon will take place Thursday, May 22, at Tamarac National Wildlife Refuge near Detroit Lakes. Two years ago Lincoln's first Envirothon team won the state title.

Members of the first place team from Lincoln are Nate Keller, Stephanie Leach, Josh Hendrickson, Jeremy Seibel and Jenny Brunkhorst.

Second place team includes Lacey Huschle, Cody Huschle, Reid Frolland, Paul Frank and Mike Morris.

Patti Johnson, science instructor at Lincoln, is the teacher/ advisor for all of the Lincoln teams.

Third place team and alternate to the state Envirothon was from Grygla high school and included Jaclyn Haack, Jill Schuler, Erica Holte, Abby Schuler and Keith Nelson. Medals were awarded to members of the first, second and third place teams and a trophy to the first place team.

The Envirothon consists of five outdoor learning stations, each based on a different topic. Natural resource professionals at the stations test students' knowledge of the environment by asking a variety of outdoor-based questions. Each five-member team must also give an oral presentation.

Lincoln's winning teams competed against 14 other teams to earn advancement to the state competition. Also advancing from northwestern Minnesota will be teams winning first and second in regional competitions at Rydell National Wildlife Refuge near Erskine and Itasca State Park. In addition, the top two teams from eight other regional events will participate in the state competition.

Winner of the state Envirothon qualifies for the national Envirothon to be held in early August in Pennsylvania.

Sponsoring the local Envirothon were the Pennington, Marshall, Marshall-Beltrami, Kittson and Roseau soil and water conservation districts and a number of organizations and businesses in the five-county area.

Sponsors from Thief River Falls included the Pennington County Sportsmen's Club, Red Lake Watershed District, Thief River Falls Archery Club, Northern State Bank, Agassiz Audubon Society, First National Bank, Amoco 24, Bridgeman's, Fraternal Order of Eagles and Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company.

Other sponsors were Border State Bank of Roseau, Badger and Greenbush, Roseau River Chapter of the Minnesota Deer Hunters Association, Grygla Lioness Club, Farmers Union Oil Company of Roseau, Roseau Youth Activities Association, Citizens State Bank of Roseau, Two Rivers Watershed District of Hallock, Fraternal Order of Eagles in Hallock, Johnson Oil Company of Hallock, Sistad Trucking of Grygla, Joe River Watershed District of Humboldt, Marshall County Comprehensive Local Water Plan, Grygla Lions, Grygla-Gatzke Area Jaycees, Pembina Trail RC&D and Gitchi RC&D.

The state Envirothon is sponsored by the auxiliary of the Minnesota Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts and the Minnesota Board of Water and Soil Resources (BWSR).

Second place team in the regional Envirothon at Agassiz National Wildlife refuge recently was from Lincoln high school. Pictured from left are, front, coach Patti Johnson, Lacey Huschle and Paul Frank; back; Mike Morris, Reid Frolland and Cody Huschle. First and second place teams advance to the state Envirothon May 22 at Tamarac National Wildlife Refuge near Detroit Lakes.

Here are some easy treats to serve those guests or bake for the family.

Nourishing and filling, these will be a hit of a snack:

DATE-PUMPKIN COOKIES
1 1/2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/8 teaspoon cloves
2/3 cup butter, softened
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup packed brown sugar
2 eggs, beaten
1 1/4 cups cooked or canned pumpkin
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup chopped dates
1 cup rolled oats
1/2 cup chopped nuts

Preheat oven to 375 degrees.

In bowl, combine flour, baking powder, soda, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves and blend well.

In separate bowl, cream butter and sugars together. Add eggs and beat well. Stir in pumpkin and vanilla.

Add flour mixture to pumpkin mixture and stir thoroughly. Add dates, oats and nuts and mix well.

Drop by teaspoonfuls on greased cookie sheets. Bake 12 minutes and remove to rack to cool. (Recipe makes 4 dozen.)

Double this recipe to serve a bunch, but make a single batch for a special dessert tonight:

COCONUT PECAN BARS
1 1/4 cups flour
1/8 teaspoon salt
1 1/4 cups packed brown sugar
1/3 cup melted butter
2 eggs
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
1 1/4 cups shredded coconut
1 cup chopped pecans

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

Sift 1 cup flour with salt in mixing bowl. Add 1/4 cup sugar, then add butter and mix smooth. Press mixture into bottom of lightly greased 8 inch square pan. Bake 15 minutes.

Meanwhile, beat eggs well. Gradually beat in remaining sugar and beat fluffy.

In separate bowl, sift remaining flour with baking powder and add to egg mixture, beating well. Add almond, coconut and nuts and spread quickly over baked crust. Bake 20 minutes, more, or until browned.

Mark into squares while warm and leave in pan to cool.

Here's a chocolate-y treat that makes a big panful, but cut them tiny to make them last:

CHOCOLATE BARS WITH WALNUTS
2 eggs, beaten well
1 cup sugar
2 ounces unsweetened baking chocolate
1/2 cup butter
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup walnuts
1 teaspoon vanilla
Sifted confectioner's sugar

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

Place eggs in mixing bowl and gradually beat in sugar until light and fluffy.

Melt chocolate and butter in top of double boiler over hot water. Remove from heat and stir into egg mixture.

Sift flour, baking powder and salt in separate bowl. Add to chocolate mixture. Add nuts and vanilla.

Spread in greased jelly roll pan. Bake 12-15 minutes. Cool in pan on rack for 5 minutes, sprinkle with confectioner's sugar, and then cool in pan completely. After cool, cut into squares.

For a quick energy snack, try these:

PEANUT BUTTER BROWNIES
1/2 cup flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup crunchy peanut butter
1/4 cup butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup packed brown sugar
2 eggs
1 cup chopped peanuts

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

Sift flour and salt in bowl.

In separate bowl, cream peanut butter, butter and vanilla. Gradually add brown sugar, beating until well blended.

Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each. Blend in flour and then stir in peanuts.

Spoon batter into greased 8 inch square baking pan, spreading evenly. Bake 30-35 minutes, or until center is firm.

Cool in pan for 5 minutes and then cut into squares. Remove from pan and cool on racks.

Food stamps for flood victims

Evacuated flood victims from 21 Minnesota counties and eight North Dakota counties may apply for emergency food stamp benefits at a number of county sites in Minnesota, the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Minnesota Department of Human Services announced. Residents from Big Stone, Clay, Kittson and Norman counties who have been affected by the floods also may apply for benefits in their own counties.

Persons who are not usually eligible for food stamps may qualify temporarily if their home or belongings were damaged or destroyed and they have disaster-related expenses or if they have lost income, food or money as a result of flooding. Eligibility is based on income and resources (the $2,000 per household "Angel Grant" will not affect eligibility for benefits). With emergency food stamps, eligibility criteria is less restrictive and most qualified applicants receive coupons on the same day they apply. Residents who are already receiving food stamps also may be eligible for replacement or supplemental emergency food stamps. Evacuees in Hennepin County will be issued coupons instead of electronic benefits, which is the usual way food stamps are issued in that county.

Six recovery centers open

Six disaster recovery centers are now open to serve victims of the severe storms and flooding that began on March 21. State and federal officials urge residents who have already applied for assistance to visit one of the locations listed below to get more detailed information about the various relief programs, flood insurance and methods of reducing future flood damage: Moorhead at 627 Center Avenue; Breckenridge at Mycogen Feed Store, Highway 75; Crookston at the University of Minnesota, Owens Hall; Ada at the Rural American Bank; Granite Falls at the Granite Falls Public Library; and in Ortonville at the Anderson Tax Building.

All centers are in operation from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. seven days a week. Representatives from FEMA and the U.S. Small Business Administration and other federal, state, local and volunteer agencies are on hand at each location to meet with applicants.

DEATHS

Donald Craig, 56

Thief River Falls — Donald Dean Craig, 56, died Wednesday, April 29, 1997, in Thief River Falls.

Funeral services will be held 2 p.m. Saturday, May 3, at the Church of Christ in Warroad with the Rev. Bob Blanshan officiating. Visitation will be at the Helgeson Funeral Chapels Friday from 6 to 8 p.m., and also one hour prior to services. Interment will be in Pine Hill Cemetery Williams.

To The Editor:

For the past few weeks we've seen the haunting pictures of destruction and loss brought on by flood waters in Minnesota and the Dakotas. Despite their valiant efforts to save their communities, many residents living in the path of swollen rivers of the Upper Midwest have lost their possessions, jobs and homes.

Thousands of volunteers and hundreds of organizations are now at work helping flood victims get back on their feet. Lutheran Brotherhood has created the Challenge Flood Fund to assist in this process and will match the first $500,000 in contributions given to this fund. One hundred percent of all donations received will be distributed to organizations serving the needs of flood victims in Minnesota and the Dakotas.

If you would like to contribute to this relief effort, please send your checks made payable to Lutheran Brotherhood Foundation at P.O. Box 1122, Minneapolis, MN 55440-1122. Contributions are fully deductible up to the limit permitted by law.

Fortunately, most of us will never have to face the prospect of starting over. But by contributing to the Challenge Flood Fund, you can guarantee that those who do face this challenge will receive a helping hand. To those who are able to respond to this challenge, I say "thank you." To those who question whether you should contribute let me challenge you to be generous, knowing that 100 percent of your contributions will go to organizations serving the needs of flood victims. Together, we can make a difference.

Sincerely,
Donald P. Johnson

To The Editor:

In a recent article in the Star Tribune of Minneapolis, staff writer Dean Rebufoni wrote comments from Minnesota Audubon Society president Don Arnosti that, "If we had more wetlands, flooding in the Red River Valley would not have occurred."

Arnosti and Rebufoni wrote a phony story last year about Senator LeRoy Stumpf and are up to their old tricks again. Sheet flooding occurred because of wetlands that were full and ditches and culverts that that were still frozen.

We were flooding around Thief River Falls and Grygla areas last year because Agassiz Refuge, Thief Lake Refuge, Moose River impoundment and Elm Lake impoundment were full of water when snow began melting and it started raining.

This winter we got after these "impoundments" to drain down before spring thaw. And it worked. Four weeks before spring thaw all impoundments were closed off. No water was sent down stream. It seems we helped to lower Crookston's crest by one foot. But to add to troubles, the Corps of Engineers opened Traverse Dam and Ottertail Dam wide open causing the Red River crest to rise. Why???? Didn't they know there was a record snowfall this year? Or was it intentional?

We need impoundment areas that work for flood control and not for wildlife habitat only. More impoundments, run correctly, could work well. Filling flat land and calling it wetlands and making rules so we can't drain them causes overland (sheet) flooding. What holds more, a bowl that is full or a bowl that is empty?

According to a Minnesota climatologist (Greg Spoden), in 1824, 1825 and 1826 flooding of great magnitude also occurred. In 1826 the Red River crested at 66 feet—before roads or drainage ditches were established. And in a document published by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources on April 21, 1997, a record crest of 67 feet was reached in 1852.

The worst may be yet to come.

Sincerely,
Dave Zavoral

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Another Viewpoint On Private Prison Operation

A few weeks ago we published some opinion on potential advantages of having some prisons in Minnesota operated by private corporations under contract with the state, rather than by the state's own department of corrections. Those favoring more extensive investigation of the idea seemed convinced there were substantial cost savings to be made.

We didn't know prison operation was a partisan issue, but we recently received a letter from State Rep. Tom Pugh, a DFL legislator from St. Paul, who apparently sees it that way and disagrees with the concept.

"Members of the House DFL caucus have recently drawn fire from Republicans for delaying action that would have opened the new prison being built near Rush City to operation bids from private companies. At best, I would characterize this criticism by Minority Leader Sviggum and Rep. Knight and others as premature. There are numerous reasons—both financial and practical—why we feel that state correctional facilities like the one to be built in Rush City are better off in state hands."

Rep. Pugh says studies (he doesn't say which studies) have shown that the public feels much safer knowing that correctional facilities are being operated by "a stable and secure organization such as the state department of corrections, and by highly-trained individuals who are knowledgeable in their positions."

He adds that the limited number of states that have turned their prison systems over to private companies have done so with mostly minimum security facilities.

"Correctional facilities under the control of private companies are generally operated with a workforce that is subject to the instabilities of the business climate," Rep. Pugh writes. "There is no way to ensure that the security of privately-operated correctional facilities would not be negatively affected by such things as fluctuations in the stock market, rises or drops in inflation and other changes in the private business world."

If that sounds like a page out of a labor union press manual, Rep. Pugh is also idealistic.

"In contrast to the opinions of the Minority House leadership," he adds, "we feel that the operation of institutions such as correctional facilities is part of the basic purpose and an accepted element of state government. Under the laws of our state and our nation, taking away an individual's freedom is a sanction that can be imposed only by the government. In considering privatization of correctional facilities, we must consider the ethics of delegating such awesome responsibilities to a private, profit-driven corporation."

"Republican leaders have said that a private company could run the state's prisons more efficiently and for less money than state-run facilities, and have circulated estimates of savings that run as high as $1 billion. Many private corrections companies achieve such "savings" (which translate into inflated profits for the private companies) by shifting costs to the public sector, having the state cover liability, health, transportation and other service costs. It's likely that any number of Minnesota's private businesses would be able to run very efficiently and make a considerable profit by using state facilities, all while having their liability and insurance underwritten by Minnesota taxpayers."

Rep. Pugh calls the $1 billion in savings estimate "wildly-inflated" and "a fine example of pure partisan politics on the part of the Minority Leader." The prison opening is three years away and that time span allows for study before a final decision is made.

"Instead of knee-jerk reactions to rumors of proposed cost savings, DFLers have done the responsible thing in holding this bill back for further study instead of rushing the Minnesota taxpayers into an unstable agreement with a private company that may or may not be a good deal. The Republican proposal to have state correctional facilities run by private corporations is an interesting idea, but for Minnesota, it's not a good idea."

Personally, we think the private operation idea is worth further study. It would not turn the court system over to private hands, simply the care and feeding of individuals sentenced to the facility for a given amount of time. We don't think the department of corrections has any exclusive expertise that could not be provided privately.

Going To College—It May Be Intimidating But It's Not Impossible

For graduating high school seniors and their parents, it is getting closer to crunch time when the prospect of attending college and finding ways to pay for that privilege takes on greater reality. Although planning and saving may have been going on for some time by many families, the knowledge that this fall will be "it" can be more than a little intimidating.

According to Robert Poch, director of the Minnesota Higher Education Services Office (you knew the state had one of those, didn't you?), approximately 90 percent of parents expect their children to pursue education beyond high school, but they also feel confused or uninformed about all the options and their costs.

The perceived cost of higher education and the bindings of financial limitations often dissuade parents and students from considering higher education as an option, Poch points out. Many parents worry about paying $15,000 to $20,000 for tuition, when in reality, very few schools actually cost that much. In fact, most Minnesota public colleges and universities charge tuition and fees under $3,000.

"While some parents are concerned about not having enough savings to finance an education," Poch says, "others worry that savings will reduce their chances for receiving financial aid. Not true. Under current law, the maximum amount of aid a student can lose is $5 for every $100 of savings, but the benefits far outweigh this penalty. An investment in a four-year college degree will mean $600,000 more in lifetime earnings for a child than if he or she attains only a high school diploma."

Poch adds that some form of financial aid is available to almost every Minnesota student who wants to obtain further education beyond high school. Minnesota provides about $100 million a year in grants.

Paying for a college education may not be easy, but few things worth obtaining do not require effort and sacrifice. In nearly all cases, where there is a will to get a college degree, there is also a way.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

Three counties added to list

Three counties have been added to the disaster declaration issued by President Clinton on April 8. The addition, sought by Governor Arne Carlson, makes a total of 56 counties eligible for state and federal programs available to individuals, businesses and communities who suffered damage from flooding, severe winter storms, snow melt, high winds, rain and ice.

Beltrami, Douglas and Pope counties were added after the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) reviewed damage assessment information submitted by the Minnesota Division of Emergency Management (DEM). "If damage assessments come in from other counties and the state, FEMA will review adding more counties," John McKay, federal coordinating officer, said in making the announcement.

Beltrami county was declared eligible only for public assistance for debris removal and emergency protective measures. Under the declaration, state and affected local governments and tribal governments will receive 100 percent federal funding for eligible costs for the work related to the disaster.

Douglas and Pope counties were added for Individual Assistance, Public Assistance for debris removal and emergency protective services, and for approved projects to reduce future disaster risks.

People who suffered damage from either Douglas or Pope counties are encouraged to apply for assistance by calling FEMA's toll-free application number 1-800-462-9029 (TTY: 1-800-462-7585). Both numbers are available from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. seven days a week.

Prowlers handle cold, Pirates

It was too cold to play baseball according to the umpires who called Tuesday's Thief River Falls vs. Crookston high school match up after five innings when a combination of high winds and low temperatures created bone chilling, finger-numbing conditions that simply became unbearable. The Prowlers went home with an 11-4 win – their first in five tries this spring.

Thief River Falls head coach Charlie Cornell, who watched his team drop a 12-4 decision to Roseau the day before in a rain-shortened home debut, said the Prowlers played through the weather this time. "We played so well, despite the conditions," he explained. "We had more life. We got into the game more."

The Prowlers turned a 5-3 lead into an eight-run cushion in the top of the fifth. The outburst began with a one-out, two-run single by Nick Swanson.

Nick Stukke walked six but worked four innings for the win. He was backed by an error-free defense.

"We made all the plays," pointed out Cornell. "We didn't do anything fancy, we just played good, solid baseball."

Minnesota Community College Conference softball...

Northland sweeps Vermilion

Northland's offense racked up big numbers against two quality pitchers Thursday as the Pioneers swept Vermilion 14-4, 14-6 in a Minnesota Community College Conference softball doubleheader played in Thief River Falls.

The Pioneers banged out 26 hits in the sweep that put them at 7-8 overall and 5-3 in the MCCC Northern Division.

"It was a turning point-type of day for our freshmen," reported Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "They're starting to come around and are playing better all the time. It takes them a while to become adjusted to college softball, but they did a good job against two of the better pitchers in the division."

Angie Vagle handled all the Northland pitching for the day after Carisa Meyer, the other half of the Pioneers' 1-2 pitching tandem, suffered an ankle injury in the pre-game warm-ups.

The Pioneers, who hosted Mesabi Friday, will close out their home schedule Tuesday with a 3 p.m. doubleheader against Itasca.

Prowlers' bats down Fertile-Beltrami 12-2

Jeremy Swanson hit a three-run home run to highlight a nine-run second inning Thursday as Thief River Falls beat Fertile-Beltrami 12-2 in high school baseball at Irv Wilson Field.

The Prowlers, after scoring just nine runs while opening the year with four straight losses, have pushed 23 runs across the plate in wins over Crookston (11-4), Tuesday and Fertile-Beltrami.

"They're starting to get some confidence," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Charlie Cornell about the Prowlers' recent power surge. "They're feeling good about themselves."

Thief River Falls, scheduled to meet Badger/Greenbush-Middle River and Roseau today (Saturday) in 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. starts, respectively, at Roseau, will be back home Monday with a 4 p.m. game against Red Lake County. The two teams will meet again Tuesday at the same time in Red Lake Falls.

MCC/Tri-County is beaten by Warroad softball team, 19-9

Warroad scored 10 runs in the bottom of the fifth inning Tuesday to pick up a 19-8 high school softball win over visiting Marshall County Central/Tri-County.

The visitors came up with three runs in the top of the fifth to gain a 9-9 tie, but couldn't stop the Warroad outburst in the bottom of the inning that put an early end to a mild afternoon.

It was the second loss in two days for Marshall County Central/Tri-County, beaten 18-4 in the belated Monday season opener by Red Lake Falls.

Scoring/Innings

Men's softball league will meet on Monday

There will be a meeting of the Thief River Falls Men's Softball Association Monday, May 5, at 7 p.m. in Room 134 at Northland Community and Technical College.

Managers should make every effort to attend since this will be the final meeting before the 1997 season begins. If you can not attend, call Mike Carpenter at 681-8859 or 681-8106.

Crookston 10-5 winner over TRF softball team

Ken Fletcher had reason to be down. His Thief River Falls squad had lost its fourth straight high school softball game, and the Tuesday contest against Crookston was played in a jacket-piercing wind that accompanied the shiver-producing 28 degree temperature at the fairgrounds diamond. However, the 10-5 final and the uncomfortable spring weather did not keep Fletcher from remaining upbeat about his team's performance.

"I thought the girls played their best game," he said. "Every game is getting better. They're making the plays, and they're beginning to understand the game better."

The Prowlers avoided a one-inning major breakdown this time like they experienced in earlier losses to Park Rapids Area, Detroit Lakes and Moorhead, but watched the Pirates push a run or two across in all but their final at bat.

"We didn't have any real bad innings," noted Fletcher, "but they just kept picking up runs."

Stephanie Leach did the Prowlers' pitching. She gave up nine hits, but walked only one. "Stephanie did an excellent job," pointed out Fletcher.

TRF boys compete in Bagley/Fosston meet

Fourth meet in five days for the Thief River Falls boys high school golf team led Prowlers coach Dick Tyler to alter his line-up Tuesday for the Bagley/Fosston Invitational.

Most of the regulars had the day off as the Prowlers competed in a 23-team field headed by Bemidji with a four-man 319. Thief River Falls shared 15th place at 369.

John Carlson of Bagley was meet medalist with a 71. John Sjoberg led the Prowlers with an 88.

The annual Thief River Falls Invitational is scheduled to be held Friday at the Thief River Golf Club.

Franklin pool opens May 6

Franklin Middle School pool, after being closed for three weeks for annual maintenance and repair, will reopen Monday, May 5.

School District 564 maintenance staff has been busy going through all the mechanical aspects of the pool, pointed out pool supervisor Kathy Huschle, to ensure another year of swimming at the Thief River Falls facility.

New push-button showers were scheduled to be installed in both the boys and girls locker rooms, but the technology available was not compatible with the existing equipment. The staff of Buildings and Grounds will continue to explore ways to install the water-saving showers. In the mean time, signs will be posted to ask the public to remember to turn off the showers.

Prowler blue and gold colors have been added to the pool area and to brighten things up, noted Huschle, who invited the public to stop at the pool and check out the improvements. Any suggestions from the public concerning the pool are always welcome, she said.

Pool schedule for the remainder of the 1996-97 school year will include lap swimming 6-7:30 a.m. Monday, Wednesday, Thursday, and 6-7 p.m. Tuesday, Friday; water aerobics 6-7 p.m. Monday, Wednesday, Thursday; open swimming 7-9 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday, and 1-5 p.m. Saturday, Sunday.

Registration for summer swimming lessons will begin Tuesday, May 27, from 7-9 p.m. at the pool. Persons can register for lessons any time after that date during open swimming hours.

Community Education summer brochure will be available May 16. Information concerning the summer pool schedule and activities are listed in the publication, explained Huschle, who said the staff is looking forward to seeing you at the pool this summer.

American Red Cross relocates service centers

The American Red Cross will opened two service centers on Friday, one in Grand Forks and one in East Grand Forks. The new Grand Forks Service Center will be located at the Eagles/Blue Line Club Arena, 1900 25th Avenue South in Grand Forks. The new East Grand Forks site will be located at the East Grand Forks Service Center, 300 15th Street NE in East Grand Forks. Hours for both sites will be from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Through its service centers, the Red Cross is continuing to help victims of the floods by providing emergency financial assistance for disaster-caused needs. Families have received Red Cross assistance with groceries, new clothing and shoes, emergency housing, medical supplies, basic household needs and minor home repairs. Red Cross nurses and mental health counselors are also located at the Service Centers to assist with health-related needs.

Red Cross assistance is provided through the use of vouchers to purchase emergency items at a local merchant of the disaster victim's choice. By using the voucher system, the Red Cross is able to channel millions of dollars being spent into the local economy, which is also impacted by this disaster.

TRF students receive awards

Kelly Magner and Lana Pittman of Thief River Falls received awards when the department of health, physical education and recreation at North Dakota state University held its first scholarship and awards banquet recently.

Kelly Magner received the Dr. Denis "Izzy" Isrow Award. She is a senior in the college of human development and education.

Lana Pittman received the Dr. Robert A. Mott Award, which is given to an outstanding graduating senior in leisure studies and community recreational services. She also received the Intramural Sports Director Award given to individuals who direct and assist in the intramural sports program at NDSU.

Shooting Star holds benefit

The Shooting Star Casino will be holding a benefit concert on May 4 featuring Fargo natives, The Blenders. All proceeds will go to the American Red Cross to help in are flood relief efforts.

Show times are 3 p.m. and 7 p.m. in the Cabaret Showroom. Tickets are $7 and are now on sale. Call 1-800-313-SHOW for ticket information.

Janice Dykema to attend local Legion meeting

Janice Dykema, president of the Department of Minnesota American Legion Auxiliary, will be the guest speaker at an American Legion and Auxiliary meeting in Thief River Falls May 6. Dinner will be offered at 6:30 p.m. and the meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m.

Janice Dykema (Mrs. Robert) has been a member of North St. Paul Unit 39 since 1955. She is eligible for membership through her father, Joe Byhoth, who was a World War II Veteran.

Janice has been an active unit member since joining, serving as unit president four times and many other offices and chairmanships.

On the district level she has served 10 different chairmanships and five different offices including district president in 1988-1989.

She has served the department in various chairmanships and as second vice president and as first vice president.

Evacuees get disaster info

Speakers also included Carol Stumpf, Dr. Orley Gunderson, Heather Westlund of Congressman Collin Peterson's office, Arvin Schultz of FEMA, Barbara Jean of the American Red Cross, and Donald Waite of the Small Business Administration.

The disaster information was really an attempt by local officials to provide flood evacuees an opportunity to ask questions directly to agency officials and possibly meet with friends and neighbors they haven't seen since the flood. Several tables were set up in the gym to facilitate the shearing of information and in many cases direct assistance. The Salvation Army, Thief River Falls chapter, was providing fuel vouchers, and the American Red Cross was providing phone cards. A large contingent of FEMA and American Red Cross officials were also on hand.

Other agencies and officials at the information meeting included Inter-County Nursing Service, Northwest Medical Center, mental health division, Early Childhood Family Education, Minnesota Department of Health, and the U.S. Small Business Administration.

Tiffany Holmes

Tiffany Holmes participates in state science fair

Tiffany Holmes, daughter of Roy and Kim Holmes of Plummer and an eighth grader at Pershing high school in Plummer, was a participant in the state science fair held at the Duluth Entertainment and Convention Center April 11-13.

She received a blue merit award on her project which was entitled: "Comparison of Geosynthetic and Compacted Clay Liners." Purpose of the project was to show which type of liner would be more effective to use in facilities such as waste disposal sites.

In addition to her merit award, Tiffany received a $50 savings bond presented by the Association of Civil Engineers as a special award, according to Donald Fox, science instructor and science fair director at Plummer.

Marshall History Society opens on May 7 in Warren

Marshall County Historical Society, located at the south edge of the fairgrounds in Warren, will open for the 1997 season on Wednesday, May 7, according to LaVonne Schmitz, director.

The museum area will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and weekends and other days by appointment. Call 218-745-4803. Special events at the society's facilities such as weddings, picnics and family reunions can be arranged by calling the same number.

Fosston senior citizens meet Tuesday, May 6

Fosston senior citizen club will hold its May meeting Tuesday, May 6, at 1 p.m. in the Embassy Community Center in Fosston. Velda Johnson will be in charge of the meeting. All senior citizens are welcome to attend.

Trinity youth, women hold rummage sale

Youth and women's groups of Trinity Lutheran Church are holding a rummage sale today (Saturday) from 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the church basement. A barbecue lunch will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Proceeds are for the youth trip to New Orleans and the women's ministry through the church. Ten percent of money raised will be donated to flood relief.

SCHAFER'S AUCTION SERVICE
RED LAKE FALLS — 253-4403
LARRY SCHAFER, LICENSED AUCTIONEER — LINUS SCHMITZ, RINGMAN

ABOUT THIS AUCTION:
Ernie and Pam Samson have run a highly successful farming operation despite the fact that both are full time professionals with off the farm occupations. An advantageous career move, however dictates that they liquidate their farm equipment and relocate in order to be closer to their work. Come to this auction fully expecting to take home tractors and machinery that you can go directly to the field with. Farmers and ranchers, we all know that now, more than ever we need to find out where the right kind of equipment is, and then buy it at your price — this auction is that place.

WATCH AROUND THE REGION

By Kathi Carlson

Roseau river on rampage

While the Roseau River was contained as it flowed through the city of Roseau, a few miles north of town it began to overflow its banks and flood some 20,000 to 25,000 acres of land, most of it farm land

It took 11 days for the water to come up, and residents think it will take about 11 days for the river to drop to its banks. This, plus drying time could mean that Spring planting could be delayed into the third week of May.

About 30 to 35 farmsteads, all protected by dikes, are in the affected area. Roseau Times - Region, May 3.

Old Settlers Square Museum to open

The Marshall County Historical Society will be opening the Old Settlers Square Museum at the fairgrounds on May 7.

With only minimal flood damage, the buildings are being cleaned and reorganized in readiness for the summer visitors.

The museum will be open from 9 to 5 Wednesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays with staff on hand. Weekends, Mondays and Tuesdays, volunteers will be there by appointment. The Messenger, May 8.

Fire forces Fosston evacuations

About 600 residents were evacuated from their homes early Sunday when a fire broke out at Minnesota Dehydrated Vegetables.

The fire which completely destroyed the plant was reported around midnight. The six employees who were working at the time escaped unharmed.

The evacuation took place because of the threat of LP gas explosions and involved homes and businesses within a six block radius.

The plant, founded in 1989, employed about 35 people and was mainly used to dry carrots and potatoes. Crookston Daily Times, May 5.

Town and Country Meats sold

Newfolden - As of Thursday, May 1, Scott and Ruth Syverson are the new owners of Town and Country Meats, purchasing the business from Dan and Mary Youngstrand. While ownership may change, Scott says nothing else will be different. New River Record, May 6.

Anglers should find ice-free lake

With any luck at all, anglers should have clear sailing on Lake of the Woods this weekend when the walleye season re-opens.

According to DNR Fisheries Area manager, Mike Larson, "Anglers should do well in Four Mile Bay and the Rainy River. There are lots of fish out there right now." The Baudette Region, May 7

RLC girls' track team to state

Student athletes from Oklee, Plummer and Red Lake Falls making up the Red Lake County True track team earned the right to participate in the True Team State Track Tournament for the third year in a row. The tournamnet will be held in Blaine, MN on Saturday, May 17. The Oklee Herald, May 7

Public picnic set May 19 at Pioneer Village

Co-sponsored by the Thief River Falls Rotary Club and Northland Community and Technical College in cooperation with the Pennington County Historical Society, a picnic extravaganza is scheduled for 6 p.m. Monday, May 19, at Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village on Oakland Park Road in Thief River Falls. Theme for the event is "Down A Country Lane."

The second such event scheduled by the Rotary Club in two years, the picnic is planned as a fund-raiser for the Pioneer Village, operated by the county historical society. Last year the first such event in Floyd B. Olson Park raised a substantial amount of money to benefit the gazebo fund.

Again this year the picnic will feature not only food but good music, with presentations by the Northland Community Band, the Northland Community and Technical College Chamber Choir, Men's Ensemble and Women's Chorus, all under the direction of NCTC music director Les Torgerson.

Tickets for the picnic and musical program are priced at $5 per person, $8 per couple or $10 per family. They are available from members of the Rotary Club and community band and at Kezar Music, Northland Community and Technical College, First National Bank, Northern State Bank and Norwest Bank, all in Thief River Falls.

"We are excited about the opportunity to join with the Rotary Club and county historical society to present our music for a new audience," Torgerson said. "The Pioneer Village is a worthwhile project and

Seek nominees for outstanding senior citizens

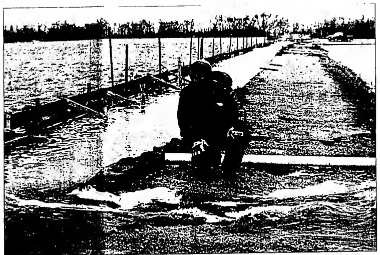
Nominations from county residents are being solicited for the Outstanding Senior Citizens of Marshall county, according to the selection committee chaired by Marion Gusa of Middle River, last year's Outstanding Senior Citizen of Minnesota.

Both a man and a woman who are 70 by August 1 will be selected whose outstanding community involvement can serve as an example to others in the county. They will be recognized at the Marshall County Fair August 1.

Persons wishing to make nominations can obtain official nomination forms from Mrs. Gusa at Middle River or at the Northwest Area Agency on Aging in Warren. Deadline for acceptance of nomination forms is June 1.

Judging will be based primarily on the number and variety of contributions nominees have made to their communities after reaching 65 years of age.

Nominees must be residents of Minnesota. Previous county winners who have not been selected as state winners are now eligible to participate again at the county level.



Doyle Martin checks one of the spots along the township road leading to his farm home where water from the flooding Thief River was breaking through about 5:30 p.m. Thursday. For nearly three weeks Martin has battled the flood, erecting about a quarter mile of plank and plastic diking along the north shoulder of the road, attempting to protect his farmstead located on the south side of the road. He has also run a tractor-driven pump with 16-inch discharge hose for 369 hours to protect his home and outbuildings. A ditch to the left of the planks leads to the river channel indicated by trees in the background. "I thought it was holding pretty good," Martin said, "until the whitecaps started pounding it today." Wave action from a strong northwest wind began to cause washing under the planks, as well as creating breaks in the wall and splashing over it. A shallow secondary dike along the middle of the road had included plastic drain pipes to relieve some of the pressure, but the flow became too great on Thursday. Water was gushing through the road in a wider and deeper flow further east, near Martin's pickup on the driveway leading to his farm in the upper right portion of the photo. The area of this photo is about a mile southeast of the point where Marshall County Road 7 (Agassiz Refuge road) crosses the Thief River. Martin says about 600 acres of his cropland—exclusive of CRP land—is under water and most likely can't be planted this year. He said some 30 square miles of farmland had been flooded by the Thief River this spring. During the peak of the flow, when water was against the north side of the bridge on County Road 7, Mrs. Martin watched a beaver come downstream with the flow, climb up on the bridge, walk across it and plop in on the downstream side. Flooding just below Agassiz refuge continues despite the fact that the river level for several miles above Thief River Falls has dropped substantially. The twisting, partially obstructed river channel between the two points is unable to handle the upstream water.

Geothermal heating is turned down as option for multi-events cultural center

Despite the recommendation of the joint powers board and its architects, the Minnesota Department of Administration has ordered that it proceed with the construction of the Multi-Events Cultural Center and utilize natural gas as its source of heat. The Joint Powers board and its architects had recommended the use of geothermal energy.

During a meeting of the Joint Powers Board on Wednesday, May 7, officials said they believe an evaluation conducted by an engineer for the department of administration was based on inaccurate information.

Darryl Tveitbakk, representative for Northern Minnesota Power Agency, also believes the decision was not made with an open mind or with the facts.

John I. Anderson, Northern Minnesota Power Agency, said it's time people get what they pay for. Geothermal energy is the cheapest and safest energy source available now." Anderson said the "public expects us to act responsibly."

Anderson was considerably upset with the decision by the department of administration and any suggestion that the Joint Powers board give in on this issue.

Thief River Falls Mayor Bob Reeve explained to Anderson that he was really "preaching to the choir," meaning that they were all supportive of geothermal energy.

But Anderson said he wants the choir to sing.

Dr. Orley Gunderson, chairman of the Joint Powers board, said he had visited with Minnesota State Colleges and University (MnSCU) officials and Sen. LeRoy Stumpf about the issue. It was his understanding that to have the state change its mind would require a detailed study. In addition he was concerned that in fighting this battle individuals in positions to exercise power on other funding requests would do so in a negative way.

Anderson said he didn't think there was any danger in doing things right. He also didn't think it would take long to compile figures needed for the detailed study. Some of the figures were already available.

Arlo Rude, superintendent of utilities in Thief River Falls, recently mailed a letter to Sen. Stumpf which outlines errors in the state's analysis. Rude also addressed the issue of a guaranteed cost of electricity for the geothermal heating system as requested by the state's engineer. "The city has guaranteed the rate for the geothermal system to the year 2004. I have discussed natural gas rates with the local gas company. The firm and interruptible gas price varies each month. The cost of natural gas is not known [illegible]. There is no guarantee by the gas supplier as to the amount the price of gas may vary. If guarantees are required for the comfort of state personnel this should be applied to all suppliers of energy for state projects," Rude wrote.

Anderson raised the issue of safety citing an explosion in Fosston caused by propane, which in the case of an interruptible natural gas, would be the alternate source for the 17,000 square foot facility (Wellness Center).

Gunderson said the Joint Powers board had the same concerns, and they were not saying they weren't concerned about safety, "but taking on the department of administration was like taking on city hall big time."

This issue has set the project back another month. Members of the board expressed some concern about getting a contractor the later the project is delayed because of the activity that will take place in Grand Forks and East Grand Forks.

RED LAKE CO. DAIRY PRINCESS
PENN CO. DAIRY PRINCESS

Shana Haglund (center), 17, daughter of Dennis and Nancy Haglund of rural Red Lake Falls, was crowned Red Lake County Dairy Princess Thursday evening, May 8, at the Third Base restaurant in Brooks. Also participating in the combined event for Red Lake and Pennington counties were Wendy Schmitz (right), 17, daughter of Richard and Vicki Schmitz of Red Lake Falls, runner-up and Kelsey Carlsen, daughter of Kenny and Faye Carlsen, Pennington county Junior Dairy Princess. Pennington County Dairy Princess Ingrid Hanson, daughter of Mark and Audrey Hanson, was away at college and unable to attend.

NCTC criminal justice skills course offered

Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls has [illegible] with Hibbing Community College to be the site for Criminal Justice Summer Skills in 1998.

Kevin Stuckey, director of the NCTC Criminal Justice Major, is looking forward to this opportunity. "This is an exciting project for NCTC's Criminal Justice department and very advantageous for our students," said Stuckey. He added, "What we have planned is a six or seven week skills session which will begin in June to accommodate 30 students from Northland, Fergus Falls and Bemidji State University." This skills training is the final step toward graduation. The students will then take the Minnesota Police Officer Standards and Training exam and, in most cases, obtain employment.

The skills training is offered through Hibbing Community College because of the amount of money it would take to offer it through Northland. According to Stuckey, "Hibbing provides a state-of-the-art computerized Firearm Training System (FATS), two fully equipped squad cards and firearms, and other equipment, all of which would cost Northland well over $300,000." Hibbing will also begin soliciting for regional law enforcement officers to provide instruction to the students.

Stuckey had to make several special arrangements to meet the skills training requirements. "We have tentatively arranged to hold the firearms portion of the skills at the Pennington County Sportsmen's Club and we are finalizing plans to conduct the defensive and evasive driving skills at the American Crystal Sugar beet pads in Crookston."

Prior to this change, and until it takes effect in 1998, Northland students had to move to another location, Hibbing or Alexandria, to obtain their skills training.

Northland is the home campus for the criminal justice programs offered in Thief River Falls, Fergus Falls and Brainerd.

Traffic heavy through Warroad port

Warroad is one of many communities who have felt the rippling effects of the flooding Red River.

Due to the flood and closing of the Pembina Port of Entry, Warroad has seen a major increase in the amount of traffic coming through the Port of Entry. Truck traffic has increased from about 80 per day to 400 or more. The increase is expected to last another ten days. Warroad Pioneer, May 7

Flooding affacts farm land in Kittson Co.

Severe spring flooding this year affected just over 25 percent of Kittson County's cropland. Agriculture Extension agent Curtis Nyegaard estimated that 154,000 acres sustained water.

Besides the delay in planting, there is much debris on the land which will require time to clean up. Kittson County Enterprise, May 7

Swedish group concert-May 15

Agassiz Swedish Heritage Society will sponsor a concert by Paul Wilson and Mary Abendroth of Brainerd Thursday, May 15, at 8 p.m. in Trinity Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls.

The duo presents a program of Scandinavian song, dance and humor accompanied by fiddle, accordion, guitar, pump organ and tin whistle. They sing in Swedish, Norwegian, English and "Swinglish" and provide translations and historical context for their songs.

Freewill donations will be received but there is no set admission and the public is invited. Coffee fellowship will follow the concert.

Because of area flooding, the class on Swedish folk art painting to be taught by Ann Nilsson of Minneapolis has been postponed from May 14 and 15 to a date to be determined later.

Friends & Family Welcome!

THANK YOU

Words cannot express the heartfelt gratitude we feel for all of our wonderful friends and relatives during David's year long illness and passing. So many people have given so much of themselves that we cannot ever thank you enough.

All the cards, flowers, memorials, food, telephone calls, support and prayers are very much appreciated and will never be forgotten.

A special thank you is extended to Pine to Prairie Hospice especially DeLoris Larson, Raquel Rakkedahl and Bev Mourstad who provided not only professional nursing services but love, support and friendship beyond the call of duty.

Thank you to Dr. Howard Russell and his staff at the Grand Forks Clinic for always being there for us. Also thanks to Deacon John Elsbrener and Father Dennis for their regular visits, prayers, support and beautiful funeral service.

Thank you to Gordy and staff at Green Funeral Home for doing such a wonderful job of arranging services and giving us so much support during a most difficult time.

We are comforted in the fact that David loved life and lived it to the fullest creating so many beautiful memories for all of us to cherish.

With love and thanks,
The David Bruggeman Family

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Today's recipes have come from the wonderful Redeemer Lutheran Church cookbook. I'm still looking for casseroles to feed my flood refugees, so here are some that sound good:

This casserole sounds a lot like one my grandma used to make and it was delicious:

RANCH CASSEROLE

1 pound hamburger
Salt and pepper
Flour
4 or 5 potatoes
4 carrots
1/3 cup diced celery
1/2 tablespoon minced onion
1 can vegetable soup
1/2 soup can water

Add salt and pepper to hamburger. Form into small balls and roll in mixture of flour and salt. Brown.

Place in bottom of lightly greased casserole. Place fresh sliced potatoes, carrots and celery on top of meat.

Mix soup, onion and water and pour over casserole. Bake, covered, at 350 until vegetables are done - about 1 hour. Add water if the casserole gets too dry.

Oh, something quick and easy - just what I need:

SAUCY FRANKS

1/2 cup chopped onions
1 tablespoon oil
1 (14 ounce) bottle ketchup
1/4 cup water
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon sugar
1/4 cup pickle relish
1/4 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1 pound (8-10) frankfurters or hot dogs
8-10 hot dog buns

Preheat skillet to medium (or use electric skillet - 250 degrees). Cook onion in oil until tender but not brown.

Stir in ketchup, water, vinegar, sugar, relish, salt and pepper. Add franks and lower temperature (220 degrees). Cover and simmer until hot through, about 15 minutes.

Slice and toast buns, butter, and spoon franks and sauce into buns. Serve with a salad and there's lunch or dinner.

Another quick and easy one, this recipe sounds tasty, too - change ingredients to suit your family's tastes:

CASHEW OR ALMOND CHICKEN

3 half chicken breasts
2 1/2 tablespoons soy sauce
3/4 cup chicken broth
2 teaspoons cornstarch
1 cup celery
1/4 cup green pepper strips
2 tablespoons oil
1 1/2 cups snow peas
1 1/2 cups mushrooms
1 medium onion, cut in wedges
1/2 cup cashews or almonds

Remove skin and bone from chicken. Cut meat into strips. Toss with 1/2 tablespoon soy sauce and set aside.

Combine broth with remaining soy sauce and cornstarch, mixing well.

Heat 1 tablespoon oil in wok or skillet. Add chicken and cook, stirring frequently, until browned and cooked through. Remove chicken from skillet.

Add remaining oil and vegetables to skillet and stir fry over medium heat for 5 minutes. Add broth mixture and bring to boil, stirring constantly. Return chicken to skillet, add nuts and heat a minute. Serve over rice.

This tangy dish would be great with baked potatoes, and that makes it easy:

BARBECUE STYLE MEAT LOAF

1 1/2 pounds ground beef
1 cup quick oatmeal
1 egg
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 can tomato soup
1/4 cup water
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon mustard
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Mix ground beef, oatmeal, onion, egg, salt and pepper well and set aside.

Mix remaining ingredients for sauce.

In separate bowl, mix half of sauce mixture and ground beef mixture, mixing well. Pat into loaf pan and cover with remaining sauce.

Bake 1 hour and 15 minutes at 350 degrees.

SWISS STEAK

2 pounds round steak
6 tablespoons flour
2 1/2 cups cooked tomatoes
1 medium sliced onion
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon vinegar
1 clove garlic
2 tablespoon ketchup
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon salt

Pound flour into sides of steak. Brown. Remove to casserole.

Mix remaining ingredients and pour over steak. Bake 2 to 2 1/2 hours in covered casserole and 15 minutes, uncovered, at 300 degrees.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

We need to keep the Minnesota Twins in this state. If they do not get a new ballpark, we will lose them, along with the jobs, taxes and spirit they create. I urge our legislators to support a new stadium for the Minnesota Twins.

Sincerely,
Gordon C. Olson

To the Editor:

Throughout the month of April, Violence Intervention Project sponsored a toy drive for Child Abuse Prevention Month. We would like to thank all the area businesses, churches, and individuals that participated in this project. The Toy Drive was a huge success. These toys have been donated to children in our community who have witnessed or experienced violence, and to children who must leave their home due to abuse. Thank you, your gifts were greatly appreciated!

Sincerely

Greenbush nursing home has celebration

The entire community is invited to join the residents, volunteers and staff at the Greenbush Community Nursing Home in Greenbush to celebrate "Homes for the Aging Week" on May 11-17.

A number of activities have been planned, including a Carnival Day on May 15 from 3 to 5 p.m., which will be held indoors at the nursing home. The carnival will include games/bingo/prizes, fresh lefse, cotton candy, nachos and cheese, hotdogs, apples and caramel, popcorn, bake sale, grab bags, cookbooks, quilt and angel drawing, and free blood pressure checks.

Other events the Greenbush Community Nursing Home has planned for residents, families and the public include: Lumberjack Day on Monday, May 12, 2 p.m. movie; Hat Day on Tuesday, May 13, and a 2 p.m. "Mother-Daughter" banquet at Bethel Lutheran Church; Cap and t-shirt Day on Wednesday, May 14; and a Banana-Split Party on Friday, May 16 at 1:30 p.m.

"Homes for the Aging Week" in Minnesota honors the state's residents of long-term care and senior housing facilities. The theme for this year's celebration is "Powered By the Heart: A Celebration of Age". The theme highlights the wealth of wisdom, joy and love the elderly have to share with other generations and the special role of those professionals who provide care and other services to the elderly.

Greenbush Community Nursing Home is a member of the Minnesota Health and Housing Alliance, a statewide association of nursing home and senior housing providers in Minnesota. MHHA members are dedicated to providing quality care to older persons.

Drawing The Line In Etowah County

"There may be yet another rebellion brewing down in Alabama," wrote nationally syndicated columnist and avowed conservative Patrick Buchanan February 12 in The Washington Times.

"Last week Gov. Fob James Jr. told a prayer breakfast that no judge, state or federal, will be allowed to tear down a plaque of the Ten Commandments from an Alabama courtroom as long as he, his state troopers and Alabama's National Guard can prevent it."

In Alabama and Washington, DC, and throughout the U.S., "them's fightin' words." The governor had slapped the face of the U.S. Supreme Court, thrown down the gauntlet and scribed a deep line in the dirt with the toe of his boot. It was time, he believed, to take a stand.

Buchanan, for all his arrogance and attitude, was not too far off base in his column. His point was, and still is in many questions involving jurisdictional matters, that the issue is power. Who decides?

In Gadsden, the county seat city of Etowah county in Alabama, local judge Roy Moore routinely opened court with a prayer and a scroll of the Ten Commandments was displayed over his bench. This apparently didn't create any problems for the administration of justice in Judge Moore's courtroom—at least we haven't heard that complaint—but it caught the attention of the American Civil Liberties Union which is dedicated to protecting us from religion. The ACLU found a friendly judge in Montgomery County Circuit Judge Charles Price, who said the prayers had to go but the plaque could stay—at least until Judge Price visited Judge Moore's court to decide whether the plaque was displayed as a religious or historical document.

"Belief in majority rule is deeply ingrained in Americans," Buchanan writes. "We will accept laws we dislike and leaders we abhor if the laws are enacted constitutionally and the leaders elected democratically.

"The rebellious rage at the courts arises out of a conviction that we have a rogue judiciary. Millions believe that to reshape society in its own image of what is true and beautiful, the Supreme Court acts dictatorially and arbitrarily, and neither presidents nor Congresses have the courage to put the court back into the narrow pen to which the Founding Fathers originally consigned it.

"The American people were never consulted on whether they wanted school prayer, Bible study or the Ten Commandments out of their schools and all issues of religious belief expelled from public life," he adds. "The edict was handed down, without precedent in law, by a court acting as arbitrarily as a communist commissar."

Buchanan says that in challenging judicial supremacy, Judge Moore can cite presidents from Jefferson to Jackson to Lincoln to FDR and is taking his stand on ground that is strong constitutionally and historically.

There is no question in Buchanan's mind if the Ten Commandments are religious documents.

"Of course, they are," he writes. "They were given to Moses on Mount Sinai. To believing Jews, Christians and others, they tell us what men must do, and not do, to live justly on this earth. They were a foundation of American law. From Sunday blue laws to anti-blasphemy laws, to laws against adultery, false witness and murder, they served as the basis upon which we built much of our early civil code and public life. Who is to tell us they cannot so serve again?

"And if they can be ordered consigned to one's home or church by unelected judges ignoring the Constitution as understood by the men who wrote it, then we have ceased to be the free republic we once were."

Buchanan points out that no less an historic figure than Thomas Jefferson upheld the right of a state to nullify a law that was patently unconstitutional, even if the Supreme Court had approved it. In 1799 Jefferson declared on his own authority that the Alien and Sedition Acts violated the First Amendment. He ordered the release of everyone under indictment or in prison under those acts.

Gov. James told Buchanan that President Clinton would have to nationalize the Alabama National Guard to take down the plaque of the Ten Commandments before he would allow it to happen. We haven't heard of that happening yet.

"If Mr. Clinton eventually nationalizes the Guard and orders it to remove the Commandments," Buchanan concludes, "at least then we will see....that true power has passed forever from the majority to what Jefferson called the 'despotism of an oligarchy.' Keep an eye on that Etowah county courthouse."

Increasing Penalties For The Drunk Driver

"Turn on the local television news or pick up a newspaper these days and more than likely there will be a story about the impact that a drunk driver, usually a repeat offender, has had on someone else's life," writes Peter Bodley, managing editor of the Anoka Union.

As an example, Bodley pointed to four instances of multiple-repeat drunk drivers charged in a two-week period in Coon Rapids. He summarized the cases as follows:

"One had three previous drunk driving convictions since 1992, the most recently in September last year, and he was allegedly driving with a blood-alcohol level of .33. A second had 10 drunk driving convictions since January 1985, the most recent in July 1996. A third had seven drunk driving convictions in the last 15 years and had not had a valid driver's license since November 1986. And a fourth had eight lifetime drunk driving convictions. Three were in their 40s, one in his early 30s, and all had revoked licenses."

Surprisingly, no one was injured as the result of their driving drunk when they were most recently apprehended. All too often, however, innocent people are killed or have their lives forever diminished by injuries as the result of drunk drivers. Thus the effort in the legislature to reduce the blood-alcohol level necessary for a drunk driving charge from .10 to .08 and to increase penalties for repeat drunk drivers.

"Whether this will make a dent in the drunk driving problem and be enough of a deterrent to repeat offenders is a matter of speculation," Bodley writes. "Indeed, one has to wonder whether there is any penalty that would deter the driver who has had multiple DWIs and drives with a revoked license."

Bodley observes that whatever the penalties, they are useless if not enforced by the courts. He questions if all court systems in the state do so.

"When jail time is called for, the drunk driver should serve it, with a hefty fine to go with it," he writes. "It's obvious that after a number of repeat offenses, treatment alone is not the answer. But, ultimately, it all goes back to the issue of personal responsibility—if you drink, don't drive."

Unfortunately, drunk drivers are neither rational nor responsible or they wouldn't drive after drinking. That is what is so frustrating to legislators, law enforcement personnel and the court system. Other than physically preventing people who drink from operating a motor vehicle—or having access to alcohol—it is virtually impossible to eliminate this hazard on the highways. Until a way is devised to accomplish that restraint, needless suffering will continue—and that's a crime.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

Members of the board suggested another meeting with officials. They weren't sure it would accomplish much, but hopefully it would be worth it in the long run.

No action was required on the matter. Paul Sorum, the board's architectural firm representative, said "the state gave us an order — that's it."

Gunderson added "that's not to say it couldn't be pursued for future projects."

The Joint Powers Board needs to have an Amateur Sports Commission set up in the community. The board approved a motion Wednesday to have Rick Nelson, NCTC, Madelyn Vigen, city Parks and Recreation director, and Jim Sims, School District 564 Activities Director, act in behalf of the board to work with the Thief River Falls Chamber of commerce and Jobs Inc. in an effort to establish an Amateur Sports Commission, and prepare a project for submittal to the state under the auspices of this organization.

Members of the board explained that it was their understanding that the chamber had not undertaken the activities of an Amateur Sports Commission because it was understaffed. Board members stated their intent to pursue funding for additional staff if that was the issue.

Nelson has explained that an Amateur Sports Commission would bring more sporting activities and people to the community. On Wednesday he supplied another example of the importance of an Amateur Sports Commission. In 1999, Winnipeg will host the Pan Am Games. That event will draw 41 sporting disciplines, 42 nations, 1,500 referees and judges, 2,000 media, 6,500 athletes and coaches, 15,000 volunteers and millions of spectators. Nelson didn't think they could handle all of the activities within Winnipeg. He intimated that an active organization in Thief River Falls, could possibly attract some of those activities south of the border.

Member organizations belonging to the Joint Powers Board have received awards for their cooperation. Nelson said the city, county and school district received an award from the Governor's Office for their cooperative efforts in regards to the Multi-Events Center Complex. The awards were presented at the Partnership Minnesota Conference.

Agassiz refuge notes Migratory Bird Day

Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge east of Holt will have an open house to celebrate International Migratory Bird Day (IMBD) on Sunday, May 18, from 1 to 9 p.m. The fifth IMBD is officially being observed May 10, but is being delayed at Agassiz due to water, road and other conditions.

Activities for May 18 include four two-hour-long bird tours, continuous showing of a 10-minute-long video on Partners for Wildlife, listening to bird call tapes and distribution of IMBD posters while supplies last.

The bird tours will be conducted in a refuge vehicle in four sessions from 1-3, 3-5, 5-7 ad 7-9 p.m. Call the refuge at 449-4115 before May 18 to schedule a time slot. Five people per time slot can be accommodated in the vehicle.

Many fascinating bird facts will be available for visitors to read and enjoy. Refuge personnel will be available to help with questions on birds and the 100-foot observation tower will also be open.

At this time it is unknown if the Lost Bay Habitat Drive will be open because of high water levels and road damage. It is hoped the drive can be opened by May 16. No other roads are scheduled to be open during this day. Most of the water related birds will be back and warblers will be migrating, providing excellent wildlife observation opportunities. Sixty-five million Americans currently enjoy birdwatching and feeding, generating $20 billion to the national economy.

Agassiz refuge also has on sale, through the Tamarac National Wildlife Refuge Interpretive Association, books, shirts and other wildlife-related items.

This is the first event of the one weekend day per month events that will be held at the refuge this year. Read and listen to local news media for further announcements on the programs to be featured. Those who have a suggestion for a program are asked to call refuge personnel at 218-449-4115.

Recognition of National Migratory Bird Day has been organized by Partners in Flight, an international coalition of 16 federal agencies, 50 state agencies, 35 nongovernment organizations, academia and industry. The event is sponsored by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Forest Service, Department of Defense, National Fish and Wildlife Foundation, Phillips Petroleum Company, Swift Instruments, Inc., Harcourt Brace, Wild Bird Feeding Institute and the National Bird Feeding Society.

This is the fifth consecutive year that IMBD has given recognition to migratory birds of all species, especially to neotropicals, which have had the largest decline in numbers due to degradation or loss of their habitat.

All Nations Cultural Festival has added a German duo to its list of performers for the festival scheduled July 12 and 13 in St. Hilaire. Singing in English as well as German, Die Heimatquelle have found an ever-widening audience for their music. They perform traditional favorites as well as original pieces, displaying writing skills equal to their special talent for creating a gentle fluid sound. The event is being sponsored by the city of St. Hilaire, the St. Hilaire Community Club, KYCK-FM, KKAQ-AM, KKDQ-FM, WDAZ-TV, Hertz Foods and the The Times in Thief River Falls. The festival will also include arts and craft displays, a flea market, and plenty of food and beverage. Food vendors and crafters are urged to sign up early by calling the city clerk's office at 218-964-5257 or write to the City Clerk's office, St. Hilaire, MN 56754.

Author to Speak at Daughters of Trinity Banquet

Tickets may be purchased on Sunday, May 11, at the church between 9 and 10:30 a.m. and after the 10:30 service or by calling Colleen Holen afternoons at 681-6984 or Idella Samuelson at 681-2582. Reservations must be made by 10 a.m. Monday, May 12.

The banquet theme is "The Borning Cry". Guests are welcome.

One time shot Monday for brush pick up

Thief River Falls City Crews will start residential brush pickup on May 27, with one exception. On Monday, May 12, the city plans to collect brush by following the garbage routes, and cover the entire city.

Residents are urged to get their brush out for pick up on Monday. Once they have gone through the city once they won't do it again until May 27.

On May 27, the city will start its regular brush pick up schedule, which alternates from one side of the community to the other every Monday. (If Monday is a holiday, pick up will be done on Tuesday.)

Residents should place tree trimming debris at garbage pick up sites with the cut end facing the roadway.

This service is for homeowner trimming only — not tree removal. If a contractor is hired to perform trimming, the contractor is responsible for removing debris.

Public picnic at Pioneer Village set for May 19

we hope for a good turnout for a lot of fun and support of a valuable community project."

In keeping with the theme of the event, Northland Community Band will play "Down a Country Lane" by Aaron Copeland; a circus march entitled "Rolling Thunder;" two medleys—a World War II era medley entitled "On The Home Front" and a big band era medley entitled "Big Band Signatures;" and an opera overture, "The Good Daughter," by Piccini.

NCTC's Chamber Choir will present "Halelujah" by Robert DeCormier and three contemporary madrigals by Eugene Butler. Men's Ensemble will sing "In The Still Of The Night" and the Women's Chorus will sing "Dance On My Heart" and "The Best of Doo-Wop."

Dwight Tangquist will be on loan from the Thief River Falls Lions Club to prepare bratwurst for the picnic meal which will also include other traditional picnic foods, including ice cream.

Public hearing for NWRDC arts plan set

Artists, arts educators, representatives of community arts organizations and other interested individuals are invited to review and comment on the 1998-99 Biennial Plan of the Arts Council of the Northwest Regional Development Commission (NWRDC) at a public hearing May 20 at 3 p.m. in the NWRDC offices in Warren.

The proposed plan includes program information for applications for local/regional arts development funds and arts council goals and objectives for fiscal years 1998 and 1999.

Purpose of the arts council is to enhance the development of the arts in northwestern Minnesota by providing programs, financial resources and technical assistance. As a program of the NWRDC, the council serves the seven counties of northwestern Minnesota.

For further information or to receive a copy of the art council's proposed plan, contact Mara Lunde, arts council director, at 218-745-6733.

Itasca wins twice in MCCC softball twinbill vs. NCTC

Season-long battle to climb above .500 for the Northland Community and Technical College softball team took a hit Tuesday when the Pioneers lost both ends of a doubleheader to visiting Itasca, 7-3 and 12-8.

Results dropped Northland to 9-10 for the year and 7-5 in the Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division, where the Vikings have swept all four meetings with the Pioneers.

The Pioneers out-hit the Vikings 15-9 in Game 1, but had trouble producing runs. "The key hits just weren't there," explained Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "We wasted a lot of base runners."

Six Northland errors contributed to the second-game defeat when 10 of the 12 Itasca runs were unearned.

"It was a sloppy game," acknowledged Nikunen. "It wasn't a good day for us."

Northland	003 000 0	-	3	15	1
Itasca	204 001 x	-	7	9	2

Pitching - (NCTC) Angie Vagle 6-LP, (ICC) Nick Walz 7 WP

NCTC offensive highlights - Jackie Magner 3/4, Sarah Falk 2/3, Cami Sorenson 2/4

Itasca	202 060 2	-	12	16	2
Northland	003 500 0	-	8	13	6

Pitching - (NCTC) Angie Vagle 7 LP, (ICC) Amy Claussen 7 WP

NCTC offensive highlights - Paula Hovda 3-4, 3 RBI, Sarah Falk 2/3, Jackie Magner 2/4

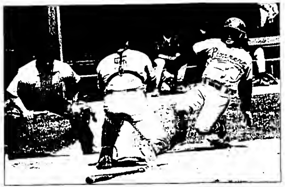
■ Medalist - 1. John Sjoberg, TRF, 36, 2. Chad Nordhagen, TRF, 37, 3. Adam Nordin, TRF, 39. Other TRF scores - Trevor Peterson 40, Craig Lawrence 40, Casey Enge 40, Eric Barber 41, Jonathan Lee 42.

TRF women's bowling meeting is set May 14

Thief River Falls Women's Bowling Association will hold its spring meeting Wednesday, May 14, at 7:30 p.m. at the Family Bowl.

All women bowlers are encouraged to attend. For additional information call 681-4886 during the day.



Northland runner Luke Melquist was thrown out at the plate trying to score from second base on a single by Ryan Bendickson in the sixth inning of Tuesday's Minnesota Community College Conference baseball doubleheader opener against Mesabi. Umpire Norbert Johnson had a good look at the play as Mesabi catcher Chris Markis made the tag to preserve a 3-3 tie. Northland did win it with a run in the bottom of the seventh, 4-3.

Pioneers baseball team wins pair of one-run games...

NCTC takes two from Mesabi

First trip through the 1997 Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division schedule produced a 3-1 start and a 1-3 finish for the Northland baseball team. Tuesday, the Pioneers found themselves heading down the same path when a 4-3, 5-4 doubleheader sweep over Mesabi put them at 3-1 halfway through their second home-and-home go-round.

Northland coach Terry Wiseth is hoping for a better finish this time.

The two one-run wins over the visiting Norsemen found the Pioneers coming from behind for a seventh inning victory in Game 1 and and then hanging on against a final-inning Mesabi rally in Game 2.

"You've got to be happy any time you win two," noted Wiseth.

Chris Vanyo turned in a solid first-game pitching performance and emerged a winner when Wade Hamlin stretched a single into a double to lead off the bottom of the seventh and Brent Eaton put down a sacrifice bunt that wound up scoring pinch-runner Steve Burshe when the Norsemen threw the ball away trying to get the out at third on the play.

A two-out, two-strike, two-run single through the left side by Cory Bowman of the Pioneers produced a 3-3 tie in the bottom of the sixth.

In the nightcap, Northland pitcher Gary Hill took a 5-1 lead into the seventh and easily retired the first two batters before issuing back-to-back walks. Reliever Grant Skibicki was met by a first-pitch, three-run home run by Bob Konkol before getting the final out.

Player of the Week pick

Freshman Grant Skibicki of Northland Community and Technical College (Fordville-Lankin, ND) was named the latest Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division baseball Player of the Week.

Skibicki was 7-for-12 with three home runs, a double and six RBI to earn the honors.

Teammate Mark St. Marie, a sophomore from Red Lake Falls, won the award earlier this spring.

Red Lake County 5-4 winner over Prowlers

Red Lake County turned the tables on Thief River Falls Tuesday, winning a 5-4 high school baseball game played at Red Lake Falls.

The Prowlers won 6-1 when the two teams met the previous day in Thief River Falls.
